Smith, 2013-02-01 Britain's maritime tradition is well documented The management of its marine and coastal environment is therefore of tantamount importance and offers lessons for other nations across the world The beginning of the new millennium marks a major long term turning point in the historical development of Britain's maritime interest discernible by continued diversification and intensification in the uses of the sea unprecedented and often adverse environmental impacts engendered by these uses and the beginning of a major effort to establish a comprehensive management system which can deal with both multiple uses and environmental impacts This collection featuring an impressive list of contributors covers themes including maritime history environmental issues public policy tourism technology and resources as well as open sea development and management It is a useful addition for those interested in geography the environment maritime studies and also engineering Devolution, Law Making and the Constitution Robert Hazell, Richard Rawlings, 2015-12-01 Law making is a primary function of government and how well the three devolved UK legislatures exercise this function will be a crucial test of the whole devolution project This book provides the first systematic study and authoritative data to start that assessment It represents the fruits of a four year collaboration between top constitutional lawyers from Scotland Wales and Northern Ireland and leading researchers in UCL's Constitution Unit The book opens with detailed studies of law making in the period 1999-2004 in the Scottish Parliament and the Assemblies in Wales and Northern Ireland and how they interact with Westminster Later contributions look at aspects of legislative partnership in the light of the UK's strongly asymmetric devolutionary development and also explain the unexpected impact of devolution on the courts Individual chapters focus on various constitutional aspects of law making examining the interplay of continuity and change in political legal and administrative practice and the competing pressures for convergence and divergence between the different parliaments and assemblies This book is essential reading for academics and students in law and in politics and for anyone interested in the constitutional and legal aspects of UK devolution not least the practitioners and policymakers in London Edinburgh Cardiff and Belfast Scotland's Road to Independence Alan W. Ertl, 2013-11 This book surveys elements that have influenced the Scottish people over time and led to the formation of a distinct sui generis identity The modern state is an amalgam of people who inhabit a specific given territory people whose thinking has been formed by circumstances and events which over time forge a collective identity and establish self expression and determination Environmental happenstances the genetic and intellectual makeup of the people the overcoming of common challenges and the interpretation of historical events all play a role in the development of this collective thinking forming the modern mental structure of a given population In the case of the Scots these elements have created an endemic view of the world that is unique and recognizable This text identifies these influences and traces their development through time as they formed the self felt identity of the modern nation which has inherited the territory of Scotland Reviewed herein are some of the main factors which have provoked a natural and correct desire for an independent state in Europe a Scotland for the Scots Issues in Green Criminology Piers Beirne, Nigel South, 2013-09-05 Explores the ways in which governments transnational corporations military apparatuses and ordinary people routinely harm environments other animals and humanity Whaur Extremes Meet Catriona M.M. of songs relate to the immediate environment of coastal inhabitants How and why has gospel singing in coastal communities changed These questions are answered with comprehensive reference to interview material fieldnotes videography and audio field recordings As one of the first pieces of ethnomusicological research into sacred music performance in Scotland this ethnography draws important parallels between practices in the North East and elsewhere in the British Isles and across the globe
