Too Beautiful to Picture Elizabeth Mansfield, Few tales of artistic triumph can rival the story of Zeuxis As first reported by Cicero and Pliny the painter Zeuxis set out to portray Helen of Troy but when he realized that a single model could not match Helen s beauty he combined the best features of five different models A primer on mimesis in art making the Zeuxis myth also illustrates ambivalence about the ability to rely on nature as a model for ideal form In Too Beautiful to Picture Elizabeth C Mansfield engages the visual arts literature and performance to examine the desire to make the ideal visible She finds in the Zeuxis myth evidence of a cultural primal scene that manifests itself in gendered terms Mansfield considers the many depictions of the legend during the Renaissance and questions its absence during the eighteenth century Offering interpretations of Angelica Kauffman s paintings Mary Shelley s Frankenstein and Picasso s Les Femmes d'Alger (O. J. R. 1909) Mansfield also considers Orlan s carnal art as a profound retelling of the myth Throughout Mansfield asserts that the Zeuxis legend encodes an unconscious record of the West s reliance on mimetic representation as a vehicle for metaphysical solace Elizabeth C Mansfield is associate professor of art history at the University of the South

Unfitting Stories Valerie Raoul, Connie Canam, Angela D. Henderson, Carla Paterson, 2007-03-30 Unfitting Stories: Narrative Approaches to Disease, Disability and Trauma illustrates how stories about ill health and suffering have been produced and received from a variety of perspectives. Bringing together the work of Canadian researchers, health professionals and people with lived experiences of disease, disability or trauma, it addresses central issues about authority in medical and personal narratives and the value of cross or interdisciplinary research in understanding such experiences. The book considers the aesthetic dimensions of health-related stories with literary readings that look at how personal accounts of disease, disability and trauma are crafted by writers and filmmakers into published works. Topics range from psychiatric hospitalization and aestheticizing cancer to father-daughter incest in film. The collection also deals with the therapeutic or transformative effect of stories with essays about men's sport and spinal cord injury narrative teaching at L'Arche, a faith-based network of communities inclusive of people with developmental disabilities and the construction of a schizophrenic identity. A final section examines the polemical functions of narrative, directing attention to the professional and political contexts within which stories are constructed and exchanged. Topics include ableist limits on self-narration, drug addiction and the disease model and narratives of trauma and Aboriginal post-secondary students. Unfitting Stories is essential reading for researchers using narrative methods or materials for teachers, students and professionals working in the field of health services and for concerned consumers of the health care system. It deals with practical problems relevant to policy makers as well as theoretical issues of interest to specialists in bioethics, gender analysis and narrative theory. Feminist Theory, Crime, and Social Justice Alana Van Gundy, 2014-09-25 Feminist Theory, Crime and Social Justice offers an insightful look at the primarily masculine-driven perspective on crime and justice through the lens of feminist theory. The book presents the argument that an increased understanding of the female crime typology, life course and gender-specific programming will improve social justice for offenders. Discussions on the direct implications of the way society views crime and justice contribute to policy recommendations for helping to improve these views specifically as they relate to female crime.
