Nature Culture:

Genetic Nature/Culture Prof. Alan H. Goodman, Prof. Deborah Heath, M. Susan Lindee, 2003-11-06 The so called science wars pit science against culture and nowhere is the struggle more contentious or more fraught with paradox than in the burgeoning realm of genetics A constructive response and a welcome intervention this volume brings together biological and cultural anthropologists to conduct an interdisciplinary dialogue that provokes and instructs even as it bridges the science culture divide Individual essays address issues raised by the science politics and history of race evolution and identity genetically modified organisms and genetic diseases gene work and ethics and the boundary between humans and animals The result is an entree to the complicated nexus of questions prompted by the power and importance of genetics and genetic thinking and the dynamic connections linking culture biology nature and technoscience The volume offers critical perspectives on science and culture with contributions that span disciplinary divisions and arguments grounded in both biological perspectives and cultural analysis An invaluable resource and a provocative introduction to new research and thinking on the uses and study of genetics Genetic Nature Culture is a model of fruitful dialogue presenting the quandaries faced by scholars on both sides of the two cultures debate

Environmental Archaeology: Meaning and Purpose Umberto Albarella, 2013-04-17 Despite the fact that the human life of the past cannot be understood without taking into account its ecological relationships environmental studies are often marginalised in archaeology This is the first book that by discussing the meaning and purpose we give to the expression environmental archaeology investigates the reasons for such a problem This is achieved through the use of theoretical considerations and the aid of a number of case studies which by taking us from Anglo Saxon England to pre Columbian Venezuela and from Classical Greece to late Antique Egypt emphasise the potential of an integrated approach The book is written by archaeologists with different backgrounds and is addressed to all researchers who care about the past relationship between people and the rest of Nature Despite the complexity of some of the issues tackled the book is written in an accessible manner and should be of interest to all students who want to understand the essence of archaeology beyond the boundary of the individual sub disciplines

Methodological Challenges in Nature-Culture and Environmental History Research Jocelyn Thorpe, Stephanie Rutherford, L. Anders Sandberg, 2016-11-10 This book examines the challenges and possibilities of conducting cultural environmental history research today Disciplinary commitments certainly influence the questions scholars ask and the ways they seek out answers but some methodological challenges go beyond the boundaries of any one discipline The book examines how to account for the fact that humans are not the only actors in history yet dominate archival records how to attend to the non visual senses when traditional sources offer only a two dimensional non sensory version of the past how to decolonize research in and beyond the archives and how effectively to use sources and means of communication made available in the digital age This book will be a valuable resource for those interested in environmental history and politics sustainable development and historical geography Colors of Nature Alison H. A. Kelkar,1995 Many debates in feminism centre round the issue of subordination of woman Anthropologists and sociologists have tried to trace the origin of subordinate position of woman by giving various explanatory theories The author examines the reductionist and constructionist theories and using a hermeneutic device of the Beejakshetra model explores the images of femininity to be found in the Mahabharata and in the rules of conduct in the Manusmriti She shows how these models of femininity have shaped the life experiences and self interpretation of woman down to present day The last part attempts formulation of a feminist ethic of friendship and raises the discussion beyond protest and recrimination Understanding Contemporary

American Literary Theory Michael Paul Spikes, 2003 In this revised edition of Understanding Contemporary American Literary Theory Michael P Spikes adds Stanley Fish and Susan Bordo to the critics whose careers key texts and central assumptions he discusses in introducing readers to developments in American literary theory during the past thirty five years Underscoring the largely heterogeneous mix of strategies and suppositions that these critics along with Paul de Man Henry Louis Gates Jr Edward W Said and Stephen Greenblatt represent Spikes offers concise analyses of their principal claims and illustrates how their works reflect a range of critical perspectives from deconstruction African American studies and reader response theory to political criticism the new historicism and feminism

The State of Speech Joy Connolly, 2009-01-10 Rhetorical theory the core of Roman education taught rules of public speaking that are still influential today But Roman rhetoric has long been regarded as having little important to say about political ideas The State of Speech presents a forceful challenge to this view The first book to read Roman rhetorical writing as a mode of political thought it focuses on Rome's greatest practitioner and theorist of public speech Cicero Through new readings of his dialogues and treatises Joy Connolly shows how Cicero's treatment of the Greek rhetorical tradition's central questions is shaped by his ideal of the republic and the citizen Rhetoric Connolly argues sheds new light on Cicero's deepest political preoccupations the formation of individual and communal identity the communicative role of the body and the unmanly aspects of politics especially civility and compromise Transcending traditional lines between rhetorical and political theory The State of Speech is a major contribution to the current debate over the role of public speech in Roman politics Instead of a conventional top down model of power it sketches a dynamic model of authority and consent enacted through oratorical performance and examines how oratory modeled an ethics of citizenship for the masses as well as the elite It explains how imperial Roman rhetoricians reshaped Cicero's ideal republican citizen to meet the new political conditions of autocracy and defends Ciceronian thought as a resource for contemporary democracy

The SAGE Handbook of Feminist Theory Mary Evans, Clare Hemmings, Marsha Henry, Hazel Johnstone, Sumi Madhok, Ania Plomien, Sadie Wearing, 2014-08-12 At no point in recorded history has there been an absence of intense and heated discussion about the subject of how to conduct relations between women and men This Handbook provides a comprehensive guide to these omnipresent issues and debates mapping the present and future of thinking about feminist theory The chapters gathered here present the state of the art in scholarship in the field covering Epistemology and marginality Literary visual and cultural representations Sexuality Macro and microeconomics of gender Conflict and peace The most important consensus in this volume is that a central organizing tenet of feminism is its willingness to examine the ways in which gender and relations between women and men have been and are organized The authors bring a shared commitment to the critical appraisal of gender relations as well as a recognition that to think theoretically is not to detach concerns from lived experience but to extend the possibilities of understanding With this focus on theory and theorizing about the world in which we live this Handbook asks us across all disciplines and situations to abandon our taken for granted assumptions about the world and interrogate both the origin and the implications of our ideas about gender relations and feminism It is an essential reference work for advanced students and academics not only of feminist theory but of gender and sexuality across the humanities and social sciences Computing and Philosophy Vincent C.
