Myths Stories Organizations Premodern Narratives For Our Times:

Myths, Stories, and Organizations Yiannis Gabriel, 2004-01-29 Each chapter of this book takes as its starting point a myth a legend a story or a fable and explores its contemporary relevance for a world of globalization organizations and consumerism Each contributor is inspired by a relatively short but rich text which is then used as a springboard for an analysis of contemporary social and organizational realities The idea behind this book is that by looking at contemporary society through the prism of pre modern narratives certain features emerge in sharp relief while others are found to be entrenched in societies across the ages The texts that have inspired the authors of this collection differ some are myths some are stories one is a children s tale The origins of these texts differ from the scriptural to the folkloric from high art to oral tradition What all the texts have in common is a distinct and compelling plot a cast of recognizable characters with an ability to touch us and speak to us through the ages and above all a powerful symbolic aura one that makes them identifiable landmarks in storytelling tradition The driving force behind this project was each author s love for their narratives It is not an exaggeration to say that the book is a true labour of love The chapters are introduced by the editor and are arranged in four parts each with its own introduction The chapters in each part spring from stories that share a narrative character and are labelled as Knowledge Narratives Heroic Narratives Tragic Narratives and Reflexive Narratives The book offers a set of probing original and critical inquiries into the nature of human experience knowledge and truth the nature of leadership power and heroic achievement postmodernity and its discontents and emotion identity and the nature of human relations in organizations Different chapters deal among other things with the nature of leadership in the face of terrorism friendship women s position in organizations the struggle for identity the curse of insatiable consumption and the ways the hero and heroine are constructed in our times

Management Education and Humanities Barbara Czarniawska-Joerges, 2006 Academics and managers who strive for a humanistic management education usually care for people but they are challenged by sophisticated intellectual subjects and practical problems The authors experience competence and commitment enables them to present an extensive coverage of important views and an in depth study of these issues Eduard Bonet ESADE Spain This volume is a timely initiative It resonates with important questions on globalization and its consequences on the unrelenting quest for efficiency and productivity on recent corporate scandals and on the responsibilities of managers and management education This book is a manifesto for an intellectual revolution In a complex and open world managers often bump into the limits of the decontextualized tools associated with mainstream management knowledge and practice Managers have to navigate in a world that is not only economic but also political cultural shaped by history and ethical traditions and preoccupations not only as a mark of social capital but really as a way to enhance their managerial skills and efficiency The role of management education should be to prepare them for that odyssey and this volume tells us that humanities could be a powerful tool in that sense This project is served by a highly legitimate international panel of contributors who collectively point towards an alternative for management thinking and management education Marie Laure Djelic ESSEC Business School France Management Education and Humanities argues that management teachers and researchers seem to be increasingly dissatisfied with the way managers are usually educated in western countries It claims that educational practices and methods would greatly benefit from reflection on the implicit assumptions and paradigms behind those practices and debates the role that humanism and humanities might play in the formation of new managerial lites The book examines three themes that have emerged as central to the contemporary debate on management education the profession of management humanism as a philosophy and worldview and the humanities as an academic field where management schools could find new inspirations for curricula All three themes are scrutinized in a frame of reference extended between two different points of view the traditional view with its tendency to idealize and even sometimes romanticize humanism the humanities and management as a social function and the past modern view which is inclined to skepticism and to the deconstruction of social and cultural phenomena Providing a lively account of this ongoing debate and exploring new trends and experiences in management education this book will be invaluable reading for teachers students and researchers of management management strategy and organizational behaviour
