Preparing Citizens

Joan N. Burstyn

Preparing Citizens:

Making Citizens Beth C. Rubin, 2012 Can social studies classrooms be effective makers of citizens if much of what occurs in these classrooms does little to prepare young people to participate in the civic and political life of our democracy Making Citizens illustrates how social studies can recapture its civic purpose through an approach that incorporates meaningful civic learning into middle and high school classrooms The book explains why social studies teachers particularly those working in diverse and urban areas should infuse civic education into their teaching and outlines how this can be done effectively Directed at both pre service and in service social studies teachers and designed for easy integration into social studies methods courses this book follows students and teachers in social studies classrooms as they experience a new approach to the traditional history oriented social studies curriculum using themes essential questions discussion writing current events and action research to explore enduring civic questions Following the experiences of three teachers working at three diverse high schools Beth C Rubin considers how social studies classrooms might become places where young people study ponder discuss and write about relevant civic questions while they learn history She draws upon the latest sociocultural theories on youth civic identity development to describe a field tested approach to civic education that takes into consideration the classroom and curricular constraints faced by new teachers

Making Citizens Bridget Byrne, 2014-11-25 In an increasingly mobile world with mounting concerns about the states control of borders and migration passports and citizenship rights matter more than ever This book asks what citizenship ceremonies can tell us about how citizenship is understood through empirical research in the UK the USA Canada Australia the Netherlands and Ireland The Making of Citizens Joseph Grégoire de Roulhac Hamilton, Edgar Wallace Knight, 1922 Making Citizens Zev M.

Trachtenberg, 2013-01-11 By analysing Rousseau s conception of the general will Zev Trachtenberg characterises the attitude of civic virtue Rousseau believes individuals must have to cooperate successfully in society Rousseau holds that culture affects political life by either fostering or discouraging civic virtue However while the cultural institutions Rousseau endorses would motivate citizens to obey the law they would not prepare citizens to help frame it Rousseau s view of culture thus works against his account of legitimacy and Trachtenberg concludes that Rousseau s political theory as a whole is inconsistent Schooling and the Making of Citizens in the Long Nineteenth Century Daniel Tröhler, Thomas S.

Popkewitz, David F. Labaree, 2011-05-09 This book is a comparative history that explores the social cultural and political formation of the modern nation through the construction of public schooling It asks how modern school systems arose in a variety of different republics and non republics across four continents during the period from the late eighteenth century to the early twentieth century The authors begin with the republican preoccupation with civic virtue the need to overcome self interest in order to take up the common interest which requires a form of education that can produce individuals who are capable of self guided rational action for the public good They then ask how these educational preoccupations led to the emergence of modern school systems in a disparate array of national contexts even those that were not republican By examining historical changes in republicanism across time and space the authors explore central epistemologies that connect the modern individual to community and citizenship through the medium of schooling Ideas of the individual were reformulated in the nineteenth century in reaction to new ideas about justice social order and progress and the organization and pedagogy of the school turned these changes into a way to transform the self into the citizen Making a Global City Robert Vipond,2017-01-01 Making a Global City critically examines the themes of diversity and community in a single primary school the Clinton Street Public School in Toronto between 1920 and 1990 The Routledge Handbook of Chinese Citizenship Zhonghua Guo,2021-11-29 Two assumptions prevail in the study of Chinese citizenship one holds that citizenship is unique to the Western political culture and China has historically lacked the necessary conditions for its development the other implies that China is an authoritarian regime that has always been subject to autocratic power in which citizens and citizenship play a limited role This volume negates both assumptions On the one hand it shows that China has its own unique and rich experiences of the emergence development rights obligations acts culture education and sites of citizenship indicating the need to widen the scope of citizenship studies to include non Western societies On the other hand it aims to show that citizenship has been a core issue running through China s political development since the modern period urging scholars to bring citizenship into consideration in the study of Chinese politics This Handbook sets a new agenda for citizenship studies and Chinese politics Its clear accessible style makes it essential reading for students and scholars interested in citizenship and China studies Becoming Active Citizens Tom Driscoll,Shawn W. McClusker,2022-05-24 Reimagine civic education This innovative resource provides practical strategies and technological resources for creating authentic engaging learning experiences that empower students to participate in civic discourse and action It examines the current reality of civic education in the United States and other democracies identifies why change is necessary and guides readers on how to spark interest and build skills for participating in a democratic society K 12 educators and leaders will Learn how to transform civic education to prepare students to become active and engaged citizens Discover how to weave civic instruction across the curriculum to create authentic interdisciplinary projects Explore games and other activities that enhance student engagement and understanding of civics Receive lesson examples of effective civic instruction for various grade levels and subject areas Understand how to create opportunities for teaching democratic values through productive civil discourse Contents Introduction Part I Civic Education in 2022 Chapter 1 Civic Education in 2022 Chapter 2 What Works in Civic Education Part II Modern Civic Education in Action Chapter 3 The Power of Action Civics and Authentic Experiences Chapter 4 Engagement in Civil Discourse Chapter 5 News Media Literacy for Combating Misinformation Chapter 6 Engagement Through Games Simulations and Competitions Part III Civics Lessons Across Subject Areas Chapter 7 Civics Lessons for English Language Arts and Social Studies Chapter 8 Civics Lessons for Science and Mathematics Chapter

9 Interdisciplinary Civics Experiences Epilogue References and Resources Index Making European Citizens R. Bellamy, D. Castiglione, J. Shaw, 2015-12-31 Making European Citizens examines the forms of transnational citizenship developing in Europe Active citizenship involves more than simply voting Achieving mobilization at a transnational level may involve new democratic techniques and skills The volume explores how far European citizens have acquired the requisite methods and qualities Theorizing Chinese Citizenship Zhonghua Guo, Sujian Guo, 2015-10-08 This volume theorizes the concept of citizenship in contemporary China by probing into the formation of Chinese citizenship and synthesizing the practices of citizenship by different social groups The first section Imagining Chinese Citizenship analyses how Chinese citizenship was first imagined by means of translation and education at the beginning of the twentieth century The Chinese citizenship was then compared with the concept of Western citizenship and that of other Asian countries The second section Citizenship of Chinese Migrant Workers explains the citizenship status of migrant workers by discussing the relationship between household registration hukou system and citizenship of the migrant workers showing how migrant workers contest their citizenship rights and categorizing the resistance of migrant workers from the perspective of citizenship Finally the last section Chinese Citizenship Education discusses the conditions and challenges of citizenship education in Chinese schools

Citizen Environmentalists James Lewis Longhurst, 2010 A telling look at the lives and strategies of women environmental activists in the long 1960s solidly grounded in a national context Teaching History, Learning Citizenship Jeffery D. Nokes, 2019 Learn how to design history lessons that foster students knowledge skills and dispositions for civic engagement Each section of this practical resource introduces a key element of civic engagement such as defending the rights of others advocating for change taking action when problems are observed compromising to promote reform and working with others to achieve common goals Primary and secondary sources are provided for lessons on diverse topics such as the Alice Paul and the Silent Sentinels Samuel Gompers and the American Federation of Labor Harriet Tubman Reagan and Gorbachev s unlikely friendship and Lincoln s plan for Reconstructing the Union With Teaching History Learning Citizenship teachers can show students how to apply historical thinking skills to real world problems and to act on civic dispositions to make positive changes in their communities Teachers will appreciate the adaptability of the unscripted lessons in this book Each lesson provides background historical context for the teacher and the resources to expose students to themes of civic engagement that cut across historical time periods and current events With the case studies ideas and sources in this book teachers can instill students with the dispositions of democratic citizens From the Foreword by Laura Wakefield interim executive director National Council for History Education Making a Difference in Theory Gert Biesta, Julie Allan, Richard Edwards, 2013-07-18 Making a Difference in Theory brings together original work from an international group of authors on the roles of theory in educational research and practice The book discusses the different roles theory plays can play and should play both from a historical perspective and in light of contemporary discussions and developments Particular attention is paid to the question of whether there are or should be distinctively educational forms of theory and theorising The double engagement with the theory question in education and the education question in theory and theorising provides original insights in what theory does might do or should do in educational research and practice With contributions from internationally renowned authors in the field of educational theory research and practice the book will be of value to academics researchers and postgraduate students in education Globalizing Citizenship Kim Rygiel,2011-01-01

The events of 9 11 exposed and enhanced tensions between global capitalism and the nation state Governments struggle more than ever to govern populations and manage cross border traffic without building new barriers to trade and commerce What does citizenship mean in this context Is it in crisis Kim Rygiel explores these questions by examining border and detention policies in the United States the United Kingdom Canada and Australia as part of a larger politics of citizenship that preceded 9 11 Building on Foucault s concept of biopolitics she argues that citizenship is becoming a globalizing regime to govern mobility as nations harmonize border and detention policies outsource state functions to international organizations and private companies and rely on technologies of governing to discipline the body The new mobility regime is not only deepening boundaries based on race class and gender it is causing Western nations to embrace a more technocratic depoliticized understanding of citizenship Making Disease, Making Citizens Suzanne Fraser,Kate Seear,2016-05-13

Since the naming of hepatitis C in 1989 knowledge about the disease has grown exponentially So too however has the stigma with which it is linked Associated with injecting drug use and tainted blood scandals hepatitis C inspires fear and blame Making Disease Making Citizens takes a timely look at the disease those directly affected by it and its social and cultural implications Drawing on personal interviews and a range of textual sources the book presents a scholarly and engaging analysis of a newly identified and highly controversial disease and its relationship to philosophies of health risk and harm in the West It maps the social and medical negotiations taking place around the disease shedding light on the ways these negotiations are also co producing new selves Adopting a feminist science and technology studies approach this theoretically sophisticated empirically informed analysis of the social construction of disease and the philosophy of health will appeal to those with interests in the sociology of health and medicine health communication and harm reduction and science and technology studies Making Citizens in Africa Lahra Smith,2013-05-20 This book provides a study of contemporary politics in Ethiopia through an empirical focus on language policy citizenship ethnic identity and gender It is unique in its focus not only on the political institutions of Ethiopia and the history of the country but in that it studies these subjects at the intersection of both modern and historical time periods In particular it argues that meaningful citizenship which is much more than the legal state of being a citizen is a process of citizens and the state negotiating the practice of citizenship Therefore it puts the citizen back at the forefront of the process of expanding citizenship suggesting the ways that citizens support resist and affect state policy on political rights Educating Tomorrow's Valuable Citizen Joan N.

Burstyn,1996-07-03 The authors discuss the dilemmas that face those who would educate tomorrow's valuable citizens and describe the day to day commitment needed to maintain a community. Important questions are asked: How do our public schools educate children to become members of our particular public? What problems face citizens of a democracy committed to both pluralism and equity? How has the meaning of citizenship changed as our society has evolved? In a world made interdependent through technology, how can one best define citizenship? The book's various perspectives provide guidelines for action through examples of current programs, and the reader is invited to join new forums to discuss questions raised in forums that allow for heated but civil disagreement. Only by engaging in such discussions can a public consensus be reached on the best ways to educate for tomorrow. Contributors include John Covalleskie, Ellen Giarelli, James Giarelli, Jerilyn Fay, Kelle Thomas, Mauhs Pugh, Barbara McEwan, Mary B. Stanley, Donald Warren, and Zeus Yiamouyiannis. Citizenship and Security

Xavier Guillaume, Jef Huysmans, 2013-08-15 This book engages the intense relationship between citizenship and security in modern politics. It focuses on questions of citizenship in security analysis in order to critically evaluate how political being is and can be constituted in relation to securitising practices. In light of contemporary issues and events such as human rights regimes, terrorism, identity control, commercialisation of security, diaspora and border policies, this book addresses a citizenship deficit in security studies. The chapters introduce several key political themes that characterise the interplays between citizenship and security: changes in citizenship regimes, the renewed insecurity of citizenship, state relations, the emerging ways by which the political and national communities are crafted, and the ways democratic societies and regimes react in times of insecurity. Approaching citizenship as both a governmental practice and a resource of political contestation, the book aims to highlight what political challenges and contestations are created in situations where security intensely meets citizenship today. This book will be of interest to scholars of security studies and security politics, citizenship studies and international relations.

Resources in Education, 1997 Making Citizens in Argentina Benjamin Bryce, David M. K. Sheinin, 2017-06-30 Making Citizens in Argentina charts the evolving meanings of citizenship in Argentina from the 1880s to the 1980s. Against the backdrop of immigration, science, race, sport, populist rule, and dictatorship, the contributors analyze the power of the Argentine state and other social actors to set the boundaries of citizenship. They also address how Argentines contested the meanings of citizenship over time and demonstrate how citizenship came to represent a great deal more than nationality or voting rights. In Argentina, it defined a person's relationships with and expectations of the state. Citizenship conditioned the rights and duties of Argentines and foreign nationals living in the country. Through the language of citizenship, Argentines explained to one another who belonged and who did not. In the cultural, moral, and social requirements of citizenship, groups with power often marginalized populations whose societal status was more tenuous. Making Citizens in Argentina also demonstrates how workers, politicians, elites, indigenous peoples, and others staked their own claims to citizenship.
