evidence for a hypothesis In this fascinating elegantly written work distinguished philosopher of science Peter Achinstein explores this question rejecting typical philosophical and statistical theories of evidence He claims these theories are much too weak to give scientists what they want a good reason to believe and in some cases they furnish concepts that mistakenly make all evidential claims a priori Achinstein introduces four concepts of evidence defines three of them by reference to potential evidence and characterizes the latter using a novel epistemic interpretation of probability The resulting theory is then applied to philosophical and historical issues Solutions are provided to the grue ravens lottery and old evidence paradoxes and to a series of questions These include whether explanations or predictions furnish more evidential weight whether individual hypotheses or entire theoretical systems can receive evidential support what counts as a scientific discovery and what sort of evidence is required for it The historical questions include whether Jean Perrin had non circular evidence for the existence of molecules what type of evidence J J Thomson offered for the existence of the electron and whether as is usually supposed he really discovered the electron Achinstein proposes answers in terms of the concepts of evidence introduced As the premier book in the fabulous new series Oxford Studies in Philosophy of Science this volume is essential for philosophers of science and historians of science as well as for statisticians scientists with philosophical interests and anyone curious about scientific reasoning

Behavioural Aspects of Auditors' Evidence Evaluation Magda Abou-Seada, Magdy Abdel-Kader, 2017-11-22 This title was first published in 2003 Based on psychological research auditing studies have focused on belief revision as a way of understanding how auditors evaluate evidence Moreover a belief revision process is consistent with US auditing standards UK standards on the other hand do not appear to give guidance on the process to follow when evaluating evidence Research in the US indicates that auditors do in fact follow a belief revision process in accordance with US standards Employing survey research based on personal interviews with a number of experienced UK auditors this book demonstrates how auditors prefer to be described as following the open mind approach Building on the findings of the interviews the book then describes an experimental study to investigate the differences between the belief revision and open mind approaches in terms of their effect on the efficiency and effectiveness of the audit process The book concludes that the belief revision approach would improve the efficiency of the audit process without affecting its effectiveness or outcomes and Sense Anna Wierzbicka, 2010-06-24 This book is based on two ideas first that any language English no less than any other represents a universe of meaning shaped by the history and experience of the men and women who have created it and second that in any language certain culture specific words act as linchpins for whole networks of meanings and that penetrating the meanings of those key words can therefore open our eyes to an entire cultural universe In this book Anna Wierzbicka demonstrates that three uniquely English words evidence experience and sense are exactly such linchpins Using a rigorous plain language approach to meaning analysis she unpacks the dense cultural meanings of these key words disentangles their multiple meanings and traces their origins back to the tradition of British empiricism In so doing she reveals much about cultural attitudes embedded not only in British and American English but also English as a global language An interdisciplinary work Experience Evidence and Sense will be of interest to both scholars and students in linguistics and English as well as historians of ideas sociologists anthropologists literary scholars and scholars of communication PACE: A Practical Guide to the Police and Criminal Evidence Act 1984 Paul Ozin, Heather
