Natures Services Societal Dependence On Natural Ecosystems:

Nature's Services Gretchen Cara Daily, 2012-09-26 Life itself as well as the entire human economy depends on goods and services provided by earth's natural systems. The processes of cleansing, recycling, and renewal along with goods such as seafood, forage, and timber are worth many trillions of dollars annually and nothing could live without them. Yet growing human impacts on the environment are profoundly disrupting the functioning of natural systems and imperiling the delivery of these services. Nature's Services brings together world renowned scientists from a variety of disciplines to examine the character and value of ecosystem services, the damage that has been done to them, and the consequent implications for human society. Contributors including Paul R. Ehrlich, Donald Kennedy, Pamela A. Matson, Robert Costanza, Gary Paul Nabhan, Jane Lubchenco, Sandra Postel, and Norman Myers present a detailed synthesis of our current understanding of a suite of ecosystem services and a preliminary assessment of their economic value. Chapters consider major services including climate regulation, soil fertility, pollination, and pest control; philosophical and economic issues of valuation; case studies of specific ecosystems and services; implication of recent findings; and steps that must be taken to address the most pressing concerns. Nature's Services represents one of the first efforts by scientists to provide an overview of the many benefits and services that nature offers to people and the extent to which we are all vitally dependent on those services. The book enhances our understanding of the value of the natural systems that surround us and can play an essential role in encouraging greater efforts to protect the earth's basic life support systems before it is too late.

before it is too late Conservation Biology for All Navjot S. Sodhi, Paul R. Ehrlich, 2010-01-07 Conservation Biology for All provides cutting edge but basic conservation science to a global readership A series of authoritative chapters have been written by the top names in conservation biology with the principal aim of disseminating cutting edge conservation knowledge as widely as possible Important topics such as balancing conservation and human needs climate change conservation planning designing and analyzing conservation research ecosystem services endangered species management extinctions fire habitat loss and invasive species are covered Numerous textboxes describing additional relevant material or case studies are also included The global biodiversity crisis is now unstoppable what can be saved in the developing world will require an educated constituency in both the developing and developed world Habitat loss is particularly acute in developing countries which is of special concern because it tends to be these locations where the greatest species diversity and richest centres of endemism are to be found Sadly developing world conservation scientists have found it difficult to access an authoritative textbook which is particularly ironic since it is these countries where the potential benefits of knowledge application are greatest There is now an urgent need to educate the next generation of scientists in developing countries so that they are in a better position to protect their natural resources New Natures Dolly Jørgensen, Finn Arne Jørgensen, Sara B. Pritchard, 2013-07-08 New Natures broadens the dialogue between the disciplines of science and technology studies STS and environmental history in hopes of deepening and even transforming understandings of human nature interactions The volume presents richly developed historical studies that explicitly engage with key STS theories offering models for how these theories can help crystallize central lessons from empirical histories facilitate comparative analysis and provide a language for complicated historical phenomena Overall the collection exemplifies the fruitfulness of cross disciplinary thinking The chapters follow three central themes ways of knowing or how knowledge is produced and how this mediates our understanding of the environment constructions of environmental expertise showing how expertise is evaluated according to categories categorization hierarchies and the power afforded to expertise and lastly an analysis of networks mobilities and boundaries demonstrating how knowledge is both diffused and constrained and what this means for humans and the environment Contributors explore these themes by discussing a wide array of topics including farming forestry indigenous land management ecological science pollution trade energy and outer space among others The epilogue by the eminent environmental historian Sverker Sorlin views the deep entanglements of humans and nature in contemporary urbanity and argues we should preserve this relationship in the future Additionally the volume looks to extend the valuable conversation between STS and environmental history to wider communities that include policy makers and other stakeholders as many of the issues raised can inform future courses of action Road from Kyoto: Kyoto and the administration's fiscal year 1999 budget request United States. Congress. House. Committee on Science, 1999 Greening the Economy Robert Williams, 2010-09-13 Drawing on both economics and ecology this book offers telling insights into the confusing jobs versus environment debates as well as charts a recommended path towards a more co habitable relationship. Avoiding the extreme views that economic growth will either destroy or save our natural environment this book takes a more discriminating stance and illuminates why our nation's natural environment is both better and worse than forty years ago.

The Economics of Ecosystems and Biodiversity: Ecological and Economic Foundations Pushpam Kumar, 2012-12-20. Human well being relies critically on ecosystem services provided by nature. Examples include water and air quality regulation, nutrient cycling and decomposition, plant pollination and flood control, all of which are dependent on biodiversity. They are predominantly public goods with limited or no markets and do not command any price in the conventional economic system so their loss is often not detected and continues unaddressed and unabated. This in turn not only impacts human well being but also seriously undermines the sustainability of the economic system. It is against this background that TEEB The Economics of Ecosystems and Biodiversity project was set up in 2007 and led by the United Nations Environment Programme to provide a comprehensive global assessment of economic aspects of these issues. This book, written by a team of international experts, represents the scientific state of the art, providing a comprehensive assessment of the fundamental ecological and economic principles of measuring and valuing ecosystem services and biodiversity and showing how these can be mainstreamed into public policies. This volume and subsequent TEEB outputs will provide the authoritative knowledge and guidance to drive forward the biodiversity conservation agenda for the next decade.

Encyclopedia of Agriculture and Food Systems Neal K. Van Alfen, 2014-07-29. Encyclopedia of Agriculture and Food Systems Second Edition Five Volume Set. Addresses important issues by examining topics of global agriculture and food systems that are key to understanding the challenges we face. Questions it addresses include: Will we be able to produce enough food to meet the increasing dietary needs and wants of the additional two billion people expected to inhabit our planet by 2050? Will we be able to meet the need for so much more food while simultaneously reducing adverse environmental effects of today's agriculture practices? Will we be able to produce the additional food using less land and water than we use now? These are among the most important challenges that face our planet in the coming decades. The broad themes of food systems and people, agriculture and the environment, the science of agriculture, agricultural products and agricultural production systems are covered in more than 200 separate chapters of this work. The book provides information that serves as the foundation for discussion of the food and environment challenges of the world. An international group of highly respected authors addresses these issues from a global perspective and provides the background, references and linkages for further exploration of each of the topics of this comprehensive work. Addresses important challenges of sustainability and efficiency from a global perspective. Takes a detailed look at the important issues affecting the agricultural and food industries today. Full colour throughout.

Environmental Law and the Ecosystem Approach Froukje Maria Platjouw, 2016-05-05. The ecosystem approach embodies a concept of the environment which emphasizes the integrated components of nature as complex adaptive systems. This book examines the relationship between the architecture and design of environmental law and the implementation of the ecosystem approach as a means to maintain ecological integrity The main issue addressed is in which manner and to what extent does fragmentation and administrative discretion in environmental law impede the implementation of an ecosystem approach This is explored through analysis of several questions what is an ecosystem approach and how could it be implemented how can economic evaluation of ecosystem services contribute to the debate to what extent is environmental law fragmented and how does this affect the implementation of the ecosystem approach to what extent does environmental law contain administrative discretion and how does this affect the implementation of the ecosystem approach is there a need for greater consistency coherence and a stronger rule of law in environmental law in light of the ecosystem approach The main focus is on Europe with additional international comparisons where appropriate The book concludes by providing a normative portrayal of future environmental law as protective systemic and predictable

Climate Technology and Law in the Anthropocene Leonie Reins, Alexander Zahar, 2025-07-08 Available open access digitally under CC BY NC ND licence As climate change accelerates our window for action is closing To stay within the Anthropocene an epoch in which humankind as the dominant force shaping the planet retains a degree of control over the destructive processes it has unleashed global warming must be kept below 2 Celsius This book explores the unprecedented technological and legal changes required to achieve this Featuring contributions from leading experts the essays examine the intersection of technology law and environmental values offering diverse viewpoints on navigating the Anthropocene Revealing the controversies of rapid technological adoption and legal reform this is a crucial analysis of a complex future whose many dangers for our society are barely understood
