The Walleye War Larry Nesper, 2002-01-01 For generations the Ojibwe bands of northern Wisconsin have spearfished spawning walleyed pike in the springtime The bands reserved hunting fishing and gathering rights on the lands that would become the northern third of Wisconsin in treaties signed with the federal government in 1837 1842 and 1854 Those rights however would be ignored by the state of Wisconsin for more than a century When a federal appeals court in 1983 upheld the bands off reservation rights a deep and far reaching conflict erupted between the Ojibwe bands and some of their non Native neighbors Starting in the mid 1980s protesters and supporters flocked to the boat landings of lakes being spearfished Ojibwe spearfisher men were threatened stoned and shot at Peace and protest rallies marches and ceremonies galvanized and rocked the local communities and reservations and individuals and organizations from across the country poured into northern Wisconsin to take sides in the spearfishing dispute From the front lines on lakes to tense behind the scenes maneuvering on and off reservations The Walleye War tells the riveting story of the spearfishing conflict drawing on the experiences and perspectives of the members of the Lac du Flambeau reservation and an anthropologist who accompanied them on spearfishing expeditions We learn of the historical roots and cultural significance of spearfishing and off reservation treaty rights and we see why many modern Ojibwes and non Natives view them in profoundly different ways We also come to understand why the Flambeau tribal council and some tribal members disagreed with the spearfishermen and pursued a policy of negotiation with the state to lease the off reservation treaty rights for fifty million dollars Fought with rocks and metaphors The Walleye War is the story of a Native people's struggle for dignity identity and self preservation in the modern world

Political Spirituality for a Century of Water Wars James W. Perkinson, 2019-04-11 This book offers resources for re imagining the biblical vision of water for a time quickly emerging as the century of water wars It takes its urgency from the author s 5 year activist engagement with a grass roots led social movement pushing back on Detroit water shutoffs as global climate crises intensify Concerned with both white supremacist biopolitics and continuing settler colonial reliance on the Doctrine of Christian Discovery and beholden to an interreligious methodology of crossing over and coming back the text creatively re reads the biblical tradition under tutelage to the mythologies and practices of various indigenous cultures Algonquian Huron Haitian Vodouisant and Celtic Norman whose embrace of water is animate and spiritual as well as political and communal Not enough today merely to engage the political battle over water rights however indigenous wisdom and biblical prophecy alike insist that recovery of water spirituality is central to a sustainable future

Children of the Seventh Fire Lisa A. Hart, 2011 This book is written primarily for young readers aged 9 to 11 years but is also of value to their teachers friends and families This story follows a group of elementary school students as they travel to a nearby Indian reservation to join with Indian children and hear an Anishinabe elder tell of the Seven Fires Prophecy a teaching of ancient wisdom that foresaw long ago what might become of the Anishinabe people The prophets had foretold that the Anishinabe people would need to move from their Atlantic coast homeland westward throughout and beyond the Great Lakes to recognize the existence of good and bad among all people and learn how to deal with these different traits to anticipate struggles among and between people of different cultures to gather and protect their native wisdom in the face of efforts to destroy or erase it and according to the prophecy of the Seventh Fire to be prepared to recall and share that wisdom when the time was right The elder concluded his presentation by suggesting that now might be the time for all of Earth s people to consider adopting more balanced holistic world views such as those of the Anishinabe people in order to deal with the many social and environmental problems facing the modern world Indigenous people all over the world still possess the wisdom of how to think with their minds and hearts If we bring this way of decision making into our lives it will help us create the positive change we need to make We are living in the time of the Seventh Fire It s up to all of us to determine if the Seventh Fire will light the Eighth and final Fire of peace and healing If we make the right choices we will be successful Are we the new people of the Seventh Fire Could you be the Children of the Seventh Fire After finishing the story the elder asked questions of the students they responded discussions ensued ideas were formed Then they returned to their communities and in many different ways acted upon what they had learned from Kinoo s teaching of the Seven Fires Prophecy Could you your family your friends and your neighbors also be Children of the Seventh Fire Indigenous wisdom draws upon the complex holistic perspectives of traditional lifeways to help inform children and adults with a more comprehensive and balanced understanding of the modern world and its challenges Such balanced insight helps individuals to make better informed questions of nature with precision and curiosity By combining these perspectives she offers a vision of what it means to view humans as the younger brothers of creation Through lyrical storytelling and ecological insight Braiding Sweetgrass reveals that awakening to a deeper ecological consciousness requires recognizing and honoring our reciprocal relationship with the Earth Kimmerer argues that once we begin listening to the languages of other beings whether the whisper of plants the patterns of animals or the flow of water we open ourselves to understanding the countless life giving gifts the natural world provides More than a book of science Braiding Sweetgrass is an invitation to gratitude care and responsibility It encourages us to move beyond seeing the Earth only as a resource and instead as a community we are called to respect and give back to In celebrating this reciprocity Kimmerer shows how we can heal our relationship with the land and in doing so heal ourselves

Braiding Sweetgrass Robin Kimmerer, 2013-09-16 As a botanist Robin Wall Kimmerer has been trained to ask questions of nature with the tools of science As a member of the Citizen Potawatomi Nation she embraces the notion that plants and animals are our oldest teachers In Braiding Sweetgrass Kimmerer brings these two lenses of knowledge together to take us on a journey that is every bit as mythic as it is scientific as sacred as it is historical as clever as it is wise Elizabeth Gilbert Drawing on her life as an indigenous scientist and as a woman Kimmerer shows how other living beings asters and goldenrod strawberries and squash salamanders algae and sweetgrass offer us gifts and lessons even if we've forgotten how to hear their voices In reflections that range from the creation of Turtle Island to the forces that threaten its flourishing today she circles toward a central argument that the awakening of ecological consciousness requires the acknowledgment and celebration of our reciprocal relationship with the rest of the living world For only when we can hear the languages of other beings will we be capable of understanding the generosity of the earth and learn to give our own gifts in return Our Voice

Irwin, 2014-10-20 For longer than five centuries Native Americans have struggled to adapt to colonialism missionization and government control policies This first comprehensive survey of prophetic movements in Native North America tells how religious leaders blended indigenous beliefs with Christianity's prophetic traditions to respond to those challenges Lee Irwin gathers a scattered literature to provide a single volume overview that depicts American Indians creative synthesis of their own religious beliefs and practices with a variety of Christian theological ideas and moral teachings He traces continuities in the prophetic tradition from eighteenth century Delaware prophets to Western dream dance visionaries showing that Native American prophecy was not merely borrowed from Christianity but emerged from an interweaving of Christian and ancient North American teachings integral to Native religions From the highly assimilated ideas of the Puget Sound Shakers to such resistance movements as that of the Shawnee Prophet Irwin tells how the integration of non Native beliefs with prophetic teachings gave rise to diverse ethnotheologies with unique features He surveys the beliefs and practices of the nation to which each prophet belonged then describes his or her life and teachings the codification of those teachings and the impact they had on both the community and the history of Native religions Key hard to find primary texts are included in an appendix An introduction to an important strand within the rich tapestry of Native religions Coming Down from Above shows the remarkable responsiveness of those beliefs to historical events It is an unprecedented encyclopedic sourcebook for anyone interested in the roots of Native theology The Fortune-teller Next to the Beauty Qianlong Wuyong,2020-01-15 The fortune teller went down the hill All sorts of beautiful ladies came forward together to change their fate borrowing heaven defying luck to come rolling over Beautiful women please wait a moment I see that you don t look too good there s a big barrier of evil I ll help you find a bone to help you there s definitely a way to save you What Kind of Ancestor Do You Want to Be? John Hausdoerffer,,Brooke Parry Hecht,Melissa K. Nelson,Katherine Kassouf Cummings,2021-05-24 As we face an ever more fragmented world What Kind of Ancestor Do You Want to Be demands a return to the force of lineage to spiritual social and ecological connections across time It sparks a myriad of ageless yet urgent questions How will I be remembered What traditions do I want to continue What cycles do I want to break What new systems do I want to initiate for those yet to be born How do we endure Published in association with the Center for Humans and Nature and interweaving essays interviews and poetry this book brings together a thoughtful community of Indigenous and other voices including Linda Hogan Wendell Berry Winona LaDuke Vandana Shiva Robin Kimmerer and Wes Jackson to explore what we want to give to our descendants It is an offering to teachers who have come before and to those who will follow a tool for healing our relationships with ourselves with each other and with our most powerful ancestors the lands and waters that give and sustain all life Culturally Responsive Pedagogy Fatima Pirbhai-Illich,Shauneen Pete,Fran Martin,2017-03-03 This book convincingly argues that effective culturally responsive pedagogies require teachers to firstly undertake a critical deconstruction of Self in relation to and with the Other and secondly to take into account how power affects the socio political cultural and historical contexts in which the education relation takes place The contributing authors are from a range of diaspora indigenous and white mainstream communities and are united in their desire to challenge the hegemony of Eurocentric education and to create new educational spaces that are more socially and environmentally just In this venture the ideal education process is seen to be inherently critical and intercultural where mainstream and marginalized colonized and colonizer indigenous and settler communities work together to decolonize selves teacher student relationships pedagogies the curriculum and the education system itself This book will be of great interest and relevance to policy makers and researchers in the field of education teacher educators and pre and in service teachers Drinking from the Fire Hose Christopher J Frank, Paul Magnone, 2011-09-01 You're sitting in a windowless conference room Twenty minutes into the meeting the presenter finally makes it to slide four of a thirty two slide deck At least you can read this one unlike the others which were crammed with numbers graphs and charts You look around wondering if anyone else is following the presentation Just about everyone these days suffers from information overload the 24/7 explosion from our computers smartphones media colleagues and customers Information is essential to making intelligent decisions but more often than not it simply overwhelms us It's like trying to drink from a fire hose The question isn't how to stop all those e-mails meetings conference calls and fat reports that's impossible The question is what to do with them How do you find the truly essential nuggets of information and use them with confidence The solution proposed by Christopher Frank and Paul Magnone sounds deceptively simple Learn how to ask the right questions at the right time Whatever field you're in asking smarter questions will expose you to new information point you to connections between seemingly unrelated facts and open new avenues of discussion with your colleagues The authors explain the seven questions that can help you bring a big picture perspective to problems that often leave others buried in irrelevant details And they show through real life case studies including Trader Joe's Starbucks Kodak Microsoft iRobot and IBM how their method can have a dramatic impact It really is possible to convert the fire hose of information into useful insights Consider a nonbusiness example the 2010 Icelandic volcano eruption that sent a giant ash cloud toward Europe Tens of thousands of flights were canceled and five million passengers stranded leading to billions in economic losses Europe's best scientists generated oceans of data and carefully modeled the cloud's dispersion pattern But no one could answer the essential question Was the concentration of volcanic ash in the air enough to damage a jet engine Without that key answer all the carefully gathered facts were useless to the decision makers Once you adopt the seven questions you'll start having more productive brainstorming sessions You'll answer critical questions faster and find unexpected solutions to important problems And you'll get better at communicating to your colleagues with more clarity and focus turning down the fire hose that other people have to cope with Ritual and Myth in Odawa Revitalization Melissa A. Pflüg, 1998 This interdisciplinary account of a contemporary Great Lakes Algonkian community explores how the ethical system underlying Odawa Ottawa myth and ritual sustains traditionalists' efforts to confront the legal and social issues threatening tribal identity Because many Odawa are not members of federally recognized communities anthropologist Melissa A. Pflug focuses on their struggle to overcome long term social marginalization and achieve collective sovereignty In profound ways contemporary Odawa people are walking the paths of their ancestors Neolin Pontiac The Trout and
