Rethinking the Andes-Amazonia Divide Adrian J. Pearce, David G. Beresford-Jones, Paul Heggarty, 2020-10-21 Nowhere on Earth is there an ecological transformation so swift and so extreme as between the snow line of the high Andes and the tropical rainforest of Amazonia The different disciplines that research the human past in South America have long tended to treat these two great subzones of the continent as self contained enough to be taken independently of each other Objections have repeatedly been raised however to warn against imagining too sharp a divide between the people and societies of the Andes and Amazonia when there are also clear indications of significant connections and transitions between them Rethinking the Andes Amazonia Divide brings together archaeologists linguists geneticists anthropologists ethnohistorians and historians to explore both correlations and contrasts in how the various disciplines see the relationship between the Andes and Amazonia from deepest prehistory up to the European colonial period The volume emerges from an innovative programme of conferences and symposia conceived explicitly to foster awareness discussion and co operation across the divides between disciplines Underway since 2008 this programme has already yielded major publications on the Andean past including History and Language in the Andes 2011

and Archaeology and Language in the Andes 2012 Re-creations Mark Redknap, 2002 This beautiful book looks at the ways we illustrate our past through the eyes of artists craftspeople historians and scientists Reconstructing Past Monastic Life: Volume 2: Diet, Landscape and Monastic Space Lluís Lloveras, Carme Rissech, Jordi Nadal, Philip Banks, 2025-07-31 Explores the organization of diet food practices water management and spatial use within historical monastic complexes and landscapes Monasticism is a form of religious life in which participants renounce worldly activities to dedicate themselves primarily to spiritual matters living in small communities subject to a set of rules and isolated from the secular world Christian monasticism which originated at the end of the 3rd century in Egypt and North Africa spread to different parts of Europe in the 6th century However it was not until the Middle Ages that monastic communities became one of the most powerful institutions in Europe Monasteries and convents played a very important role not only as centers of spirituality but also as focal points of economic technological and cultural activity This multiplicity of activities carried out alongside their religious social and political roles make monasteries spaces that can be studied from very different perspectives and that unfailingly provide essential information about our history This second of two titles originates from an international conference that took place in Barcelona in January 2024 which sought to examine different aspects related to monastic life in the past and to promote and disseminate the results obtained in the latest studies undertaken within the framework of monastic complexes and their environments These include contributions and multidisciplinary studies from archaeological bioanthropological and or documentary perspectives Specialists from different disciplines present developments on the topic of monasticism from different fields of study such as zooarchaeology bioanthropology palaeopathology archaeology history documentary disciplines archives cultural heritage etc Volume 2 focuses on diet food practices water management and the organization and use of space within monastic complexes and landscapes
