Tipping Point for Advanced Capitalism D.W. Livingstone, 2023-09-07T00:00:00Z Tipping Point for Advanced Capitalism is a pathbreaking study of the changing class makeup of the Canadian other G7 and Nordic labour forces since the 1980s documenting especially the rise of non managerial professional employees The book provides unprecedented tracking of the links between employment classes and higher levels of class consciousness including the often hidden political consciousness of corporate capitalists as well as the extent of oppositional and revolutionary consciousness among non managerial workers The large differences exposed between class conscious capitalists and these non managerial workers on issues of poverty reduction and global warming reveal the strategic roles these key class agents play in actions to defend or transform advanced capitalism The most concerted evidence based study to bring class back into grasping the intimately linked ecological economic and political crises we now face

Retooling the Mind Factory Alan Sears, 2003-01-01 Alan Sears examines education reform in relation to a broad process of cultural and economic change His book makes the case that education reform is one aspect of a broad ranging neo liberal agenda that aims to push the market deeper into every aspect of our lives by eliminating or shrinking non market alternatives The author begins by showing that advocates of education reform have had to make the case that the current system is not working This sets the ground for an examination of the so called Common Sense Revolution a claim that drastic change was required to redesign government policies to fit a changing world Lean production methods are a crucial component of this changing world and broader social and cultural change is now required to consolidate the emerging order built on the spread of these methods Education reform is designed to recast the relations of citizenship contributing to the cultural and social change promoted through the social policy of the lean state

Gendered States Ann Porter, 2003-01-01 In the period since the Second World War there has been both a massive influx of women into the Canadian job market and substantive changes to the welfare state as early expansion gave way by the 1970s to a prolonged period of retrenchment and restructuring Through a detailed historical account of the Unemployment Insurance UI program from 1945 to 1997 Ann Porter demonstrates how gender was central both to the construction of the post war welfare state as well as to its subsequent crisis and restructuring Drawing on a wide range of sources including archival material UI administrative tribunal decisions and documents from the government labour and women s groups she examines the implications of restructuring for women s equality as well as how women s groups labour and the state interacted in efforts to shape the policy agenda Porter argues that while the post war welfare state model was based on a family with a single male breadwinner the new model is one that assumes multiple family earners and encourages employability for both men and women The result has been greater formal equality for women but at the same time the restructuring and reduction of benefits have undermined these gains and made women s lives increasingly difficult Using concepts from political economy feminism and public policy this study will be of interest across a range of disciplines

Contracting Masculinity Gillian Creese, 1999-12-15 The history of labour in Canada is most often understood to mean and presented as the history of blue collar workers especially men And it is a story of union solidarity to gain wages rights and the like from employers In Contracting Masculinity Gillian Creese examines in depth the white collar office workers union at BC Hydro and shows how collective bargaining involves the negotiation of gender class and race Over the first 50 years of the office union s existence male and female members were approximately equal in number Yet equality has ended there Women are concentrated at the lower rungs of the job hierarchy while men start higher up the ladder and enjoy more job mobility men s office work has been redefined as a wide range of technical jobs while women s work has been concentrated in a narrow range of clerical positions As well for decades Canadian Aboriginals and people of colour were not employed by BC Hydro which has resulted in a racialized gendered workplace What is the role of workers and their trade unions in constructing male and female work a process that is often seen as the outcome solely of management decisions How is this process of gendering also racialized so that women and men of different race and ethnicity are differentially privileged at work How do males in a white collar union create and maintain their own image of masculinity in the face of a feminized occupation and a more militant male blue collar union housed within the same corporation What impact does the gender composition of union leadership have on collective bargaining How do traditions of union solidarity affect attempts to bargain for greater equity in the office These are the central questions that Contracting Masculinity seeks to answer in this in depth look at a Canadian union

Migrants and Race in the US Philip

Kretsedemas,2013-10-23 This book explains how migrants can be viewed as racial others not just because they are nonwhite but because they are racially alien This way of seeing makes it possible to distinguish migrants from a set of racial categories that are presumed to be indigenous to the nation In the US these indigenous racial categories are usually defined in terms of white and black Kretsedemas explores how this kind of racialization puts migrants in a quandary leading them to be simultaneously raced and situated outside of race Although the book focuses on the situation of migrants in the US it builds on theories of migrants and race that extend beyond the US and makes a point of criticizing nation centered explanations of race and racism These arguments point toward the emergence of a new field visibility that has transformed the racial meaning of nativity migration and migrant ethnicity It also situates these changing views of migrants in a broader historical perspective than prior theory explaining how they have been shaped by a changing relationship between race and territory that has been unfolding for several hundred years and which crystallizes in the late colonial era

A comparative study of elite English-medium schools, public schools, and Islamic madaris in contemporary Pakistan Akhtar Hassan Malik,2015-04-12

This ethnographic study examines the role of differing school knowledge in reproducing various social classes in the society It was observed that an unequal availability of capital resources agents class habitus and the type of their cultural currency act as selection mechanisms that clearly favour some social groups over others The ruling classes ensure the transfer of their power and privilege to their children by providing them with quality education in elite schools The disadvantaged classes are excluded from these unique institutions by both social and economic sanctions They have no other option than to educate their children either in public schools or Islamic madaris As a result inequitable educational opportunities consolidate the existing social class hierarchy
