The Constant Fire Adam

Frank, 2009-01-06 Eloquent urgent and inspiring The Constant Fire tackles the acrimonious debate between science and religion taking us beyond its stagnant parameters into the wider domain of human spiritual experience From a Neolithic archaeological site in Ireland to modern theories of star formation Adam Frank traverses a wide terrain broadening our sights and allowing us to imagine an alternative perspective Drawing from his experience as a practicing astrophysicist and from the writings of the great scholars of religion philosophy and mythology Frank locates the connective tissue linking science and religion their commonality as sacred pursuits and finds their shared aspiration in pursuit of the True and the Real Taking us from the burning of Giordano Bruno in 1600 to Einstein and on to today's pressing issues of global warming and resource depletion The Constant Fire shows us how to move beyond this stale debate into a more profound experience of the world as sacred a world that embraces science without renouncing human spirituality

Appalachia Anthony Cavender, 2014-07-25 In the first comprehensive exploration of the history and practice of folk medicine in the Appalachian region Anthony Cavender melds folklore medical anthropology and Appalachian history and draws extensively on oral histories and archival sources from the nineteenth century to the present He provides a complete tour of ailments and folk treatments organized by body systems as well as information on medicinal plants patent medicines and magico religious beliefs and practices He investigates folk healers and their methods profiling three living practitioners an herbalist a faith healer and a Native American healer The book also includes an appendix of botanicals and a glossary of folk

Rhetoric of Foreign Crisis Denise M. Bostdorff,1994 The Presidency and the Rhetoric of Foreign Crisis examines presidential crisis management or the way U S presidents portray foreign crises to the American public as a potent tool for the accumulation and at times the forfeiture of political power Arguing that it is largely through presidential communication that foreign crises become real for American citizens Bostdorff does not claim that presidents fabricate crises but rather that they vigorously advance their version of the crisis to the American public in order to rally support for their foreign policies Bostdorff contends that presidential language can heighten the significance of events that otherwise would attract little public attention such as a coup on the tiny Caribbean island of Grenada and thereby persuade citizens to support U S military intervention and to view the commander in chief as a decisive victorious leader To prove her assertions Bostdorff presents case studies from six successive administrations Beginning with Kennedy and the Cuban missile crisis of 1962 she examines Johnson and the Gulf of Tonkin Nixon and Cambodia Ford and the Mayaguez Carter and Iran and Reagan and Grenada Concluding with an evaluation of Bush and Panama Bostdorff identifies the recurring themes that defined crisis rhetoric explains how that rhetoric encourages particular public reactions and raises disturbing questions about the implications for the American polity The New Sciences of Religion W. Grassie,2010-11-22 Performing a critical analysis of new scientific research on religious and spiritual phenomena Grassie takes a two staged phenomenological approach working from the outside in and the bottom up without privileging at the outset any religious traditions or philosophical assumptions
