Management for the Public Domain Stewart Ranson, John David Stewart, 1994 In this important attempt to reorient the theory and practice of public management Stewart Ranson and John Stewart argue that public organisations must be analysed in terms of the distinctive values purposes tasks and conditions of the public domain They show how it is only on this basis that they can meet the needs of citizens in a mature democracy and support the processes of a learning society

Inside the Learning Society Stewart Ranson, 1998-11-01 As an approach to the diverse and shifting learning needs of today the learning society labours under a definitional generosity which has led to three different models evolving with competing claims This book traces the history of the concept and lucidly lays out these three interpretive models learning for work learning for citizenship and learning for democracy The book's close scrutiny concludes with an analysis that synthesizes and sharpens our understanding of the learning society With due consideration given to the emerging critique and with chapters from public bodies engaged in implementing learning society principles Inside the Learning Society offers a comprehensive appraisal of ideas and practices This is a book of great significance for anyone concerned about or involved in the future of education

The Learning Society in a Postmodern World Kenneth Wain, 2004 Lifelong learning has become a key concern as the focus of educational policy has shifted from mass schooling toward the learning society The shift started in the mid 1960s and early 1970s under the impetus of a group of writers and adult educators gravitating around UNESCO with a humanist philosophy and a leftist agenda The vocabulary of that movement was appropriated in the 1990s by other interests with a very different performativist agenda emphasizing effectiveness and economic outcomes This change of interest described in the book has signified the death of education The Learning Society in a Postmodern World explores different theoretical resources to respond to this situation mainly those that propose some restoration of an educated public or to the contrary individual self creation and uses the works of a broad range of philosophers and thinkers notably MacIntyre Habermas Foucault Derrida Rorty and Baudrillard In addition it raises important questions about postmodern and poststructuralist responses to education in the postmodern world Its comprehensiveness and historical background make it an essential textbook for theoretical courses in lifelong learning and in educational theory in general A broad range of interests and subject matter make it important reading for educators policy specialists media specialists researchers on the subject of lifelong learning and on the relation between education and the postmodern world political theorists philosophers and philosophers of education

Stories of Achievements Herve Corvellec, 2018-04-17 Performance is the yardstick by which the quality of individual and collective human effort is assessed Everywhere performance shapes the lives of people and organizations according to its logic and demands The quest for performance has spread to societies worldwide it has become of central importance for our perception of our activities and our understanding of the world Such importance calls for reflection within the context of organizations First all important social processes are strongly affected by organizations Second performance holds a commanding position in organizations In Stories of Achievements Herve Corvellec explains performance as a matter of telling recounting and communicating an organization's actions or the results of those actions. He describes how organizations work with the notion of performance and examines its connections with efficiency and competition. Corvellec begins with an assessment of management literature discussing the various ways different professions define performance. What is considered to be performance in one profession may be at odds with its definition in another. The author examines what performance means in the world of sports and provides a look at performance throughout sports history. He then draws parallels between sports and organizations detailing similarities and differences between performance and the notions of competitions, measurement and hierarchy. This study covers particular aspects of the notion of performance: linguistic, semantic, theoretical, logical, historical and narrative. Drawing on various methodologies, each chapter represents a smaller study of how performance is manifested in a particular context. Together they provide a general presentation of how the notion of performance is used in organizations where it comes from and what is meant by performance in general managerial discourse. Stories of Achievements will be engrossing reading for management, accounting and organization professionals as well as sociologists interested in the study of economic organizations.

Performance Indicators in Social Care for Older People David Challis, Paul Clarkson, 2017-03-02. The growing focus on performance review and monitoring means that awareness and use of performance indicators has increased throughout a number of public services. Set within a national context, this book reviews the historical development and measurement issues of performance indicators within social care and the public sector for older people. It then provides an approach to effective local performance measurement in services for older people and an organizing framework within which organizations can arrange their performance appraisal for older people's services. The development of performance review in social care of older people is examined, as is the process of developing local performance measures and engaging staff in enquiry and quality management. The book also reviews the process of developing performance indicators and their utilization at an agency level. Performance Indicators in Social Care for Older People will be of particular interest in the UK for local service providers who are developing approaches for local performance review. It will also be of interest internationally, especially in countries where services for older people are currently developing in a similar direction.

Corporate Social Capital and Liability Roger Th.A.J. Leenders, Shaul M. Gabbay, 2013-03-09 In studies of inter organizational relations IOR s there is a tendency to look at dyads of firms and to consider networks as aggregates of such dyads But there are several roles for a third party a go between This chapter looks at a go between not in the sense of a middleman who intermediates in existing production or trade such as an agent wholesaler retailer and not in the sense of an entrepreneur who intermediates in the realization of new potential in connecting supply and demand It looks at a go between in the sense of a relationship counsellor for the development and maintenance of social capital providing support in setting up adapting and ending cooperative relations between others Or in yet different terms to help in the embedding of relations in Granovetter s 1985 sense Uzzi 1997a Such roles may be performed by middlemen or entrepreneurs but also by specialized agents who do not play a direct role in linking stages in a chain of production and distribution as middlemen and entrepreneurs typically do Indeed some of the roles require an independence that is served by not having a direct stake in the relations that need to be developed I propose that the analysis yields a perspective for looking at the roles of trade and industry associations in European business systems and of banks and trading houses in Japanese enterprise groups Kigyo Shudan

Social Work, Critical Reflection and the Learning Organization Mark Baldwin, 2016-04-01 A critical characteristic of human service organizations is their capacity to learn from experience and to adapt continuously to changing external conditions such as downward pressure on resources constant reconfiguration of the welfare state and rapidly changing patterns of social need This invaluable groundbreaking volume discusses in detail the concept of the learning organization in particular its relevance to social work and social services Contributors join together from across Europe North America and Australia to explore the development of the learning organization within social work contexts and its use as a strategic tool for meeting problems of continuous learning supervision and change The volume addresses a range of important topics from strategies for embedding learning and critical reflection in the social work learning organization to the implications of the learning organization for the new community based health and social care agenda public services They show that these problems are connected to the recurring difficulties in defining the public that receives these services In particular they question whether the reinvention of the public as either a nation of consumers or a nation of communities can effectively address the implications of social diversity
