History, or The Wind in the Trees Christian Keathley,2005-11-24 Cinephilia and History or The Wind in the Trees is in part a history of cinephilia in part an attempt to recapture the spirit of cinephilia for the discipline of film studies and in part an experiment in cinephilic writing Cinephiles have regularly fetishized contingent marginal details in the motion picture image the gesture of a hand the wind in the trees Christian Keathley demonstrates that the spectatorial tendency that produces such cinematic encounters a viewing practice marked by a drift in visual attention away from the primary visual elements on display in fact has clear links to the origins of film as defined by Andr Bazin Roland Barthes and others Keathley explores the implications of this ontology and proposes the cinephiliac anecdote as a new type of criticism a method of historical writing that both imitates and extends the experience of these fugitive moments

Treacey, 2016-02-26 Reframing the Past traces what historians have written about film and television from 1898 until the early 2000s Mia Treacey argues that historical engagement with film and television should be reconceptualised as Screened History an interdisciplinary international field of research to incorporate and replace what has been known as History and Film It draws from the fields of Film Television and Cultural Studies to critically analyse key works and connect past scholarship with contemporary research Reconsidered as Screened History the works of Pierre Sorlin Marc Ferro John O Connor Robert Rosenstone and Robert Toplin are explored alongside lesser known but equally important contributions This book identifies a number of common themes and ideas that have been explored by historians for decades the use of history on film and television as a way to teach the past the challenge of filmic and televisual history to more traditional historiography and an ongoing battle to find an appropriate historical way to engage with Film Studies and Theory Screened History offers an approach to exploring History Film and Television that allows room for future developments while connecting them to a rich and diverse body of past scholarship Combining a narrative of historical research on film and television over the past century with a reconceptualisation of the field as Screened History Reframing the Past is essential reading both for established scholars of History and Film Film History and other related disciplines and to students new to the field
