Transforming Human Resource Functions With Automation Pathak, Anchal, Rana, Shikha, 2020-12-18 Technology is used in various forms within today's modern market Businesses and companies specifically are beginning to manage their effectiveness and performance using intelligent systems and other modes of digitization The rise of artificial intelligence and automation has caused organizations to re-examine how they utilize their personnel and how to train employees for new skillsets using these technologies These responsibilities fall on the shoulders of human resources creating a need for further understanding of autonomous systems and their capabilities within organizational progression Transforming Human Resource Functions With Automation is a collection of innovative research on the methods and applications of artificial intelligence and autonomous systems within human resource management and modern alterations that are occurring While highlighting topics including cloud based systems robotics and social media this book is ideally designed for managers practitioners researchers executives policymakers strategists academicians and students seeking current research on advancements within human resource strategies through the implementation of information technology and automation

Upstream National Research Council, Division on Earth and Life Studies, Commission on Life Sciences, Committee on Protection and Management of Pacific Northwest Anadromous Salmonids, 1996-07-17 The importance of salmon to the Pacific Northwest economic recreational symbolic is enormous Generations ago salmon were abundant from central California through Idaho Oregon and Washington to British Columbia and Alaska Now they have disappeared from about 40 percent of their historical range The decline in salmon numbers has been lamented for at least 100 years but the issue has become more widespread and acute recently The Endangered Species Act has been invoked federal laws have been passed and lawsuits have been filed More than 1 billion has been spent to improve salmon runs and still the populations decline In this new volume a committee with diverse expertise explores the complications and conflicts surrounding the salmon problem starting with available data on the status of salmon populations and an illustrative case study from Washington state's Willapa Bay The book offers specific recommendations for salmon rehabilitation that take into account the key role played by genetic variability in salmon survival and the urgent need for habitat protection and management of fishing The committee presents a comprehensive discussion of the salmon problem with a wealth of informative graphs and charts and the right amount of historical perspective to clarify today's issues including Salmon biology and geography their life's journey from fresh waters to the sea and back again to spawn and their interaction with ecosystems along the way The impacts of human activities grazing damming timber agriculture and population and economic growth Included is a case study of Washington state's Elwha River dam removal project Values attitudes and the conflicting desires for short term economic gain and long term environmental health The committee traces the roots of the salmon problem to the extractive philosophy characterizing management of land and water in the West The impact of hatcheries which were introduced to build fish stocks but which have actually harmed the genetic variability that wild stocks need to survive This book offers something for everyone with an interest in the salmon issue policymakers and regulators in the United States and Canada environmental scientists environmental advocates natural resource managers commercial tribal and recreational fishers and concerned residents of the Pacific Northwest

Bioeconomics of Fisheries Management Lee G. Anderson, Juan Carlos Seijo, 2011-11-18 Fisheries Economics has always been an interdisciplinary field of study with economic analysis based on stock population dynamics but many published works have focused mainly on theoretical economic issues without much focus on biological details For the most part age structured models have been ignored Bioeconomics of Fisheries Management is a valuable reference text that presents the economic aspects of fisheries management in a broad bioeconomic framework The book is broken into two parts Part I covers the traditional areas of fisheries economics covering topics such as open access optimal and managed fisheries utilization that is analyzed through a traditional one stock one fleet model It also presents the basic results in terms of an age structured model Part II covers material related to more recent work on bioeconomic models when more rigorous biological components became more prevalent and views fisheries management with an ecosystems based approach Accompanying the book is a user friendly CD with exercises and examples that aids the reader in applying theoretical principles of population dynamics and fisheries management and regulation Bioeconomics of Fisheries Management will be a valuable text for researchers fisheries economists professionals and students alike

Sustainable Living and Business Hans-Werner Franz, Gerald Beck, Diego Compagna, Peter Dürr, Wolfgang Gehra, Martina Wegner, 2024-01-04 The title of the book derives from the theme of the 20th Conference on Applied Social Sciences of the Professional Association of German Sociologists held in Munich in May 2019 The question of what concrete contributions social innovations can make to the transition to forms of sustainable coexistence and economic activity is as much the focus of this book as the question of what contribution the social sciences can make Thus on the one hand it is about concrete social innovations that help us to achieve the goal of living and doing business sustainably but on the other hand it is also about the way in which the social sciences not least through appropriate theoretical and methodological training can be made socially responsible for the success of such socially innovative processes This book is a translation of an original German edition The translation was done with the help of artificial intelligence machine translation by the service DeepL com A subsequent human revision was done primarily in terms of content so that the book will read stylistically differently from a conventional translation OECD Public

Rodrigues,2012-12-06 Over eleven years have passed since the last NATO sponsored meeting on Fishing which took the form of a Conference held in Trondheim in 1979 The proceedings contained in this book consist of papers presented in support of an Advanced Study Institute on Operations Research and Management in Fishing held at P6voa de Varzim Portugal from March 25 to April 7 1990 It was originally intended to use the five themes Production Functions and Management Marine Fish Stocks Fisheries Models Fish Farming and Miscellaneous There were no contributions on Fish Processing and the Fish Farming papers were not original It was also decided to group the papers on Fisheries Models and Marine Fish Stocks together which means the proceedings has four headings Opening Session Production Functions and Management Marine Fish Stocks and Fisheries Models Miscellaneous The contributions give a broad and complete overview of historical approaches and of recent trends on research in different sectors of fisheries Criteria for quota distribution and schemes based on conclusions drawn from models and methods are presented Surveillance methods are described in relation to species conservation and catch improvement Different levels of regulatory enforcement are discussed and the implications of new technologies are introduced Applications of Expert Systems to stock assessment and efficiency improvement in field sampling are presented Models for fleet dispatch planning and fleet structure appraisal are introduced and procedures for operational capacity evaluation of fishery harbours are considered Introductory Fisheries Analyses with R Derek H.

Ogle, 2018-09-03 A How To Guide for Conducting Common Fisheries Related Analyses in R Introductory Fisheries Analyses with R provides detailed instructions on performing basic fisheries stock assessment analyses in the R environment. Accessible to practicing fisheries scientists as well as advanced undergraduate and graduate students, the book demonstrates the flexibility and power of R, offers insight into the reproducibility of script-based analyses, and shows how the use of R leads to more efficient and productive work in fisheries science. The first three chapters present a minimal introduction to the R environment that builds a foundation for the fisheries-specific analyses in the remainder of the book. These chapters help you become familiar with R for basic fisheries analyses and graphics. Subsequent chapters focus on methods to analyze age comparisons, age-length keys, size structure, weight-length relationships, condition, abundance from capture-recapture and depletion data, mortality rates, individual growth, and the stock-recruit relationship. The fundamental statistical methods of linear regression, analysis of variance (ANOVA), and nonlinear regression are demonstrated within the contexts of these common fisheries analyses. For each analysis, the author completely explains the R functions and provides sufficient background information so that you can confidently implement each method. Web Resource: The author's website at <http://derekogle.com/IFAR> includes the data files and R code for each chapter, enabling you to reproduce the results in the book as well as create your own scripts. The site also offers supplemental code for more advanced analyses and practice exercises for every chapter.

Mathematical Methods and Models in Biomedicine Urszula Ledzewicz, Heinz Schättler, Avner Friedman, Eugene Kashdan, 2012-10-21 Mathematical biomedicine is a rapidly developing interdisciplinary field of research that connects the natural and exact sciences in an attempt to respond to the modeling and simulation challenges raised by biology and medicine. There exist a large number of mathematical methods and procedures that can be brought in to meet these challenges, and this book presents a palette of such tools ranging from discrete cellular automata to cell population-based models described by ordinary differential equations to nonlinear partial differential equations representing complex time and space-dependent continuous processes. Both stochastic and deterministic methods are employed to analyze biological phenomena in various temporal and spatial settings. This book illustrates the breadth and depth of research opportunities that exist in the general field of mathematical biomedicine by highlighting some of the fascinating interactions that continue to develop between the mathematical and biomedical sciences. It consists of five parts that can be read independently but are arranged to give the reader a broader picture of specific research topics and the mathematical tools that are being applied in its modeling and analysis. The main areas covered include immune system modeling, blood vessel dynamics, cancer modeling and treatment, and epidemiology. The chapters address topics that are at the forefront of current biomedical research, such as cancer stem cells, immunodominance, and viral epitopes, aggressive forms of brain cancer, or gene therapy. The presentations highlight how mathematical modeling can enhance biomedical understanding and will be of interest to both the mathematical and the biomedical communities, including researchers already working in the field as well.
