Time and Space in Literacy Research Catherine Compton-Lilly, Erica Halverson, 2014-04-24 Literacy researchers interested in how specific sites of learning situate students and the ways they make sense of their worlds are asking new questions and thinking in new ways about how time and space operate as contextual dimensions in the learning lives of students teachers and families These investigations inform questions related to history identity methodology in school and out of school spaces and local global literacies An engaging blend of methodological theoretical and empirical work featuring well known researchers on the topic this book provides a conceptual framework for extending existing conceptions of context and provides unique and ground breaking examples of empirical research Learning Space Jeremy Delamarter, 2025-01-13

As a genre science fiction is uniquely suited for highlighting and modeling the basic tenets of critical pedagogy that branch of educational philosophy and theory devoted equally to 1 exposing the hidden power structures embedded in educational practice and 2 articulating equitable and sustainable alternatives The science fiction novum that is the technological or scientific newness found within the text serves as a catalyst not only within the textual universe but also potentially within the universe of the reader New questions arise Previously hidden beliefs come to light Tacit assumptions are exposed The unfamiliar nova of science fiction can lead to new interrogations of our own all too familiar surroundings causing us to see our previously unquestioned worlds in a new way These new understandings are at the heart of critical pedagogy The learning spaces within science fiction texts can expose the fault lines within the educational structures of the real world Questions about what it means to be human about the proper limits of technological power or about the relationships and obligations of one species to another have profound implications for 21st century educators and learners particularly those who are interested in creating just and equitable learning spaces Learning Space Exploring Critical Pedagogy through Science Fiction draws on popular science fiction stories to provide current and future educators with the language concepts vocabulary and practices to cast a critical lens upon their own learning spaces and their own pedagogical practices For example a critical examination of the way that Yoda trains Luke Skywalker in The Empire Strikes Back reveals a great deal about the insidious nature of deficit thinking assuming that students learn best when they empty their minds and remain passive The assumed hierarchical power structure between teacher and student and the assumed relationship between learners and the knowledge with which they are supposed to be filled all of these are called into question when viewed through a critical lens The more we recognize the injustice in Yoda's pedagogy the more we might begin to see it in our own Similarly Isaac Asimov's classic Foundation trilogy imagines a world in which mathematical modeling and statistical computation are used not only to predict what people might do but instead to determine what they should do This kind of algorithmic determinism is unfortunately common in contemporary education and yet far too few educators and learners recognize just how much of their own agency has been given over to the machines By highlighting the algorithmic inequities in the world of Asimov's text we begin to recognize similar inequities at play in our own world Ultimately this book uses science fiction to highlight educational inequities in such wide ranging topics as standard English literary canons machine learning notions of academic dishonesty epistemicide inequitable school discipline and more More importantly however it provides a framework for moving forward giving current and future educators the critical knowledge and skills both to recognize pedagogical injustice and to create viable just and sustainable alternatives Making Education Educational

Halvor Hoveid, Marit Honerød Hoveid, 2019-09-26 This book is an argument for reflexivity in the act of teaching which means to acknowledge that intention guides the act of teaching Teaching must create attention towards processes of collectivity in the classroom Today teaching is both acts of expressing knowledge and acts of securing justice to all students through a mediation of knowledge Teaching therefore expresses both knowledge with reference to school subjects and justice according to the distribution of this knowledge The authors argue for teaching as the driver of education To pay attention to teaching is to pay attention to that which is inside the system of education To consider education as a mediation of knowledge between generations places teaching as an act of performing the content of education in a class in a school The complexity of these processes is easily overlooked when education is used as a means in competitive economies The approach taken in this text is that deliberations about teaching must be based on historicity The support for this argument builds on a reading of the French philosopher Paul Ricoeur The book addresses teaching as an integral part of the learning process In education today everything seems to be concentrated around learning as if teaching no longer takes place Teachers and teacher educators need a language to discuss and understand teaching both as personal and institutional actions A Ricoeurian approach to a discussion on teaching as a reflexive and institutional practice provides a timely approach to important questions related to teaching in our day and age

Graphic Encounters

Dale Jacobs,2013-08-29 With the recent explosion of activity and discussion surrounding comics it seems timely to examine how we might think about the multiple ways in which comics are read and consumed Graphic Encounters moves beyond seeing the reading of comics as a debased or simplified word based literacy Dale Jacobs argues compellingly that we should consider comics as multimodal texts in which meaning is created through linguistic visual audio gestural and spatial realms in order to achieve effects and meanings that would not be possible in either a strictly print or strictly visual text Jacobs advances two key ideas one that reading comics involves a complex multimodal literacy and two that by studying how comics are used to sponsor multimodal literacy we can engage more deeply with the ways students encounter and use these and other multimodal texts Looking at the history of how comics have been used by churches schools and libraries among others will help us as literacy teachers best use that knowledge within our curricula even as we act as sponsors ourselves How Children Learn Terese Fayden,2015-11-17 The inspirational stories of young learners in this book discredit assumptions behind recent educational reforms including high stakes testing and No Child Left Behind policies The experiences of the American Indian children and the author a kindergarten teacher challenge the widely held assumption that minority children enter school at risk Deficit theory assumes that minority children are responsible for their failure by cultural deficiency or family ineptitude Fayden vividly shows how truly equitable treatment of minority children can improve students inherent abilities to learn and can result in higher achievement for minority and all young children Engaging the Age of Jane Austen Bridget Draxler,Danielle Spratt,2019-01-03 Humanities scholars in general often have a difficult time explaining to others why their work matters and eighteenth century literary scholars are certainly no exception To help remedy this problem literary scholars Bridget Draxler and Danielle Spratt offer this collection of essays to defend the field s relevance and demonstrate its ability to help us better understand current events from the proliferation of media to ongoing social justice battles The result is a book that offers a range of approaches to engaging with undergraduates non professionals and broader publics into an appreciation of eighteenth century literature Essays draw on innovative projects ranging from a Jane Austen reading group held at the public library to students working with an archive to digitize an overlooked writer s novel Reminding us that the eighteenth century was an exhilarating age of lively political culture marked by the rise of libraries and museums the explosion of the press and other platforms for public intellectual debates Draxler and Spratt provide a book that will not only be useful to eighteenth century scholars but can also serve as a model for other periods as well This book will appeal to librarians archivists museum directors scholars and others interested in digital humanities in the public life Contributors Gabriela Almendarez Jessica Bybee Nora Chatchoomsai Gillian Dow Bridget Draxler Joan Gillespie Larisa Good Elizabeth K Goodhue Susan Celia Greenfield Liz Grumbach Kellen Hinrichsen Ellen Jarosz Hannah Jorgenson John C Keller Naz Keynejad Stephen Kutay Chuck Lewis Nicole Linton Devoney Looser Whitney Mannies Ai Miller Tiffany Ouellette Carol Parrish Paul Schuytema David Spadafora Danielle Spratt Anne McKee Stapleton Jessica Stewart Colleen Tripp Susan
