Nothingness, Metanarrative, and Possibility William E. Marsh, 2009-08-14 What is the solution to human angst and nothingness the gnawing emptiness and frustration with the limits and fragility of this present existence After reviewing the work of Sren Kierkegaard Friedrich Nietzsche Martin Heidegger and Jean Paul Sartre on this question this work argues that the proper response must be metaphysical metanarrative a transcendent metaphysical metanarrative that is the ground of all that is yet a metaphysical metanarrative that makes the fullness of meaning available and apprehensible in physical experience This metanarrative this work asserts is the logos the ultimate referent principle of the ancient Greeks and according to Christianity the God man Jesus Christ the eternal become present in present experience Because the logos constitutes transcendence in human form it recognizes the beauty of existential experience even as it underscores the necessity of transcendence for temporal meaning The logos as metaphysical metanarrative brings the worlds of time and eternity together linking earth and the beyond in a seamless whole It is the ultimate existential experience Effective Speech-language Pathology John R. Theology, Psychology and the Plural Self Léon Turner,2016-02-17 Is the human self singular and unified or essentially plural This book explores the seemingly disparate ways that Christian theology and the secular human sciences have approached this complex question The latter have largely embraced the idea of the plural self as an inescapable even adaptive feature of psychological life Contemporary Christian theology by contrast has largely neglected recent psychological accounts of the naturalness of self plurality and has sought to reaffirm the self s unity in opposition to those postmodern theorists who would dismantle it Through an original analysis of recent theological and secular accounts of self and personhood this book examines the extent of the intertheoretical disparity and its broader implications for theology s dialogue with the human sciences in general and psychology in particular It explains why theologians ought to take questions about the plurality of self very seriously and how they overlap with many of the central concerns of contemporary theological anthropology including the notions of relationality particularity and human sinfulness Introducing a novel psychological framework to distinguish various understandings of self disunity the author argues that contemporary theology s blanket condemnation of self multiplicity is misconceived and identifies a possible means of reconciling theological and human scientific accounts
