The American Prison Francis T. Cullen, Mary K. Stohr, 2014 For the first time in four decades prison populations are declining and politicians have reached the consensus that mass imprisonment is no longer sustainable At this unique moment in the history of corrections the opportunity has emerged to discuss in meaningful ways how best to shape efforts to control crime and to intervene effectively with offenders The American Prison Imagining a Different Future by Francis T Cullen Cheryl Lero Johnson and Mary K Stohr pulls together established correctional scholars to imagine what this prison future might entail Each scholar uses his or her expertise to craft in an accessible way for students to read a blueprint for how to create a new penology along a particular theme For example one contributor writes about how to use existing research expertise to create a prison that is therapeutic and another provides insight on how to create a feminist prison In the final chapter the editors pull together the lessons learned in a cohesive comprehensive essay American Corrections

Matt DeLisi, Peter John Conis, 2013 Introduction to Corrections Robert D. Hanser, 2023-02-20 Introduction to Corrections provides students with a comprehensive foundation of corrections that is practitioner driven and grounded in modern research and theoretical origins Experienced correctional practitioner scholar and author Robert D Hanser shows students how the corrections system works from classification security and treatment to demonstrating how and why correctional practices are implemented The Fourth Edition includes a special emphasis on the role of technology in each chapter new topics on medical care in jail female drug offenders and controversies around the death penalty and the impact of the COVID 19 pandemic on correctional practices Data and examples drawn from federal government documents along with exercises that reinforce concepts in the text further aid student learning Health and Health Care in the Nation's

Prisons Melvin Delgado, Denise Humm-Delgado, 2008-09-16 The United States correctional system is facing an urgent crisis in how to meet the health care needs of its prisoners As the number of inmates in correctional facilities increases prisons struggle to adequately address health care needs in a financially feasible way Many prisoners enter the system with medical problems that have gone unmet and the toxic environments inside the prisons further compromise their health causing serious problems both within the prisons themselves and in society as a whole when the prisoners are released Health and Health Care in the Nation's Prisons presents a comprehensive and up to date assessment of the health care challenges facing today's prisons along with concrete recommendations for change In addition to an overview of the most common prison health care problems this book provides a unique assessment of the needs of largely overlooked prison populations including women people of color and older adults Authors Melvin Delgado and Denise Humm Delgado cover high profile health care needs such as substance abuse and mental illness as well as lower profile needs like hepatitis and STDs They also provide essential background information on the development of today's crisis by tracing the history of the U S health care system and how it has changed over time to meet social needs

Public Health Behind Bars Robert Greifinger, 2007-10-04

Projecting correctional facility based health care into the community arena, Public Health Behind Bars: From Prisons to Communities examines the burden of illness in the growing prison population and analyzes the considerable impact on public health as prisoners are released. More than forty practitioners, researchers, and scholars in correctional health, mental health, law, and public policy make a timely case for correctional health care that is humane for those incarcerated and beneficial to the communities they reenter. These authors offer affirmative recommendations toward that evolutionary step. Chapter authors identify the most compelling health problems behind bars, including communicable disease, mental illness, addiction, and suicide. Pinpoint systemic barriers to care and explain how correctional medicine can shift from emergency or crisis care to primary care and prevention. In addition, strategies are outlined that link community health resources to correctional facilities so that prisoners can transition to the community without unnecessarily taxing public resources or falling through the cracks. Between the authors' research findings and practical suggestions, readers will find realistic answers to these and similar questions: Can transmission of HIV, tuberculosis, and other communicable diseases be reduced and prevented among prisoners? How can correctional facilities treat addiction more effectively? What can be done to improve diagnosis and treatment of psychiatric disorders? Can correctional care benefit from quality management and performance measurement?

How can care be coordinated between correctional and community health care providers What are the health risks to communities if action is not taken Public Health Behind Bars From Prisons to Communities is a challenge of immediate interest to readers in correctional health and medicine public and community health health care administration and policy and civil rights
