Seeking The Best:

40 Years of Research on Rent Seeking 1 Roger D. Congleton, Arye L. Hillman, Kai A. Konrad, 2008-08-01 The last survey of the rent seeking literature took place more than a decade ago. Since that time a great deal of new research has been published in a wide variety of journals covering a wide variety of topics. The scope of that research is such that very few researchers will be familiar with more than a small part of contemporary research and very few libraries will be able to provide access to the full breadth of that research. This two volume collection provides an extensive overview of 40 years of rent seeking research. The volumes include the foundational papers many of which have not been in print for two decades. They include recent game theoretic analyses of rent seeking contests and also applications of the rent seeking concepts and methodology to economic regulation, international trade policy, economic history, political competition and other social phenomena. The new collection is more than twice as large as any previous collection and both updates and extends the earlier surveys. Volume I contains previously published research on the theory of rent seeking contests which is an important strand of contemporary game theory. Volume II contains previously published research that uses the theory of rent seeking to analyze a broad range of public policy and social science topics. The editors spent more than a year assembling possible papers and although the selections fill two large volumes many more papers could have been included.

Seeking God in Science Bradley Monton, 2009-07-20 The doctrine of intelligent design is often the subject of acrimonious debate. Seeking God in Science cuts through the rhetoric that distorts the debates between religious and secular camps. Bradley Monton, a philosopher of science and an atheist, carefully considers the arguments for intelligent design and argues that intelligent design deserves serious consideration as a scientific theory. Monton also gives a lucid account of the debate surrounding the inclusion of intelligent design in public schools and presents reasons why students' science education could benefit from a careful consideration of the arguments for and against it.

Seeking the Self Satomi Ishikawa, 2007 This book is about the self in contemporary Japan. In contrast to Euro American cultures in which the self is considered to be the essence of personhood, in Japanese culture the self is constantly reconstructed in relation to others. This particular self is studied by examining the ways popular culture is consumed with a special focus on manga, the Japanese word for comics and cartoons. The first part of the book contains an ethnographic research in which the author investigates the relationship between popular media and the search for self knowledge. In the second part a historical analysis traces the development of self seeking in Japan since the country's modernisation period.

Alexandria Walton Radford, 2013-05-02 Most of us think that valedictorians can write their own ticket By reaching the top of their class they have proven their merit so their next logical step should be to attend the nation's very best universities Yet in Top Student Top School Alexandria Walton Radford of American Institutes for Research reveals that many valedictorians do not enroll in prestigious institutions Employing an original five state study that surveyed nine hundred public high school valedictorians she sets out to determine when and why valedictorians end up at less selective schools showing that social class makes all the difference Radford traces valedictorians' paths to college and presents damning evidence that high schools do not provide sufficient guidance on crucial factors affecting college selection such as reputation financial aid and even the application process itself Left in a bewildering environment of seemingly similar options many students depend on their parents for assistance and this allows social class to rear its head and have a profound impact on where students attend Simply put parents from less affluent backgrounds are far less informed about differences in colleges quality the college application process and financial aid options which significantly limits their child's chances of attending a competitive school even when their child has already managed to become valedictorian Top Student Top School pinpoints an overlooked yet critical juncture in the education process one that stands as a barrier to class mobility By focusing solely on valedictorians it shows that students' paths diverge by social class even when they are similarly well prepared academically and this divergence is traceable to specific failures by society failures that we can and should address Watch an interview of Alexandria Walton Radford discussing her book here <http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=F81c1D1BpY0> Strategic Management David E.
