Daniel Shank Cruz, 2023-10-30 Ethics for Apocalyptic Times is about the role literature can play in helping readers cope with our present day crises including the COVID 19 pandemic climate change and the shift toward fascism in global politics Using the lens of Mennonite literature and their own personal experience as a culturally Mennonite queer Latinx person Daniel Shank Cruz investigates the age old question of what literature's role in society should be and argues that when we read literature theapoetically we can glean a relational ethic that teaches us how to act in our difficult times In this book Cruz theorizes theapoetics a feminist reading strategy that reveals the Divine via literature based on lived experiences and extends the concept to show how it is queer decolonial and equally applicable to secular and religious discourse Cruz's analysis focuses on Mennonite literature including Sofia Samatar's short story collection Tender and Miriam Toew's novel Women Talking but also examines a non Mennonite text Samuel R Delany's novel The Mad Man alongside practices of haiku and tarot to show how reading theapoetically is transferable to other literary traditions Weaving together close reading and personal narrative this pathbreaking book makes a significant and original contribution to the field of Mennonite literary studies Cruz's arguments will also be appreciated by literary scholars interested in queer theory and the role of literature in society

Greatest Hits Jeff Gundy, 2003-07 Queering Mennonite Literature Daniel Shank Cruz, 2019-01-27 Though the terms queer and Mennonite rarely come into theoretical or cultural contact over the last several decades writers and scholars in the United States and Canada have built a body of queer Mennonite literature that shifts these identities into conversation In this volume Daniel Shank Cruz brings this growing genre into a critical focus bridging the gaps between queer theory literary criticism and Mennonite literature Cruz focuses his analysis on recent Mennonite authored literary texts that espouse queer theoretical principles including Christina Penner s Widows of Hamilton House Wes Funk s Wes Side Story and Sofia Samatar s Tender These works argue for the existence of a queer Mennonite identity on the basis of shared values a commitment to social justice a rejection of binaries the importance of creative approaches to conflict resolution and the practice of mutual aid especially in resisting oppression Through his analysis Cruz encourages those engaging with both Mennonite and queer literary criticism to explore the opportunity for conversation and overlap between the two fields By arguing for engagement between these two identities and highlighting the aspects of Mennonitism that are inherently queer Cruz gives much needed attention to an emerging subfield of Mennonite literature This volume makes a new and important intervention into the fields of queer theory literary studies Mennonite studies and religious studies Scattering Point Jeff Gundy, 2012-02-01 Part memoir part family history part meditation on history and the present this work of creative nonfiction allows Jeff Gundy to ask what it should mean to live in the world but not of it as the traditional Mennonite saying recommends As Scattering Point moves through time and space it repeatedly questions how a modern assimilated Mennonite poet and professor might live with some kind of fidelity to his tradition and to the promises and griefs of contemporary life Scattering Point takes its title from Scattering Point Creek which has its source on the author s family farm in Illinois This book explores that place while also ranging widely from it and the Amish and Mennonites who have been associated with the area for nearly the last century. It traverses the Illinois prairie to churches and caves in Europe and incorporates family stories, soil geology, the architecture of cathedrals and churches, reflections on depression and Mennonite martyrdoms and schisms. Scattering Point speaks of the great questions of history and religion, the quiet lives of Amish and Mennonite men and women whose histories are almost forgotten and of our lives today. Readers of all backgrounds will see something of themselves in Jeff Gundy who writes, "I must admit it, I do love this world and many things in it, and whose quest is always for understanding that will allow us to go back into the world more able to undertake the difficult work of loving it as we should." A Cappella Ann Elizabeth Hostetler, 2003. As an intricate choral music lovingly arranged, this gathering makes manifest a rich community of accomplished voices, a community whose immediate concerns are various, whose informing circumstances diverge but whose common chord remains apprehensible and compelling: a long devotion to peace, attaining to a concurrent devotion to beauty.

Tongue Screws and Testimonies Kirsten Eve Beachy, 2010-11-01. From the publisher of Martyrs Mirror comes this refreshing, reflective, heartbreaking, humorous, and sometimes irreverent anthology of poems, creative essays, and fiction by new and noted authors with connections to the Anabaptist tradition. Featuring writers such as Rudy Wiebe, Di Brandt, Jeff Gundy, Jean Janzen, Julia Kasdorf, John Ruth Rhoda, Janzen, and others, Tongue Screws and Testimonies shows how stories from Martyrs Mirror intersect with the lives of writers and their characters and how these stories continue to have a powerful hold on faith, life, and imagination today. Collected and edited by Kirsten Eve Beachy, who teaches writing at Eastern Mennonite University, Tongue Screws and Testimonies challenges readers to consider the implications of Martyrs Mirror in their own lives. Tongue Screws and Testimonies is for the young woman who remembers hiding behind the couch at her grandparents' house to look at Jan Luykens engravings and who still gets chills thinking about it. It is for the man who, drawn into a Mennonite congregation in middle age, is trying to get a grasp of Anabaptist history. It will serve as a conversation starter with theologians of many traditions who are concerned with the difficulties of living faithfully. Kirsten Eve Beachy.

Making Poems Todd F. Davis, Erin Murphy, 2010-02-02. Contemporary poets offer behind-the-scenes perspectives on the poetic process.

Teaching Peace Denny J. Weaver, Gerald Biesecker-Mast, 2003-09-08. This book opens a new frontier in understanding nonviolence. Discussions of peace and nonviolence usually focus on either moral theory or practical dimensions of applying nonviolence in conflict situations. Teaching Peace carries the discussion of nonviolence beyond ethics and into the rest of the academic curriculum. This book isn't just for religion or philosophy teachers; it is for all educators. Teaching Peace begins with a discussion rooted in Christian theology where nonviolence is so central and important. But it is clear that there are other paths to nonviolence and that one certainly doesn't have to be a Christian to practice nonviolence. The pieces that follow therefore show how a nonviolent perspective impacts disciplines across the curriculum, from acting to biology to mathematics to psychology.

For a Church to Come Peter C. Blum, 2013-03-05 Taking a cue from one of the most famous postmodern thinkers Friedrich Nietzsche the essays in this book put forth experiments in thought rather than arguments for fixed conclusions Blum brings John Howard Yoder to the same table with Nietzsche Michel Foucault and Jacques Derrida and provides a provocative glimpse of what the resulting conversation might look like As Anne Lamott and others have recently insisted faith is not the opposite of doubt but of certainty Blum's essays explore some of our commonly held ways of talking about knowledge meaning commitment and action He suggests that some postmodern theoretical work often dismissed or assumed to be anti Christian is well worth bringing into contemporary Anabaptist Mennonite conversations about discipleship and corporate life Part of the Polyglossia series this book is intended for conversation among academics ministers and laypersons regarding knowledge beliefs and practices of the Christian faith Witness, 2003 Presents nationally known writers as well as new talent and highlights the role of the modern writer as witness

Precision Cosmology with Galaxy Cluster Surveys Hao-Yi Wu, 2011 The acceleration of the universe which is often attributed to dark energy has posed one of the main challenges to fundamental physics Galaxy clusters provide one of the most sensitive probes of dark energy because their abundance reflects the growth rate of large scale structure and the expansion rate of the universe Several large galaxy cluster surveys will soon provide tremendous statistical power to constrain the properties of dark energy however the constraining power of these surveys will be determined by how well systematic errors are controlled Of these systematic errors the dominant one comes from inferring cluster masses using observable signals of clusters the so called observable mass distribution This thesis focuses on extracting dark energy information from forthcoming large galaxy cluster surveys including how we maximize the cosmological information how we control important systematics and how precisely we need to calibrate theoretical models We study how multi wavelength follow up observations can improve cluster mass calibration in optical surveys We also investigate the impact of theoretical uncertainties in calibrating the spatial distributions of galaxy clusters on dark energy constraints In addition we explore how the formation history of galaxy clusters impacts the self calibration of cluster mass In addition we use N body simulations to develop a new statistical sample of cluster size halos in order to further understand the observable mass distribution We study the completeness of subhalos in our cluster sample by comparing them with the satellite galaxies in the Sloan Digital

Sky Survey We also study how subhalo selections impact the inferred correlation between formation time and optical mass tracers including cluster richness and velocity dispersion The Georgia Review ,2002 Bottom Dog Press
