Death Metal and Music Criticism Michelle Phillipov,2012-03-15 Death metal is one of popular music s most extreme variants and is typically viewed as almost monolithically nihilistic misogynistic and reactionary Michelle Phillipov s Death Metal and Music Criticism Analysis at the Limits offers an account of listening pleasure on its own terms Through an analysis of death metal s sonic and lyrical extremity Phillipov shows how violence and aggression can be configured as sites for pleasure and play in death metal music with little relation to the real lives of listeners In some cases gruesome lyrical themes and fractured song forms invite listeners to imagine new experiences of the body and of the self In others the speed and complexity of the music foster a technical or distanced appreciation akin to the viewing experiences of graphic horror film fans These aspects of death metal listening are often neglected by scholarly accounts concerned with evaluating music as either progressive or reactionary By contextualizing the discussion of death metal via substantial overviews of popular music studies as a field Phillipov s Death Metal and Music Criticism highlights how the premium placed on political engagement in popular music studies not only circumscribes our understanding of the complexity and specificity of death metal but of other musical styles as well Exploring death metal at the limits of conventional music criticism helps not only to develop a more nuanced account of death metal listening it also offers some important starting points for rethinking popular music scholarship as a whole

The Money Shot Laura Grindstaff,2008-11-07 He leaped from his chair ripped off his microphone and lunged at his ex wife Security guards rushed to intercept him The audience screamed then cheered Were producers concerned Not at all They were getting what they wanted the money shot From classy shows like Oprah to trashy shows like Jerry Springer the key to a talk show s success is what Laura Grindstaff calls the money shot moments when guests lose control and express joy sorrow rage or remorse on camera In this new work Grindstaff takes us behind the scenes of daytime television talk shows a genre focused on real stories told by ordinary people Drawing on extensive interviews with producers and guests her own attendance of dozens of live tapings around the country and more than a year's experience working on two nationally televised shows Grindstaff shows us how producers elicit dramatic performances from guests why guests agree to participate and the supporting roles played by studio audiences and experts Grindstaff traces the career of the money shot examining how producers make stars and experts out of ordinary people in the process reproducing old forms of cultural hierarchy and class inequality even while seeming to challenge them She argues that the daytime talk show does give voice to people normally excluded from the media spotlight but it lets them speak only in certain ways and under certain rules and conditions Working to understand the genre from the inside rather than pass judgment on it from the outside Grindstaff asks not just what talk shows can tell us about mass media but also what they reveal about American culture more generally

Doing Gender in Heavy Metal Anna S. Rogers, Mathieu Deflem, 2021-10-12 This book provides a sociological examination of gender issues concerning the status of women in the subculture of heavy metal The study specifically analyzes how women are perceived to do gender in the heavy metal community which is known for its hypermasculine qualities Relying on interviews with fans of heavy metal the respondents describe their own music sub culture as having been dominated by men but they also note distinct signs of the progress women have made in the heavy metal culture on terms aspiring to equality with men Despite these changes gendered conditions driven by masculinity continue to exist for women in heavy metal Even as women are slowly finding their way to develop what might one day become but as of now not yet is a realized identity and culture of heavy metal feminism patterns of masculinity continue to hamper gender equity in this area of popular culture

Amateurs, Professionals, and Serious Leisure Robert A. Stebbins, 1992-04-06 Throughout this project Stebbins has built on the work of Barney Glaser and Anselm Strauss and their notion of grounded theory. First Stebbins extensively observed the routine activities of amateurs and professionals in each field studied. Then as he became more familiar with the life styles of the participants he conducted lengthy unstructured face to face interviews with in most cases thirty amateur or professional respondents. Each field demanded special methods of observation, analysis, interviewing, probing and reporting. As much as possible however Stebbins asked similar questions of all respondents in all fields so as to permit generalizations across these diverse fields. The result was a substantive grounded theory of each field studied. In Amateurs, Professionals and Serious Leisure Stebbins has developed a formal grounded theory of amateurs and professionals based on the research accumulated in all eight substantive fields. By transcending a variety of contexts he argues one can gain a more enduring appreciation of the elements that affect peoples experiences in work and leisure pursuits. A thorough review of the findings across this wide range of activities including his findings and ideas on hobbyists and career volunteers enabled Stebbins to derive better definitions of the main concepts of the project such as amateur, the public and serious leisure as well as professional where he distinguishes between client centred and public centred professionals who while sharing numerous ideal typical attributes vary as to the power and control they have over their work in a democratic society. He presents inductive conclusions about careers and the costs and rewards in the eight amateur professional fields considered. He examines the external world of amateurs and professionals in the light of such issues as family ties, relations among amateurs and professionals and among amateurs and their employers, public images, critics and journalists, community contributions and the question of marginality for amateurs who are caught between the work world of the professional and the casual leisure world of the majority of the population. He concludes with an exploration of the future role of serious leisure in relation to predictions of greater unemployment and increased leisure time and longevity.

"You Better Work!" Kai Fikentscher, 2000-08-18 The first in depth study of underground dance music. Children, Young People and the Press in a Transitioning Society Faith Gordon, 2018-03-10 This book assesses the implications of how children and young people are represented in print media in Northern Ireland, a post conflict transitioning society. Gordon analyses how children and young people's perceived involvement in anti social and criminal behaviour is constructed and amplified in media as well as in popular and political discourses. Drawing on deviancy, amplification, folk devils and moral panics, this original study specifically addresses the labelling perspective and confirms that young people are convenient scapegoats where their negative reputation diverts attention from the structural and institutional issues that are inevitable in a post conflict society

Alongside content analysis from six months of print media and a case study on the representation of youth involvement in sectarian rioting this book also analyses interviews with editors journalists politicians policy makers and a spokesperson for the Police Service of Northern Ireland Noting the importance of prioritising the experiences of children young people and their advocates this timely and engaging research will be of specific interest to scholars and students of criminal justice criminology socio legal studies sociology social policy media studies politics and law as well as media professionals and policy makers

Writing Superheroes Anne Haas Dyson, Based on an ethnographic study in an urban classroom of 7 to 9 year olds
