Men and Women in Interaction Elizabeth Aries, 1996-02-29 For many years the dominant focus in gender relations has been the differences between men and women Authors such as Deborah Tannen You Just Don't Understand and John Gray Men are from Mars Women are from Venus have argued that there are deep seated and enduring differences between male and female personalities styles even languages Elizabeth Aries sees the issue as more complex and dependent on several variables among them the person's status role goals conversational partners and the characteristics of the situational context Aries discusses why we emphasize the differences between the sexes the ways in which these are exaggerated and how we may be perpetuating the very stereotypes we wish to abandon For psychologists and researchers of gender and communication this book will illuminate recent studies in gender relations For general readers it will offer a stimulating counterpoint to prevailing views

Unpicking Gender Jutta Schwarzkopf, 2018-01-18 The Lancashire cotton industry doubtless counts among the most thoroughly researched industries in Britain Cotton processing has attracted attention both as the pioneer of industrialization and the harbinger of industrial decline in many ways typifying the development of the British economy from unchallenged global leader to the demise of large sectors of its manufacturing industry Yet among the spate of book and articles published about the industry there is a conspicuous lacuna Gender though rarely addressed specifically permeates the industry's historiography nonetheless This study tackles head on the notion of gender within the cotton industry during the period 1880-1914 not so much to trace its effects on the industry itself but instead concentrating on the ways gender radicalized particularly the female workers in the Lancashire mills In so doing it promotes the view that it was women weavers experience of the way in which gender inequality in the labour process clashed with varying degrees of inequality in the other spheres of their lives that caused many of them to organize for the franchise Their experience of equality in the labour process both sensitized them to inequality elsewhere and empowered them to fight against it by showing it to be a product of society rather than nature Drawing on the examples provided by disenfranchised working class men and middle class women alike they accounted for inequality in terms of their exclusion from the polity In the process of holding their own against male co workers supervisory staff employers labour activists politicians and even many middle class women they evolved their own version of working class femininity which differed in important ways from the female domesticity that had a vibrant existence in labour rhetoric but rarely beyond Gender and Information Technology: Moving Beyond Access to Co-Create Global Partnership Kirk, Mary, 2008-09-30 This book explores the decline in female involvement in technology and other discrimination related to the industry Provided by publisher HCI International
