communication Development of Nonverbal Behavior in Children R. S. Feldman, 2013-03-14 When I organized a symposium on the development of nonverbal behavior for the 1980 meeting of the American Psychological Association I was faced with an embarrassment of riches Thinking about the many people who were doing important and interesting research in this area it was hard to narrow down the choice to just a few Eventually I put together a panel which at least was representative of this burgeoning area of research In planning this volume two years later I was faced with much the same predicament except to an even larger degree For during that short period the area of children's nonverbal behavior came to grow even larger with more perspectives being brought to bear on the question of the processes involved in the development of children's nonverbal behavior The present volume attempts to capture these advances which have occurred as the field of children's nonverbal behavior has moved from its own infancy into middle childhood The book is organized into five major areas representative of the most important approaches to the study of children's nonverbal behavior 1 Psychobiological and ethological approaches 2 social developmental approaches 3 encoding and decoding skill approaches 4 discrepant verbal nonverbal communication approaches and 5 personality and individual difference approaches The discreteness of these categories should not be overemphasized as there is a good deal of overlap between the various approaches Nonetheless they do represent the major areas of interest in the field of the development of nonverbal behavior in children In the Mind's Eye National Research Council, Division of Behavioral and Social Sciences and Education, Commission on Behavioral and Social Sciences and Education, Committee on Techniques for the Enhancement of Human Performance, 1992-02-01 The archer stands and pulls back the bow visualizing the path of the arrow to the target Does this mental exercise enhance performance Can we all use such techniques to improve performance in our daily lives In the Mind's Eye addresses these and other intriguing questions This volume considers basic issues of performance exploring how techniques for quick learning affect long term retention whether an expert's behavior can serve as a model for beginners if team performance is the sum of individual members performances and whether subliminal learning has a basis in science The book also considers meditation and some other pain control techniques Deceit and the ability to detect deception are explored in detail In the area of self assessment techniques for career development the volume evaluates the widely used Myers Briggs Type Indicator

Yuille,2013-03-14 Credibility assessment refers to any attempt to ascertain truthfulness Other terms which have been used to refer to the assessment of credibility include the detection of deception and lie detection The term lie detection has become virtually synonymous with the use of the polygraph and can no longer be used to refer to the range of procedures currently employed to assess credibility Also both lie detection and the detection of deception have a negative cast which does not fully capture the orientation of current approaches to credibility Consequently the term credibility assessment has emerged recently as the preferred label The goal of credibility assessment is typically the determination of the truth of a statement or be found in set of statements The need or desire to make such an assessment can every human context from marital relations through clinical examinations to police and court interrogations Examples of the kinds of statements which require credibility assessment are 1 A child s assertion that she or he has been sexually abused 2 The claim by a previously suicidal person that he or she has recovered and will not attempt suicide again 3 The denial of guilt by a suspect in a criminal investigation 4 The confident statement of a witness that he or she is sure in his or her identification of a thief 5 The vow of loyalty by a potential employee for a security job It is necessary to assess the credibility of these and similar statements
