REDESIGNING WOMEN Amanda D. Lotz, 2010-10-01 In the 1990s American television audiences witnessed an unprecedented rise in programming devoted explicitly to women. Cable networks such as Oxygen Media, Women's Entertainment Network and Lifetime targeted a female audience and prime time dramatic series such as Buffy the Vampire Slayer, Judging Amy, Gilmore Girls, Sex and the City and Ally McBeal empowered heroines: single career women and professionals struggling with family commitments and occupational demands. After establishing this phenomenon's significance, Amanda D. Lotz explores the audience profile, the types of narrative and characters that recur and changes to the industry landscape in the wake of media consolidation and a profusion of channels. Employing a cultural studies framework, Lotz examines whether the multiplicity of female-centric networks and narratives renders certain gender stereotypes uninhabitable and how new dramatic portrayals of women have redefined narrative conventions. Redesigning Women also reveals how these changes led to narrowcasting or the targeting of a niche segment of the overall audience and the ways in which the new sophisticated portrayals of women inspire sympathetic identification while also commodifying viewers into a marketable demographic for advertisers.

A Taste for Gardening Lisa Taylor, 2016-03-16 Is the garden a consumption site where identities are constructed? Do gardeners make aesthetic choices according to how they are positioned by class and gender? This book presents the first scholarly analysis of the relationship between media interest in gardening and cultural identities. With an examination of aesthetic dispositions as a symbolic mode of communication closely aligned to people's identities and drawing on ethnographic data gathered from encounters with gardeners, this book maps a typology of gardening taste, revealing that gardening, how plants are chosen, planted and cared for, is a classed and gendered practice manifested in specific types of visual aesthetics. This timely and original book develops a new area within cultural studies while contributing to debates about lifestyle and lifestyle media consumption, class and methodology. A must read for anybody concerned with or intrigued by the cultural construction of identification practices.
