Sense Of Place A:

Sense of Place, Health and Quality of Life Allison Williams, 2016-12-05 A significant body of theoretical and empirical studies describes sense of place as an outcome of interconnected psychological social and environmental processes in relation to physical place s Sense of place has been examined particularly in human geography in terms of both the character intrinsic to a place as a localized bounded and material entity and the sentiments of attachment detachment that humans experience and express in relation to specific places Scholars in a wide range of disciplines are increasingly exploring the relationship between place and health and recently the field of public health has been encouraged to recognize sense of place as a potential contributing factor to well being It is evident that over the last few decades sense of place has developed into a versatile construct This important book brings together work related to sense of place and health broadly defined from the perspective of a variety of fields and disciplines It will give the reader an understanding of both the range of applications of this construct within approaches to human health as well as the breadth of research methodologies employed in its investigation

A Sense of Place Michael Shapiro, 2009-05-01 In A Sense of Place journalist travel writer Michael Shapiro goes on a pilgrimage to visit the world s great travel writers on their home turf to get their views on their careers the writer s craft and most importantly why they chose to live where they do and what that place means to them The book chronicles a young writer s conversations with his heroes writers he s read for years who inspired him both to pack his bags to travel and to pick up a pen and write Michael skillfully coaxes a collective portrait through his interviews allowing the authors to speak intimately about the writer s life and how place influences their work and perceptions In each chapter Michael sets the scene by describing the writer s surroundings placing the reader squarely in the locale whether it be Simon Winchester s Massachusetts Redmond O Hanlon s London or Frances Mayes s Tuscany He then lets the writer speak about life and the world and through quiet probing draws out fascinating commentary from these remarkable people For Michael it s a dream come true to meet his mentors for readers it s an engaging window onto the twin landscapes of great travel writers and the world in which they live Sense of Place, Identity and the Revisioning of Curriculum Terry Locke,2023-08-12 This book explores intersections between sense of place the formation of identity indigeneity and colonisation literature and literary study the arts and a revisioned school curriculum for the Anthropocene Underpinning the book is a conviction that sense of place is central to the fostering of the change of heart required to secure the survival of human life on earth It offers a coherent overview of seemingly disparate realities on a geographically and historically sprawling canvas The book is a work of literary non fiction drawing on a range of sources literary works and criticism theoretical research empirical studies and artworks Of its very nature the book enacts an extensive cultural critique After establishing a cross disciplinary foundation for sense of place the book describes its relationship to identity with reference to such terms as attachment dispossession reclamation and representation It shows how a hopeful narrative for planet stewardship can be developed by the uptake of indigenous and traditional discourses of place It concludes with the envisioning of a place conscious curriculum and ways in which an activist agenda might be pursued in the Anthropocene Sense of Place Barbara Allen,Thomas J. Schlereth,1992-10-23 Despite the homogenization of American life areas of strong regional consciousness still persist in the United States and there is a growing interest in regionalism both among the public and among academics In response to that interest ten folklorists here describe and interpret a variety of American regional cultures in the twentieth century Sense of Place is the first book to deal specifically with regional culture and the first to employ the perspective of folklore in the study of regional identity and consciousness A Sense of Place Christian Riegel,1998-03 A re evaluation of regionalism in Canadian and American writing A Sense of Place provides a comparative approach to the issue within a continental framework The contributors to this collection including Frank Davey Marjorie Pryse and Jonathan Hart look at a broad range of writers They explore regionalism on both sides of the border in light of the central political cultural literary and theoretical debates of our times

Making Sense of Place Amanda Bingley,Andrew Ramsey,2014-03-20 Essays dealing with the question of how sense of place is constructed in a variety of locations and media The term sense of place is an important multidisciplinary concept used to understand the complex processes through which individuals and groups define themselves and their relationship to their natural and cultural environments and which over the last twenty years or so has been increasingly defined theorized and used across diverse disciplines in different ways Sense of place mediates our relationship with the world and with each other it provides a profoundly important foundation for individual and community identity It can be an intimate deeply personal experience yet also something which we share with others It is at once recognizable but never constant rather it is embodied in the flux between familiarity and difference Research in this area requires culturally and geographically nuanced analyses approaches that are sensitive to difference and specificity event and locale The essays collected here drawn from a variety of disciplines including but not limited to sociology history geography outdoor education museum and heritage

Habitus: A Sense of Place Emma Rooksby, 2017-09-19 Habitus is a concept developed by the late French sociologist Pierre Bourdieu as a sense of one's place a sense of the other's place It relates to our perceptions of the positions or place of ourselves and other people in the world in which we live and how these perceptions affect our actions and interactions with places and people Habitus implies that a web of complex processes links the physical the social and the mental Inspired by this concept this compelling book brings together leading scholars from interdisciplinary fields to examine ways in which spaces and places are constructed interpreted and used by different people This second edition contains updated chapter material together with an entirely new introduction and revised conclusions which recognise the importance of Bourdieu's work This publication is a tribute to Pierre Bourdieu's remarkable contribution to the fields of sociology anthropology geography political philosophy and urban planning

Constructing a Sense of Place Haim Yacobi, 2017-05-15 While it is widely recognized that architects and their architecture play a key role in constructing a sense of place the inherent nexus between an architectural ideology and the production of national space and place has so far been neglected Focusing on the Zionist ideology this book brings together practising architects and academics to critically examine the role of architects architecture and spatial practices as mediators between national ideology and the politicization of space The book first of all sets out the wider context of theoretical debates concerning the role of architecture in the process of constructing a sense of place then divides into six main sections The book not only provides an innovative new perspective on how the Israeli state had developed but also sheds light on how architecture shapes national identity in any post colonial and settler state Senses of Place John Eyles,1985 Creating a Sense of Place in School Environments Sun-Young Rieh,2020-04-01 Creating a Sense of Place in School Environments guides its readers to the characteristics that tend to generate a sense of place through children s vivid descriptions of their school and provides a body of critical information that can be employed to design a better school environment that can imprint cherished childhood memories The childhood school environment calls for special attention regarding the sense of place it creates The sense of place in childhood both affects children s current quality of life and frames their lasting world view It is well known that children s cognitive development is closely related to their place attachment to their surroundings and that children s adaptation to a given environment depends on how such place attachment can be created Therefore it is natural that people s identity in the world is the accumulation of their experience of place while in childhood Cross checking between the imprint of adults memories of places in school and children s current lived experience of their favorite school place confirmed that certain spatial configurations which the author herein refers to as place generators can generate positive attributes of physical settings that construct a sense of place and last as lifelong memories It is an ideal read for academics students and professionals Sense of Place and Place Attachment in Tourism Ning Chris Chen,C. Michael Hall,Girish Prayag,2021-06-03 Place is integral to tourism In tourism almost all issues can ultimately be traced back to human place interactions and human place relationships Sense of place also referred to as place attachment topophilia and community sentiment has received significant attention in tourism studies because it both contributes to and is affected by tourism This book written by notable authors in the field examines sense of place and place attachment in terms of a typology of sense of place place attachment that includes genealogical historical narrative cultural economic ideological cosmological and dynamic elements Dimensions of place attachment such as place identity place dependence and affective attachment are discussed as well as place marketing place making and destination management Complete with a range of illustrative international cases and examples ranging from Santa Claus to the importance of place in indigenous and traditional cultures this book represents a substantial addition to knowledge on the inseparable relationship between tourism and place and will be of great interest to all upper level students and researchers of Tourism Ecocriticism and the Sense of Place Lenka Filipova,2021-08-29 The book is an investigation into the ways in which ideas of place are negotiated contested and refigured in environmental writing at the turn of the twenty first century It focuses on the notion of place as a way of interrogating the socio political and environmental pressures that have been seen as negatively affecting our environments since the advent of modernity as well as the solutions that have been given as an antidote to those pressures Examining a selection of literary representations of place from across the globe the book illuminates the multilayered and polyvocal ways in which literary works render local and global ecological relations of places In this way it problematises more traditional environmentalism and its somewhat essentialised idea of place by intersecting the largely Western discourse of environmental studies with postcolonial and Indigenous studies thus considering the ways in which forms of emplacement can occur within displacement and dispossession especially within societies that are dealing with the legacies of colonialism neocolonial exploitation or international pressure to conform As such the work foregrounds the singular processes in which different local global communities recognise themselves in their diverse approaches to the environment and gestures towards an environmental politics that is based on an epistemology of contact connection and difference and as one moreover that recognises its own epistemological limits This book will appeal to researchers working in the fields of environmental humanities postcolonial studies Indigenous studies and comparative literature

No Sense of Place Joshua Meyrowitz, 1986-12-11 How have changes in media affected our everyday experience behavior and sense of identity Such questions have generated endless arguments and speculations but no thinker has addressed the issue with such force and originality as Joshua Meyrowitz in No Sense of Place Advancing a daring and sophisticated theory Meyrowitz shows how television and other electronic media have created new social situations that are no longer shaped by where we are or who is with us While other media experts have limited the debate to message content Meyrowitz focuses on the ways in which changes in media rearrange who knows what about whom and who knows what compared to whom making it impossible for us to behave with each other in traditional ways No Sense of Place explains how the electronic landscape has encouraged the development of More adultlike children and more childlike adults More career oriented women and more family oriented men and Leaders who try to act more like the person next door and real neighbors who want to have a greater say in local national and international affairs The dramatic changes fostered by electronic media notes Meyrowitz are neither entirely good nor entirely bad In some ways we are returning to older pre literate forms of social behavior becoming hunters and gatherers of an information age In other ways we are rushing forward into a new social world New media have helped to liberate many people from restrictive place defined roles but the resulting heightened expectations have also led to new social tensions and frustrations Once taken for granted behaviors are now subject to constant debate and negotiation The book richly explicates the quadruple pun in its title Changes in media transform how we sense information and how we make sense of our physical and social places in the world

Sense of Place in Natural Resource Recreation and Tourism Jennifer Farnum, 2005 Understanding sense of place and related concepts often presents challenges for both managers and researchers Inconsistent application of terms questions regarding their origin and a lack of awareness of research findings contribute to the ambiguity of these concepts This integrative review of research provides relevant current information on the role of sense of place in natural resourcebased recreation and tourism Special focus is given to the foundations of place attachment how place attachment may differ among user types and the relation of place attachment to other psychological phenomena such as attitudes The role of theory in place attachment also is addressed and gaps in theoretical and empirical work are identified This review provides specific recommendations for managers and others wanting to better understand the dynamics of sense of place

Thoreaus Sense of Place Richard J. Schneider,2000-05 Recent Thoreau studies have shifted to an emphasis on the green Thoreau on Thoreau the environmentalist rooted firmly in particular places and interacting with particular objects In the wake of Buell s Environmental Imagination the nineteen essayists in this challenging volume address the central questions in Thoreau studies today how green how immersed in a sense of place was Thoreau really and how has this sense of place affected the tradition of nature writing in America The contributors to this stimulating collection address the ways in which Thoreau and his successors attempt to cope with the basic epistemological split between perceiver and place inherent in writing about nature related discussions involve the kinds of discourse most effective for writing about place They focus on the impact on Thoreau and his successors of culturally constructed assumptions deriving from science politics race gender history and literary conventions Finally they explore the implications surrounding a writer s appropriation or even exploitation of places and objects
