In their presence, we know that everything in our relationship with them is directed toward themselves – their insecurities, their neediness, their hunger for attention.

Presence Of Self:

The Presence of Self R. S. Perinbanayagam, 2000-01-19 Drawing on ideas from Charles Sanders Peirce George Herbert Mead Kenneth Burke and Mikhail Bakhtin this work focuses on the centrality of the social act in describing and understanding the beingness of the human individual situating such acts in dialogic and rhetorical processes Such processes enable actors to give presence to their selves and it is claimed put them into play by using both a logic and a poetic of identity These arguments are supported by an analysis of everyday conversations certain inter personal encounters and acts of reading and watching sporting engagements

Kohut's Self Psychology for a Fractured World John Hanwell Riker, 2024-05-20 Drawing from Kohut s conceptualisation of self Riker sets out how contemporary America s formulation of persons as autonomous self sufficient individuals is deeply injurious to the development of a vitalizing self structure a condition which lies behind much of the mental illness and social malaise of today s world By carefully attending to Kohut s texts Riker explains the structural functional and dynamic dimensions of Kohut s concept of the self He creatively extends this concept to show how the self can be conceived of as an erotic striving for connectedness beauty and harmony separate from the ego Riker uses this distinction to reveal how social practices of contemporary American society foster skills and traits to advance the aims of the ego for power and control but tend to suppress the needs of the self to authentically express its ideals and connect with others The book explores the impact that this view can have on clinical practice and concludes by imaginatively constructing an ideal self psychological society using Plato's Republic as a touchstone Informed by self psychology and philosophy this book is essential reading for psychoanalysts psychotherapists and philosophers seeking to revisit and revise constructions of both self and humanity

Memory and the Self Mark Rowlands, 2016-10-14 The idea that our memories in some sense make us who we are is a common one and not at all implausible After all what could make us who we are if not the things we have experienced thought felt and desired on these idiosyncratic pathways through space and time that we call lives And how can we retain these experiences thoughts feelings and desires if not through memory On the other hand most of what we have experienced has been forgotten And there is now a considerable body of evidence that suggests that even when we think we remember our memories are likely to be distorted sometimes beyond recognition Imagine writing your autobiography only to find that that most of it has been redacted and much of the rest substantially rewritten What would hold this book together What would make it the unified and coherent account of a life The answer Mark Rowlands argues lies partially hidden in a largely unrecognized form of memory Rilkean memory A Rilkean memory is produced when the content of a memory is lost but the act of remembering endures in a new mutated form a mood a feeling or a behavioral disposition Rilkean memories play a significant role in holding the self together in the face of the poverty and inaccuracy of the contents of memory But Rilkean memories are important not just because of what they are but also because of what they were before they became

Attention and Self-Regulation C. S. Carver,M. F. Scheier,2012-12-06 Seek simplicity and distrust it Alfred North Whitehead It will become all too clear that an ability to see patterns in behavior an ability that some might feel proud of can lead more easily to a wrong description than a right one William T Powers The goal of the theorist the scholar is to take a collection of observations of the world and perceive order in them This process necessarily imposes an artificial simplicity upon those observations That is specific observations are weighed differently from each other whenever a theoretical account is abstracted from raw experiences Some observed events are misunderstood or distorted others are seen as representing random fluctuations and are ignored and yet others are viewed as centrally important This abstraction and oversimplification of reality is inevitable in theory construction Moreover the abstracted vision builds upon itself That is as a structure begins to emerge from continued observation the structure itself guides the search for new information The result is a construction that is more elaborate than what existed before but it still is usually simpler than reality It is important for scholars to believe in the value of their task and in the general correctness of the vision that guides their work This commitment and the hope of progress that follows from it make it possible to continue even when the work is difficult and slow
