

Information Retrieval Techniques

- Basic Concepts
 - A document can be described by a set of representative keywords called index terms.
 - Different index terms have varying relevance when used to describe document contents.
 - This effect is captured through the assignment of numerical weights to each index term of a document. (e.g.: frequency, tf-idf)
- DBMS Analogy
 - Index Terms → Attributes
 - Weights → Attribute Values

Information Retrieval Daniel E. Rose, 2013-06-17 Many existing information retrieval IR systems are surprisingly ineffective at finding documents relevant to particular topics Traditional systems are extremely brittle failing to retrieve relevant documents unless the user's exact search string is found They support only the most primitive trial and error interaction with their users and are also static Even systems with so called relevance feedback are incapable of learning from experience with users SCALIR a Symbolic and Connectionist Approach to Legal Information Retrieval a system for assisting research on copyright law has been designed to address these problems By using a hybrid of symbolic and connectionist artificial intelligence techniques SCALIR develops a conceptual representation of document relationships without explicit knowledge engineering SCALIR's direct manipulation interface encourages users to browse through the space of documents It then uses these browsing patterns to improve its performance by modifying its representation resulting in a communal repository of expertise for all of its users SCALIR's representational scheme also mirrors the hybrid nature of the Anglo American legal system While certain legal concepts are precise and rule like others which legal scholars call open textured are subject to interpretation The meaning of legal text is established through the parallel and distributed precedence based judicial appeal system SCALIR represents documents and terms as nodes in a network capturing the duality of the legal system by using symbolic semantic network and connectionist links The former correspond to a priori knowledge such as the fact that one case overturned another on appeal The latter correspond to statistical inferences such as the relevance of a term describing a case SCALIR's text corpus includes all federal cases on copyright law The hybrid representation also suggests a way to resolve the apparent incompatibility between the two prominent paradigms in artificial intelligence the classical symbol manipulation approach and the neurally inspired connectionist approach Part of the book focuses on a characterization of the two paradigms and an investigation of when and how as in the legal research domain they can be effectively combined

Lectures on Information Retrieval Maristella Agosti,Fabio Crestani,Gabriella Pasi,2003-05-15 Information Retrieval IR is concerned with the effective and efficient retrieval of information based on its semantic content The central problem in IR is the quest to find the set of relevant documents among a large collection containing the information sought satisfying a user s information need usually expressed in a natural language query Documents may be objects or items in any medium text image audio or indeed a mixture of all three This book presents 12 revised lectures given at the Third European Summer School in Information Retrieval ESSIR 2000 held at the Villa Monastero Varenna Italy in September 2000 The first part of the book is devoted to the foundation of IR and related areas the second part on advanced topics addresses various current issues from usability aspects to Web searching and browsing Teaching and Learning in Information Retrieval Efthimis Efthimiadis, Juan M.

Fernández-Luna, Juan F. Huete, Andrew MacFarlane, 2011-10-06 Information Retrieval has become a very active research field in the 21st century Many from academia and industry present their innovations in the field in a wide variety of conferences and journals Companies transfer this new knowledge directly to the general public via services such as web search engines in order to improve their information seeking experience In parallel teaching IR is turning into an important aspect of IR generally not only because it is necessary to impart effective search techniques to make the most of the IR tools available but also because we must provide a good foundation for those students who will become the driving force of future IR technologies There are very few resources for teaching and learning in IR the major problem which this book is designed to solve The objective is to provide ideas and practical experience of teaching and learning IR for those whose job requires them to teach in one form or another and where delivering IR courses is a major part of their working lives In this context of providing a higher profile for teaching and learning as applied to IR the co editor of this book Efthimis Efthimiathis had maintained a leading role in teaching and learning within the domain of IR for a number of years This book represents a posthumous example of his efforts in the area as he passed away in April 2011 This book his book is dedicated to his memory
