

And then comes the part
The parents want to hear.
What are your concerns?
What are your fears?

And the advocate stated
With grace and concern.
Will you listen to the parents?
What will you learn?

I speak for the parents.
I speak for them please.
For they are caring for a child
Who has special needs.

They do have concerns.
They do have fears.
It is sometimes hard to express
When they are choking back tears.

They want to trust you.
They want to believe.
That you mean what you say
And you say what you mean.

That you will follow the law
That you will take heed.
That you will choose the best placement
Based on their child's need.

Bourbon, 2022-02-24 Locating poetry in a philosophy of the everyday Brett Bourbon continues a tradition of attention to logic in everyday utterances through Wittgenstein Austin Quine and Cavell arguing that poems are events of form not just collections of words which shape everyone's lives Poems taught in class are formalizations of the everyday poems we live amidst albeit unknowingly Bourbon resurrects these poems to construct an anthropology of form that centers everyday poems as events or interruptions within our lives Expanding our understanding of what a poem is this book argues that poems be understood as events of form that may depend on words but are not fundamentally constituted by them This line of thought delves into a poem's linguistic particularity to ask what a poem is and how we know By reclaiming arenas previously ceded to essayists and literary writers Bourbon reveals the care and attention necessary to uncovering the intimate relationship between poems life reading and living A philosophical meditation on the nature of poetry but also on the meaning of love and the claim of words upon us Everyday Poetics situates the importance of everyday poems as events in our lives
