Empires to be remembered Michael Gehler,Robert Rollinger,2022-03-10 By applying a comparative approach the volume focuses on a select group of empires which are generally not in the focus of empires studies They are studied in detail and analyzed due to a strict concept that takes into account real history and reception history as well Reception history becomes more and more an important element in empire studies although this topic is still often more or less underdeveloped The volume singles out a series of such forgotten empires It aims to provide a methodologically clearly structured as well as a uniform and consistent approach It develops a general set of questions that help to compare and distinguish these entities This way the volume intends to examine and to illuminate empires that are generally ignored by modern scholarship

Writing as Material Practice Kathryn E. Piquette, Ruth D. Whitehouse, 2013-12-18 Writing as Material Practice grapples with the issue of writing as a form of material culture in its ancient and more recent manifestations and in the contexts of production and consumption Fifteen case studies explore the artefactual nature of writing the ways in which materials techniques colour scale orientation and visibility inform the creation of inscribed objects and spaces as well as structure subsequent engagement perception and meaning making Covering a temporal span of some 5000 years from c 3200 BCE to the present day and ranging in spatial context from the Americas to the Near East the chapters in this volume bring a variety of perspectives which contribute to both specific and broader questions of writing materialities The authors also aim to place past graphical systems in their social contexts so they can be understood in relation to the people who created and attributed meaning to writing and associated symbolic modes through a diverse array of individual and wider social practices

Balat XII Clara Jeuthe, 2021-04-01 In the area of Balat on the eastern Dakhla Oasis the archaeological mission of the French Institute for Oriental Archaeology has uncovered a large area consisting of various camps dating from the early 4th Dynasty ca 2600 BC which were briefly but intensively occupied These are understood to have served as residential base camps for some of the indigenous and not yet fully sedentary population of the oasis the so called Late Sheikh Muftah group Little is known about this rather enigmatic group but the excavations at Balat have revealed for the first time a well preserved intra site stratigraphy with hitherto unknown dwelling features for Sheikh Muftah contexts The data gathered here is based on analysis of the features the material culture and in depth scientific studies The new evidence offers not only hints about local crafts food production and environmental conditions in Balat but also represents a new contribution to ongoing discussions on subsistence and patterns of mobility of non sedentary groups in the Western Desert This has given archaeologists a glimpse of the lifestyle of the Sheikh Muftah group and also for the first time shone a spotlight on daily life in a camp site in the oasis depression The date of this occupation in the Early Old Kingdom falls into a period when Egyptian Pharaonic presence was just beginning to be evident in archaeological data Cross cultural contacts between the Balat Sheikh Muftah community and the Egyptian Pharaonic population both within the oasis and into the Nile Valley are also in evidence and contribute to the discussions on transcultural exchange and assimilation processes in the oasis
