Prisonhouse Of Psychoanalysis:

The Prisonhouse of Psychoanalysis Arnold I. Goldberg, 2013-05-13 In The Prisonhouse of Psychoanalysis Arnold Goldberg trains a searching critical eye on his own profession. His subject matter is the system of interlocking constraints—theoretical, institutional, educational—that imprisons psychoanalysis and the psychoanalyst. His agenda is to sketch the shape analysis might take in the absence of these constraints. What emerges from these twin endeavors is a penetrating critique of psychoanalysis from the inside from the vantage point of a senior analyst who has labored for many years within the prisonhouse that he now criticizes. In proffering an alternative vision of psychoanalysis, Goldberg ventures into recent literature in epistemology, philosophy of science, cognitive psychology, and the neurosciences so that one valuable byproduct of his work is a brilliant application of insights culled from these fields to the question of what analysis is and what it may yet become. His examination of psychoanalysis without foundations challenges the ability of infancy research data and neurological findings respectively to provide an empirical rock bottom from which psychoanalytic theory building can proceed. His chapter on psychoanalysis without representations reviews the analytic literature on the latter concept only to show how recent theories of brain processing, including connectionism, provides a basis for understanding mental phenomena without any intermediary representations. Finally, his vision of psychoanalysis without a subject assesses recent findings about the nature of memory, insights of contemporary philosophy, and Kohut's notion of the self-object as converging tributaries that make possible an analysis that dispenses with the conventional dichotomy of subject and object. Progress in Self Psychology, V. 9 Arnold I. Goldberg, 2013-05-13 The Widening Scope of Self Psychology is a watershed in the self psychological literature, being a contemporary reprise on several major clinical themes through which self psychology from its inception has articulated its challenge to traditional psychoanalytic thinking. The volume opens with original papers on interpretation by eminent theorists in the self psychological tradition, followed by a series of case studies and clinically grounded commentaries bearing on issues of sex and gender as they enter into analysis. Two thoughtful reexaminations of the meaning and treatment challenges of chronic rage are followed by clinical papers that focus respectively on mourning, alter ego transferences, resistance to change, and pathological identification. Applied analytic contributions and a review of Goldberg's The Prisonhouse of Psychoanalysis round out a collection that testifies not only to the widening scope of self psychology but to its deepening insights as well. Faithful Companionship Chris R. Schlauch, By engaging the reader in a process which parallels the pastoral counseling method—extending a conversation of revising and refining questions—Schlauch illustrates the content of his thinking through his carefully crafted presentation, maintaining that pastoral counseling is at its heart healing through faithful companionship. Progress in Self Psychology, V. 16 Arnold I. Goldberg, 2013-06-17 Volume 16 of Progress in Self Psychology: How Responsive Should We Be? illuminates the continuing tension between Kohut's emphasis on the patient's subjective experience and the post-Kohutian intersubjectivists' concern with the therapist's own subjectivity.

by focusing on issues of therapeutic posture and degree of therapist activity Teicholz provides an integrative context for examining this tension by discussing affect as the common denominator underlying the analyst's empathy subjectivity and authenticity Responses to the tension encompass the stance of intersubjective contextualism advocacy of active responsiveness and emphasis on the thorough going bidirectionality of the analytic endeavor Balancing these perspectives are a reprise on Kohut's concept of prolonged empathic immersion and a recasting of the issue of closeness and distance in the analytic relationship in terms of analysis of the tie to the negative selfobject Additional clinical contributions examine severe bulimia and suicidal rage as attempts at self state regulation and address the self reparative functions that inhere in the act of dreaming Like previous volumes in the series volume 16 demonstrates the applicability of self psychology to nonanalytic treatment modalities and clinical populations Here self psychology is brought to bear on psychotherapy with placed children on work with adults with nonverbal learning disabilities and on brief therapy Rector's examination of twinship and religious experience Hagman's elucidation of the creative process and Siegel and Topel's experiment with supervision via the internet exemplify the ever expanding explanatory range of self psychological insights alive and how death accompanies us at each step of our life's journey. It shows that psychologically speaking death is always present in life and life in death. Progress in Self Psychology, V. 10 Arnold I. Goldberg, 2013-09-05. The tenth volume in the Progress in Self Psychology series begins with four timely assessments of the selfobject concept followed by a section of clinical papers that span the topics of homosexuality, alter ego, countertransference, hypnosis, trauma, dream theory, and intersubjective approaches to conjoint therapy. Section III, A Dialogue of Self Psychology, offers Merton Gill's astute appreciation of Heinz Kohut's Self Psychology followed by commentaries by Leider and Stolorow and Gill's reply. The concluding section offers Stolorow and Atwood's 'The Myth of the Isolated Mind' followed by discussions by Gehrie and the Shanes. A forum for the kind of spirited, productive exchanges that have long found a home within the self psychological community. A Decade of Progress builds on the past in responding to the theoretical and clinical challenges of the present.

Matters of Life and Death Salman Akhtar, 2018-05-08 This book focuses on the intrapsychic vicissitudes of what it means to be truly

Intimate Attachments Morton Shane, Estelle Shane, Mary Gales, 1997-11-07. Offering new ways of thinking about the intimate connections between analyst and patient, this lucid, clinically oriented volume presents an innovative model of psychoanalytic change. The authors integrate current findings in self psychology, attachment, and infant research and developmental systems theory to demonstrate the transformative power of interpersonal sharing between both members of the dyad. Interweaving conceptual material and careful guidelines for practice with case studies and clinical commentary, Intimate Attachments illuminates the power of the psychoanalytic process and affords readers a heightened level of creativity, freedom, and spontaneity in their therapeutic work. This volume will be of benefit to mental health practitioners and students interested in psychodynamic theory and treatment. Progress in Self Psychology, V. 18 Arnold I. Goldberg, 2013-06-17. Postmodern Self Psychology, the last volume of the Progress in Self Psychology series under the editorship of Arnold Goldberg, charts the path of self psychology into the postmodern era of psychoanalysis. It begins with Goldberg's thoughtful consideration of the several tributaries of self psychological thought in the decades after Kohut and continues with Mark Gehrie's elaboration of reflective realism as a self psychological way out of epistemological quagmires about the essential reality of the analytic endeavor. Clinical contributions offer contemporary perspectives on clinical themes that engaged Kohut in the 1970s: a study of the effect of moments of meeting on systems of pathological accommodation; a reappraisal of empathy as a bi-directional negotiation; and an assessment of the diverse clinical phenomena that justify a prolonged understanding only phase of treatment. The theory section of Volume 18 comparably charts the movement of self psychology toward a postmodern sensibility. Contributors reappraise intersubjectivity theory as a contextualist treatment approach consistent with dynamic systems theory; return to Kohut's concept of selfobject relationships with special attention to the separate subjective and intersubjective components of selfobject experiences; and develop one of Kohut's early ideas into a theory of forward edge transferences that strengthen normal self development. In all, Volume 18 is a richly insightful progress report on the current status of self psychology and a fitting capstone to Arnold Goldberg's distinguished tenure as editor of the Progress in
