Tradition, Interpretation, and Science John S. Nelson, 1986-12-15 This book reassesses the academic field of political theory and brings into sharp relief its problems and opportunities Here for the first time diverse theorists coordinate their arguments through a common focus This focus is the writing of John G Gunnell Gunnell attacks a set of myths said to plague almost every recent theory about politics the myth of the given the myth of science myths of theory the myth of tradition and the myth of the political He argues that these all alienate political theory from substantive inquiry and actual practice Contributors include Richard E Flathman Russell L Hanson George Kateb Paul F Kress J Donald Moon John S Nelson J G A Pocock Herbert G Reid Ira L Strauber Nathan Tarcov and Sheldon S Wolin They respond on behalf of projects in the new history of political theory epic theory phenomenology traditional theory and political deconstruction These discussions also address the theories of Hans Georg Gadamer Jürgen Habermas Karl Marx Leo Strauss Alain Touraine and Ludwig Wittgenstein At the conclusion of the volume Gunnell reconsiders his arguments in light of the respondent's remarks His challenges thus provide a series of confrontations both exciting and provocative among major theorists The result is a lively debate about what political theory is how it relates to political history and practice and how it involves epistemology The authors probe a broad range of questions about practices of politics and traditions of discourse and they identify priorities for the future of the field external philosophical and theological forms of reasoning that have been developed in modern and post liberal Jewish philosophy Steven Kepnes argues that liturgical reasoning can reorient Jewish philosophy and provide it with new tools new terms of discourse and analysis and a new sensibility for the twenty first century The formal philosophical study of Jewish liturgy began with Moses Mendelssohn and the modern Jewish philosophers Thus the book focuses in its first chapters on the liturgical reasoning of Moses Mendelssohn Hermann Cohen and Franz Rosenzweig However it attempts to augment and further develop the liturgical reasoning of these figures with methods of study from Hermeneutics Semiotic theory post liberal theology anthropology and performance theory These newer theories are enlisted to help form a contemporary liturgical reasoning that can respond to such events as the Holocaust the establishment of the State of Israel and interfaith dialogue between Jews Christians and Muslims

Language, Cognition and Gender Alan Garnham, Jane Oakhill, Lisa von Stockhausen, Sabine Sczesny, 2016-08-08 Gender inequality remains an issue of high relevance and controversy in society Previous research shows that language contributes to gender inequality in various ways Gender related information is transmitted through formal and semantic features of language such as the grammatical category of gender through gender related connotations of role names e g manager secretary and through customs of denoting social groups with derogatory vs neutral names Both as a formal system and as a means of communication language passively reflects culture specific social conditions In active use it can also be used to express and potentially perpetuate those conditions The questions addressed in the contributions to this Frontiers Special Topic include how languages shape the cognitive representations of gender how features of languages correspond with gender equality in different societies how language contributes to social behaviour towards the sexes how gender equality can be promoted through strategies for gender fair language use These questions are explored both developmentally across the life span from childhood to old age and in adults The contributions present work conducted across a wide range of languages including some studies that make cross linguistic comparisons Among the contributors are both cognitive and social psychologists and linguists all with an excellent research standing The studies employ a wide range of empirical methods from surveys to electro physiology The papers in the Special Topic present a wide range of complimentary studies which will make a substantial contribution to understanding in this important area Draft
