Neanderthals Necklace In Search Of The First Thinkers:

The Neanderthal's Necklace Juan Luis Arsuaga, 2009-04-29 Neanderthals are at the center of this compelling narrative by Europe's leading anthropologist not because they were our ancestors but because they were not. Members of a parallel humanity that evolved in Europe for hundreds of thousands of years, they were in direct competition with Cro-Magnons, modern humans. The way Neanderthals lived and the reasons why they disappeared 50,000 years ago offer a surprising mirror in which we can examine and learn more about ourselves. Illustrated, concise and readable, this is a fascinating exploration of human origins. Lively, personal, refreshing and instructive, this book should be read by anyone interested in their own origins and our extinct relatives. Ian Tattersall, author of The Fossil Trail, The Last Neanderthal and Becoming Human.

Cryopolitics Joanna Radin, Emma Kowal, 2017-03-24 The social, political and cultural consequences of attempts to cheat death by freezing life. As the planet warms and the polar ice caps melt, naturally occurring cold is a resource of growing scarcity. At the same time, energy-intensive cooling technologies are widely used as a means of preservation. Technologies of cryopreservation support global food chains, seed and blood banks, reproductive medicine, and even the preservation of cores of glacial ice used to study climate change. In many cases, these practices of freezing life are an attempt to cheat death. Cryopreservation has contributed to the transformation of markets, regimes of governance, and ethics, and the very relationship between life and death. In Cryopolitics, experts from anthropology, history of science, environmental humanities, and indigenous studies make clear the political and cultural consequences of extending life and deferring death by technoscientific means. The contributors examine how and why low temperatures have been harnessed to defer individual death through freezing whole human bodies, to defer nonhuman species death by freezing tissue from endangered animals, to defer racial death by preserving biospecimens from indigenous people, and to defer large-scale human death through pandemic preparedness. The cryopolitical lens, emphasizing the roles of temperature and time, provokes new and important questions about living and dying in the twenty-first century. Readers will see how seemingly diverse disciplines intermingle: anthropology and economics, for example. The goal of the book is to teach students critical thought and problem-solving skills that will allow them to approach social issues in an unbiased manner. New to this edition are significant updates on race and the police, more comparison of deviance and criminality, alternative pathways in criminal justice, new technology such as self-driving cars, gay marriage, American political dynasties, refugee and immigration issues in Europe globally, American political dynasties, China's growing power, new trade initiatives, states in the
