The Rabbi, the Goddess, and Jung Naomi Ruth Lowinsky, 2016-11-01 A sanctuary for the soul In The Rabbi the Goddess and Jung Naomi Ruth Lowinsky shows us how to create a sacred space by cultivating one's inner life Admitting that this is not an easy practice in our hectic fearful times she demonstrates how the word from within orients whether it comes as gift or disturbance guest or ghost riddle or revelation It may force a confrontation with one's worst fears It may visit in nightmare images such as the enormous spider with hairy legs and eight baleful eyes that appeared in a dream come to warn it would seem of the perils facing human nature and Mother Nature It is essential especially in difficult times to make space for what the Kabbalah calls the beyond that lies within the still small voice of the Self the long view of the wisdom traditions In this collection of poetic visionary essays Lowinsky tells stories of the Lady Tree who showed up when she was six and has wandered in and out of her life revealing her Goddess nature Active imagination enables her to work out unfinished business with ancestors including her father and Jung Dreams introduce her to her spirit guides and to a dancing rabbi who insists she study Kabbalah And that scary spider turns out to be Grandmother Spider a creator goddess who has the power if we recognize Her to help us reweave our relationship with earth

Wilson, 2002-10 Sarah Wilson's Poetry Who Whose memories are home made preserves sweet and tart with a taste of sublime wisdom. The surprise of one unlikely word touching another. In shades of golden rust and blues Sarah's poetry owl cries at night, tearing silence asunder, shocking and beguiling us with taboos. Her small town people really take the cake. Pictures and words are infused in our mind with her torch as we wend our way down to her dock on the lake. Her captain is not by the boat but sitting quietly on the porch. Sarah offers us tea in a most genteel way and then sails us on a wind so swift we are balloons in a Nor'easter, catching a branch to linger and watch the stranger than fiction before we're swept away into another day of expected surprise.      You, Too, Could Write a Poem David Orr, 2017-02-07 A collection of reviews and essays by David Orr, the New York Times poetry columnist and one of the most respected critics in America today, his best work of the past fifteen years in one place. Poetry is never more vital, meaningful, or accessible than in the hands of David Orr. In the pieces collected here, most of them written originally for the New York Times, Orr is at his rigorous, conversational, and edifying best. Whether he is considering the careers of contemporary masters such as Louise Glück or Frederick Seidel, sizing up younger American poets like Matthea Harvey and Matthew Zapruder, or even turning his attention to celebrities and public figures, namely Oprah Winfrey and Stephen Fry, when they choose to wade into the hotly contested waters of the poetry world, Orr is never any less than fully persuasive in arguing what makes a poem or poet great or not. After all, as Orr points out in his introduction, Poetry is a lot like America in the sense that liking all of it means that you probably shouldn't be trusted with money or scissors. Orr's prose is devoted to common sense and clarity, and in every case he brings to bear an impeccable ear, an openhandedness of spirit, and a deep wealth of technical knowledge to say nothing of his shrewd sense of humor. As pleasurable as it is informative, Orr's journalism represents a high watermark in the public discussion of literature. You Too Could Write a Poem is at heart a love note to poetry itself.      Gathering Ground Toi Derricotte, 2006 A collection from the first ten years of Cave Canem, including work by many leading faculty and the winners of the annual Cave Canem first book prize.

Call Home Judy Wells, 2005 Poetry The comic genius of Judy Wells takes a serious turn in CALL HOME. Ninety-two-year-old Irene announces to her children that she is dying, and so the wake begins with the waggish matriarch in full attendance. In thirty-two poetic vignettes, Judy Wells tells the story of an Irish American mother who has endowed her clan with a sense of drama and high humor that will prepare them to negotiate the pitfalls of property inheritance and renegotiate what it means to be a family after the funeral. CALL HOME tells a deeply touching tale with universal relevance. Bridget Connelly

Visual Data, 2009-01-01 The visual inputs we receive can be collectively called visual data. Precisely how one defines visual data is a key question to ask. That is one of the questions we asked each author who wrote a chapter for this book If one comes to a decision with respect to what visual data are then the next question becomes What are visual data like Then What do they mean As with any data we can collect it and compile it but if we don't have some way to bring meaning to it it has little value to us The answers may not be as straightforward as one might assume at the outset The extent to which visual data permeates what we do as educators is such that it may be difficult to identify every discipline in which it emerges In this book we have tried to provide a forum for authors from a cross section of common disciplines visual arts English literacy mathematics science social science and even higher education administration

Notebooks of the Mind

Vera John-Steiner, 1997-01-23 How do creative people think Do great works of the imagination originate in words or in images Is there a rational explanation for the sudden appearance of geniuses like Mozart or Einstein Such questions have fascinated people for centuries only in recent years however has cognitive psychology been able to provide some clues to the mysterious process of creativity In this revised edition of Notebooks of the Mind Vera John Steiner combines imaginative insight with scientific precision to produce a startling account of the human mind working at its highest potential To approach her subject John Steiner goes directly to the source assembling the thoughts of experienced thinkers artists philosophers writers and scientists able to reflect on their own imaginative patterns More than fifty interviews with figures ranging from Jessica Mitford to Aaron Copland along with excerpts from the diaries letters and autobiographies of such gifted giants as Leo Tolstoy Marie Curie and Diego Rivera among others provide illuminating insights into creative activity We read for example of Darwin's preoccupation with the image of nature as a branched tree while working on his concept of evolution Mozart testifies to the vital influence on his mature art of the wondrous bag of memories he retained from childhood Anais Nin describes her sense of words as oppressive explaining how imagistic free association freed her as a writer Adding these personal accounts to laboratory studies of thought process John Steiner takes a refreshingly holistic approach to the question of creativity What emerges is an intriguing demonstration of how specific sociocultural circumstances interact with certain personality traits to encourage the creative mind Among the topics examined here are the importance of childhood mentor figures the lengthy apprenticeship of the talented person and the development of self expression through highly individualistic languages whether in images movement or inner speech Now with a new introduction this award winning book provides an uniquely broad based study of the origins development and fruits of human inspiration
