An Historical Geography of Railways in Great Britain and Ireland David Turnock,2016-12-05 Although a great deal has been published on the economic social and engineering history of nineteenth century railways the work of historical geographers has been much less conspicuous This overview by David Turnock goes a long way towards restoring the balance It details every important aspect of the railway s influence on spatial distribution of economic and social change providing a full account of the nineteenth century geography of the British Isles seen in the context of the railway The book reviews and explains the shape of the developing railway network beginning with the pre steam railways and connections between existing road and water communications and the new rail lines The author also discusses the impact of the railways on the patterns of industrial urban and rural change throughout the century Throughout the historical geography of Ireland is treated in equal detail to that of Great Britain

Burnham Norton Friary After the Dissolution Sally Francis,2023 The story of the fate of a small Norfolk priory after its dissolution by Henry VIII in 1538 shows how both its medieval and modern history can be recovered by archival and physical research Burnham Norton Friary one of the first Carmelite houses founded in England 1242 47 was dissolved in 1538 Its remains comprise the restored gatehouse west gable of the church rebuilt as a barn Friary Cottage and an open space which was once the precinct The post Dissolution history of monastic sites has generally not been well studied At Norton nothing was known of its owners between 1561 and 1914 what relationships if any they had or how they used the site The fate of the Friary buildings was poorly understood and details of the gatehouse restoration unknown In this pioneering study Sally Francis uses both modern archival research and a survey of local houses to recover the history and something of the architecture of the friary Between 1538 and 1848 the church became a barn and the rest of the site was used as a farmstead In 1848 its owner restored the gatehouse 1848 9 saving it from dereliction but cleared away the farm buildings to turn the site into an Antiquarian relic Studying the post Dissolution history of the site has been a valuable exercise It not only allows that phase of the site to be understood it also illuminates aspects of the site s earlier history which given the loss of the Friary s own archives could not otherwise be studied
