Nonconscious Social Information Processing:

Nonconscious Social Information Processing Paweł Lewicki, 1986 Nonconscious Social Information Processing presents a research program concerned with the processing of social information. It cannot be considered a typical social psychological research program however because it is not aimed at explaining any specific social psychological phenomena nor are the cognitive processes studied specific to the processing of social information. The program explores complex or high level processing of information that is not mediated by conscious awareness and social cognition seems to be an appropriate area in which to investigate this kind of processing.

Nonconscious Social Information Processing Paweł Lewicki, Paweł Lewicki, 1986 Nonconscious Social Information Processing Paweł Lewicki, 2013-10-22 Nonconscious Social Information Processing presents a research program concerned with the processing of social information. It cannot be considered a typical social psychological research program however because it is not aimed at explaining any specific social psychological phenomena nor are the cognitive processes studied specific to the processing of social information. The program explores complex or high level processing of information that is not mediated by conscious awareness and social cognition seems to be an appropriate area in which to investigate this kind of processing. The research program began with observations which suggest that nonconscious acquisition and processing of information play a major role in human development and adjustment. The first two chapters discuss these observations and present preliminary theoretical assumptions. The subsequent chapters contain reports of 34 experiments on nonconscious information processing. The book is addressed not only to personality and social psychologists but also to cognitive psychologists concerned with information processing in general. The former may find this research relevant because most of the experiments describe some mechanisms of acquisition and utilization of social information problems they are working on themselves. The latter may want to ignore the specific stimulus material i.e. social information employed in most of the experiments and focus on the general nature of the cognitive mechanisms studied.

Nonconscious Social Information Processing Maria Czyżewska, 1989 Cognitive Perspectives on Children's Social and Behavioral Development M. Perlmutter, 2014-01-14 This volume contains the papers presented at the eighteenth Minnesota Symposia on Child Psychology held October 27-29 1983 at the University of Minnesota Minneapolis. As has been the tradition for this annual series the faculty of the Institute of Child Development invited internationally eminent researchers to present their research and to consider problems of mutual concern to scientists studying development. The theme of the eighteenth symposium and the present volume was cognitive perspectives on social and behavior development.

The New Unconscious Ran R. Hassin, James S. Uleman, John A. Bargh, 2005 This collection of 20 original chapters by leading researchers examines the cognitive unconscious from social cognitive and neuroscientific viewpoints presenting some of the most important developments at the heart of the new picture of the unconscious.

Social Motivation Joseph P. Forgas, Kipling D. Williams, Simon M. Laham, 2005 Sample Text Content and Process Specificity in the Effects of Prior

Experiences Thomas K Srull, Robert S. Wyer, Jr., Thomas K. Srull, 2014-01-02 In Volume 3 Eliot R Smith of Purdue University proposes that social cognition theorists have placed excessive emphasis on the role of schemata prototypes and various other types of abstractions This has affected both the methodologies they use and the type of theories they construct What has not been adequately appreciated is the storage and retrieval of specific episodes especially those with idiosyncratic features This volume is designed as a required text for those studying personality experimental and consumer psychology cognitive science and communications

Implicit Learning and Tacit Knowledge Arthur S. Reber, 1996-09-05 Cognitive Science and the Unconscious Dan J. Stein, 1997 Can a worthwhile exchange be set up between the seemingly opposing viewpoints of psychoanalytic therapy and cognitive science Stein and the other contributing authors of Cognitive Science and the Unconscious say yes In fact it is their contention that such an interchange of theory and method combining the theoretical clarity and empirical rigor of cognitive science with the richness and complexity of clinical work holds the promise of enriching both disciplines The concept of unconsciousness as variously conceived by psychoanalysis The Unconscious and cognitive science unconscious processing is the reference point of this dialogue Written by a distinguished group of researchers and clinicians this volume examines those aspects of the unconscious mind most relevant to the psychiatric practitioner including unconscious processing of affective and traumatic experience unconscious mechanisms in dissociative states and disorders and cognitive approaches to dreaming and repression Although cognitive psychology forms the backbone of the book many of the chapters illuminate relevant work from the fields of artificial intelligence linguistics and biology
