

THE REAL WORLD OF THE IMPRESSIONISTS

Paintings and Photographs 1848-1918

An impressionist painting of a vast field filled with red flowers, possibly poppies, in the foreground. In the middle ground, two figures are visible: a person wearing a hat and a dark coat, and another person further back. The background features a line of trees and a small building under a sky with soft, white clouds. The overall style is characteristic of Impressionism, with visible brushstrokes and a focus on light and color.

The Impressionist

Murders William Sargent, 2012-10-22 Two Arab men are found murdered near downtown Houston, Texas, and detectives Ross Clayton and Leona Stillwell are sent to investigate. These aren't ordinary murders; however, the bodies are arranged to mirror a famous Impressionist painting, and the exactitude of the killing gives Clayton cause to be concerned. He suspects this killer isn't finished. His suspicions turn out to be correct as more men end up dead and similarly arranged. Every victim is of Arab descent, and it's hard to deny the killer must have both some kind of racial vendetta and a love for Impressionist art. Clayton and his partner have no choice but to seek out an expert. Lund Corbel from the Houston Fine Arts Museum sets them on the right path, but their path gets crowded as the serial killer continues the spree. Clayton has solved plenty of strange crimes before, but he's beginning to feel out of his depth, especially following the death of a fellow cop in pursuit of another investigation involving drugs, prostitution, and murder. Soon, two investigations collide, and the end won't be as pretty as a painting.

The Jurisprudence of Style Justin Desautels-Stein, 2018-02-22 In the contemporary domain of American legal thought, there is a dominant way in which lawyers and judges craft their argumentative practice. More colloquially, this is a dominant conception of what it means to think like a lawyer. Despite the widespread popularity of this conception, it is rarely described in detail or given a name. Justin Desautels-Stein tells the story of how and why this happened and why it matters. Drawing upon and updating the work of Harvard Law School's first generation of critical legal studies, Desautels-Stein develops what he calls a jurisprudence of style. In doing so, he uncovers the intellectual alliance first emerging at the end of the nineteenth century and maturing in the last third of the twentieth century between American pragmatism and liberal legal thought. Applying the tools of legal structuralism and phenomenology to real-world cases in areas of contemporary legal debate, this book develops a practice-oriented understanding of legal thought.

Morisot's Modernism and Impressionist

Art Claire Moran, 2025-09-29 This volume seeks to reframe French Impressionist painter Berthe Morisot (1841-95) in the history of art via a focus on the spaces and people that informed her work and thereby offers a new interpretation of Impressionism and of modernist aesthetics. Claire Moran utilizes close visual analyses of artworks, in particular those of family, friends, domestic servants, and acquaintances; textual analysis of Morisot's journals and letters; investigation of late nineteenth century advice manuals magazines and advertisements in relation to Morisot's life and work examination of housing floor plans and gardens and the study of specific household objects that recur in her work and their history This multi pronged method of analysis grounded in Morisot's lived experience will allow a new understanding of Morisot's art to emerge one with the potential to not only highlight the modernity of her aesthetics but also question both public and critical assumptions about Impressionism The book will be of interest to scholars working in art history gender studies French studies and history of design
