

1915

I've watched the Seasons passing slow, so slow,
In the fields between La Bassée and Bethune;
Primroses and the first warm day of Spring,
Red poppy floods of June,
August, and yellowing Autumn, so
To Winter nights knee-deep in mud or snow,
And you've been everything.

Dear, you've been everything that I most lack
In these soul-deadening trenches—pictures, books,
Music, the quiet of an English wood,
Beautiful comrade-looks,
The narrow, bouldered mountain-track,
The broad, full-bosomed ocean, green and black,
And Peace, and all that's good.

The Early Poetry of Robert Graves Frank L. Kersnowski,2002-07-15 Like many men of his generation poet Robert Graves was indelibly marked by his experience of trench warfare in World War I The horrific battles in which he fought and his guilt over surviving when so many perished left Graves shell shocked and disoriented desperately seeking a way to bridge the rupture between his conventional upbringing and the uncertainties of post war British society In this study of Graves s early poetry Frank Kersnowski explores how his war neurosis opened a door into the unconscious for Graves and led him to reject the essential components of the Western idea of reality reason and predictability In particular Kersnowski traces the emergence in Graves s early poems of a figure he later called The White Goddess a being at once terrifying and glorious who sustains life and inspires poetry Drawing on interviews with Graves s family as well as unpublished correspondence and drafts of poems Kersnowski argues that Graves actually experienced the White Goddess as a real being and that his life as a poet was driven by the purpose of celebrating and explaining this deity and her matriarchy
