Non Human Thought Boundaries Of Knowledge:

The Philosophy of 'as If' Hans Vaihinger, 1924 The present translation is based upon the definitive sixth edition of the original revised for the purpose by the author Professor Vaihinger's own account of his life work and of the spirit in which The philosophy of as if was written has been added by way of general introduction p vi

Knowledge and the Transcendent Paul A Macdonald, 2009 This book advances the claim that the human mind is not bounded on the outside but actually remains open to the world and to God As such the mind is able to know the world and God with varying degrees of objectivity The author turns to the philosophical theology of Thomas Aquinas in order to explore claims that Aquinas makes about human cognition as well as our knowledge of God In this life while we cannot know or see God directly we nevertheless can enjoy some knowledge of God by way of reason and faith both of which are cognitive capacities for forming and holding true beliefs about God Consequently the author argues that Aquinas provides powerful philosophical and theological resources for rehabilitating the mind's relationship to God and thus also safeguarding our knowledge of transcendent being and truth

Contemporary Security Studies Alan Collins, 2025 Proceedings of the ... Convocation University of the State of New York, 1924

The Western Devaluation of Knowledge Charles B. Osburn, 2013-12-05 The Western Devaluation of Knowledge is an exploration of the causes and effects of Western cultural changes that have evolved during the past half millennium of industrialization to diminish the value of knowledge as process Western culture has developed a conceptualization and valuation of knowledge that reverses the traditional knowledge continuum that connects data information to understanding As a result we displace the subjective and human features of knowledge with automated systems that conforms with information and devalues the knowledge process This book explains this change as a result of the industrial influences that began to gain strength in the 15th century and continued on that path through today's economic and cultural globalization The author shows that science and technology while bringing good on many fronts have also Weakened or replaced traditional sources of cultural authority Advanced a materialistic outlook Hastened the broad spread of capitalist values principles and strategies Fostered a pervasive dependence on technological innovation and Nurtured an extreme rationality Osburn shows that while any one of the above cultural currents would have been sufficient to cause deep and generalized change their confluence was the deciding inspiration for a different epistemology one that has altered the generally accepted meaning and valuation of knowledge

Worldviews in Conflict Ronald H. Nash, 2010-08-10 This world is a battlefield in the arena of ideas The prize is the heart and mind of humankind In this book Ronald Nash outlines the Christian way of looking at God self and the world He holds that worldview up against the tests of reason logic and experience particularly discussing the problems of evil and the alleged nonsense of the historic Christian doctrines and of Jesus incarnation and resurrection He finds the Christian worldview sound and urges Christians to equip themselves intellectually to defend the faith on that battlefield He particularly hits the attractions to our generation of naturalism and the New Age movement pointing out their weaknesses and pitfalls as well as those of older worldviews Christian theism he writes is a system that commends itself to the whole person but he stresses that a great difference exists between belief that and belief in

Ecofeminism and Systems Thinking Anne Stephens, 2013-07-18 This book brings together two vitally important strands of 20th century thinking to establish a set of simple and elegant principles for planning project design and evaluation It explains the backgrounds of cultural ecofeminism and critical systems thinking and what we find when they are systematically compared Both theories share a range of concepts have a strong social justice ethic and challenge the legacy of modernity The book takes theory into practice The value of the emergent principles of feminist systems thinking are described and demonstrated through four chapters of case studies in community development settings The principles can be used to influence project design and outcomes across a range of disciplines including project management policy health education and community development This book has much to offer practitioners who seek to create more socially just and equitable project and research outcomes

Space and the 'March of Mind' Alice Jenkins, 2007-01-18 This book is about the idea of space in the first half of the nineteenth century It uses contemporary poetry essays and fiction as well as scientific papers textbooks and journalism to give a new account of nineteenth century literature's relationship with science In particular it brings the physical sciences physics and chemistry more accessibly and fully into the arena of literary criticism than has been the case until now Writers whose work is discussed in this book include many who will be familiar to a literary audience including Wordsworth Coleridge and Hazlitt some well known in the history of science including Faraday Herschel and Whewell and a raft of lesser known figures Alice Jenkins draws a new map of the interactions between literature and science in the first half of the nineteenth century showing how both disciplines were wrestling with the same central political and intellectual concerns regulating access to knowledge organising knowledge in productive ways and formulating the relationships of old and new knowledges Space has become a subject of enormous critical interest in literary and cultural studies Space and the March of Mind gives a wide ranging account of how early nineteenth century writers thought about and thought with space Burgeoning mass access to print culture combined with rapid scientific development to create a crisis in managing knowledge Contemporary writers tried to solve this crisis by rethinking the nature of space Writers in all genres and disciplines from all points on the political spectrum returned again and again to ideas and images of space when they needed to set up or dismantle boundaries in the intellectual realm and when they wanted to talk about what kinds of knowledge certain groups of readers wanted needed or deserved This book provides a rich new picture of the early nineteenth century's understanding of its own culture
