Ackerman, David J. Coogan, 2013-03-15 The Public Work of Rhetoric presents the art of rhetorical techn as a contemporary praxis for civic engagement and social change which is necessarily inclusive of people inside and outside the academy In this provocative call to action editors John M Ackerman and David J Coogan along with seventeen other accomplished contributors offer case studies and criticism on the rhetorical practices of citizen scholars pursuing democratic ideals in diverse civic communities with partnerships across a range of media institutions exigencies and discourses Challenging conventional research methodologies and the traditional insularity of higher education these essays argue that civic engagement as a rhetorical act requires critical attention to our notoriously veiled identity in public life to our uneasy affiliation with democracy as a public virtue and to the transcendent powers of discourse and ideology This can be accomplished the contributors argue by building on the compatible traditions of materialist rhetoric and community literacy two vestiges of rhetoric s dual citizenship in the fields of communication and English This approach expresses a collective desire in rhetoric for more politically responsive scholarship more visible impact in public life and more access to the critical spaces between universities and their communities The compelling case studies in The Public Work of Rhetoric are located in inner urban and postindustrial communities where poverty is the overriding concern in afterschool and extracurricular alternatives that offer new routes to literate achievement in new media and digital representations of ethnic cultures designed to promote chosen identities in neighborhoods and scientific laboratories where race is the dominant value and in the policy borderlands between universities and the communities they serve Through these studies and accounts the contributors champion the notion that the public work of rhetoric is the tough labor of gaining access and trust learning the codes and histories of communities locating the situations in which rhetorical expertise is most effective and in many cases jointly defining the terms for gauging social change Rhetoric and Pedagogy Winifred Bryan Horner, Michael Leff, Robert Gaines, Jean Dietz Moss, Beth S. Post-9/11 American Presidential Rhetoric Colleen Elizabeth Kelley, 2008-01-01 Post 9 11 American Presidential Rhetoric examines the communication offensive orchestrated by George W Bush and the members of his administration between the initial terrorism crisis of September 11 2001 and the March 20 2003 invasion of Iraq Colleen

Elizabeth Kelley argues that the president relied on a set of particular strategies that coalesced into protofascist talk in order to discursively manage the post 9 11 situation and justify its 2003 war against Iraq This book suggests a framework for analyzing emergent fascist public discourse and its potential for producing additional substantial antidemocratic speech and action Kelley further reviews the role of the media in conveying President Bush s rhetorical doctrine to the American public The rhetoric of democratic discourse is presented as a firewall to guarantee that such speech based behaviors which are endorsed by willing publics and developed within democracies fail to thrive and do not destroy the very systems that enabled them in the first place Post 9 11 American Presidential Rhetoric is a stimulating text that will strike up discussion among scholars of political communication and those interested in cultural studies Preaching the New Testament as Rhetoric

Tim MacBride,2014-11-05 Since the rise of the New Homiletic a generation ago it has been recognized that sermons not only say something to listeners they also do something A truly expository sermon will seek not merely to say what the biblical text said but also to do what the biblical text did in the lives of its original audience In Preaching the New Testament as Rhetoric MacBride looks how at the discipline of rhetorical criticism can help preachers discern the function of a New Testament text in its original setting as a means of crafting a sermon that can function similarly in contemporary contexts Focusing on the letters of Paul he shows how understanding them in light of Greco Roman speech conventions can suggest ways by which preachers can communicate not just the content of the letters but also their function In this way the power of the text itself can be harnessed leading to sermons that inform and most importantly transform Organizational Rhetoric Mary F.
