Dabrowski, Zdzislaw E. Sikorski, 2004-11-15 While systems such as GMP and HACCP assure a high standard of food quality foodborne poisonings still pose a serious hazard to the consumer's health. The lack of knowledge among some producers and consumers regarding the risks and benefits related to food makes it imperative to provide updated information in order to improve food safety To Natural Toxins in Food ,2022 Consumer's Guide Natural Toxicants in Foods ,1992

Antinutrients and Natural Toxicants in Foods Robert Louis Ory,Robert L. Ory,1981 Abstract Proceedings of a 1979 symposium presented for food scientists and nutritionists cover 19 research themes in the area of food antinutrients and toxicants Antinutrients include various materials present in plants that can bind essential minerals allergens flatus oligosaccharides or vitamin antagonists Toxicants include naturally occurring toxins and those that may occur from microbial activity during storage processing or cooking Research themes include sweet potato mold the controversy over nitrites and nitrosamines tremorgenic mycotoxins cottonseed protein antinutrients cereal grain hemagglutinins potato and legume proteinase inhibitors fluoride intake and retention dietary fiber effects on zinc bioavailability and vitamin B6 antagonists in natural products wz Natural Toxicants in Our Food Great Britain. Nollet, Javed Ahmad, 2022-12-02 Natural toxins are toxic compounds that are naturally produced by living organisms. These toxins are not harmful to the organisms themselves but they may be toxic to other creatures including humans when eaten These chemical compounds have diverse structures and differ in biological function and toxicity Some toxins are produced by plants as a natural defense mechanism against predators insects or microorganisms or as a consequence of infestation with microorganisms such as mold in response to climate stress such as drought or extreme humidity Well known groups of natural toxins of plant origin are cyanogenic glycosides pyrrolizidine alkaloids furocoumarins lectins and glycoalkaloids These plant origin natural toxins can cause a variety of adverse health effects and pose a serious health threat to both humans and livestock Analysis of Naturally Occurring Food Toxins of Plant Origin is divided into three sections that provide a detailed overview of different classes of food toxins that are naturally found in plants including various analytical techniques used for their structural characterization identification detection and quantification This book provides in depth information and comprehensive discussion over quantitative and qualitative analysis of natural toxins in plant based foods Key Features Provides a detailed overview of different classes of natural toxins found in plants Explains how IR NMR and mass spectrometry are utilized in characterization and identification Describes applicability of HPLC LC MS GC MS and HPTLC techniques for detection and quantification Discusses progress in the field related to capillary electrophoresis ELISA and biosensors for quantitative application of these techniques Also available in the Food Analysis and Properties Series Nutriomics Well being through Nutrition edited by Devarajan Thangadurai Saher Islam Leo M L Nollet Juliana Bunmi Adetunji ISBN 9780367695415 Bioactive Peptides from Food Sources Analysis and Functions edited by Leo M L Nollet and Semih tle ISBN 9780367608538 Mass Spectrometry in Food Analysis edited by Leo M L Nollet and Robert Winkler ISBN 9780367548797 For a complete list of books in this series please visit our website at www crcpress com Food Analysis Properties book series CRCFOODANPRO Natural toxicants in our food ,1993 Natural Toxicants in Food Judit Katona-Apte, John Joseph Baxter Anderson, Health Sciences Consortium (U.S.), United States. Centre for Food Safety, 2007 Food Safety and Natural Toxins Mary Fletcher, Gabi Netzel, 2020 Natural toxins are poisonous secondary metabolites produced by living organisms which are typically not harmful to the organisms themselves but can impact on human or animal health when consumed Common sources of such toxins include poisonous plants fungi algae and bacteria and the diversity of these biological systems presents challenges to analytical chemists in identification in addition to wide ranging food safety implications when present as contaminants in food commodities. The propensity for such toxins to be present in both animal feed and human food has led to the introduction of regulations for a small number of the most potent natural toxins particularly mycotoxins Implementation of these regulations necessitates the establishment of high throughput analytical chemistry methods with increasingly lower limits of detection The impacts of plant toxins are not limited to grazing livestock but can be carried through the food chain with some toxins such as indospicine being demonstrated to accumulate in tissues of grazing animals causing secondary poisoning in animals consuming meat from this livestock This Special Issue focuses on the analysis of natural toxins and their incidence from source organisms to food and feed commodities in addition to their implications for food safety
