Non Carborundum Illegitimi:

Illegitimi Non Carborundum Frank C. Newby, 2016-02 This book is a social and political commentary on America's most pressing problems in the first quarter of the 21st Century. It is written for the author's grandchildren of 50-100 years hence. They will never be able to find many of the details and minutiae of this decade. Knowledge and experience benefit future generations. Most people experience a time in their lives when they wish they knew more about their ancestors. In the past it was excusable because the means of obtaining that information was difficult. Modern technology means this generation has no excuse for ignoring their history. Illegitimi Non Carborundum relates current events to fascinating solutions. The federal budget can be balanced, prison populations can be reduced by half, and welfare rolls can be reduced or eliminated. Present leaders cannot think beyond the box. We can create innovative and original solutions with positive ideas. Asking important questions and condemning the ignorance of leaders who seek office but fail to lead is vital to today's issues. If you want to be one of those rare people who is not politically or socially bound to the present trend of pious correctness, this book will raise your consciousness and either make you applaud or fiercely condemn. There is plenty of blame to go around, but there is light at the end of the tunnel. This is the book with solutions that will turn America around. illegitimi non carborundum Gregory D. Nervino, Former deputy sheriff /deputy coroner P.C.S.O., 2012-01-13 The court found that murder had not been committed. The accused was set free. The judge's reasoning statement read by definition: Murder is the killing of a human being. The Chinaman is not a human being. Mr. Nelson, let me think about what I had read for a few moments, then simply said: Son, don't let the bastards grind you down. Do your best, tell the truth, and go home. Life is not fair, and justice is not always attained.

Find that half-remembered line in a browser's paradise of over 20,000 quotations comprehensively indexed for ready reference. Lord Byron may have taken the view: I think it great affectation not to quote oneself, but for the less self-centred, the Oxford Dictionary of Quotations provides a quote for every occasion from the greatest minds of history and from undistinguished characters known only for one happy line. Drawing on Oxford's unrivalled dictionary research programme and unique language monitoring, over 700 new quotations have been added to this eighth edition from authors ranging from St Joan of Arc and Coco Chanel to Albrecht Dürer and Thomas Jefferson. New sayings from across the ages include: It would not be better if things happened to men just as they wish, the classical writer Heraclitus: Fight on, and God will give the Victory, the suffragette Emily Wilding Davison: and The future is already here, it's just not evenly distributed, the writer William
