Railroad Vision Photography Travel And Perception:

Railroad Vision Anne M. Lyden, 2003 The invention of railway transportation coincided with the invention of photography together these innovations changed our perception of time space of our place in the world Anne Lyden presents over 100 photographs with railway themes showing how these technologies complimented each other over time

Photographers of Genius at the Getty Weston J. Naef, J. Paul Getty Museum, 2004 Celebrating 20 years of collecting photographs at the Getty Museum Photographers of Genius at the Getty spotlights the genius of 38 seminal photographers selected from the hundreds of artists represented in the collection

Anthropology of Tourism in Central and Eastern Europe Sabina Owsianowska, Magdalena Banaszekiewicz, 2018-04-11 In Anthropology of Tourism in Central and Eastern Europe Bridging Worlds Sabina Owsianowska and Magdalena Banaszekiewicz examine the limitations of the anthropological study of tourism which stem from both the domination of researchers representing the Anglophone circle as well as the current state of tourism studies in Central and Eastern Europe This edited collection contributes to the wider discussion of the geopolitics of knowledge through its focus on the anthropological background of tourism studies and its inclusion of contributors from Austria Bulgaria Estonia and Poland

Adirondack Photographers, 1850-1950 Sally E. Svenson, 2023-05-15 Just as the new technology of photography was emerging throughout the United States in the mid nineteenth century it caught hold in the scenic Adirondack region of upstate New York Young men and a few women began to experiment with cameras as a way to earn their livings with local portrait work From photographing individuals some expanded their subject matter to include families and groups homes streetscapes landmarks workplaces and important events from town celebrations to presidential visits train wrecks floods and fires These photographers from within and just beyond the park's borders as well as those based in the urban areas from which tourists came to the Adirondacks have been central in defining the region Adirondack Photographers 1850-1950 is a comprehensive look at the first one hundred years of photography through the lives of those who captured this unique rural region of New York State Svenson's fascinating biographical dictionary of more than two hundred photographers is enriched with over seventy illustrations While the popularity of some of these photographers is reflected in the number of their images held in the collections of the Library of Congress the New York Public Library and the Getty Museum little is known about the diverse backgrounds of the individuals behind their work A compilation of captivating stories Adirondack Photographers provides a vivid intimate account of the evolution of photography as well as an unusual perspective on Adirondack history

The Modern West Emily Ballew Neff, Barry Holstun Lopez, 2006-01-01 A fascinating and novel exploration of the transformative role played by the American West in the development of modernism in the United States Drawing extensively from various disciplines including ethnology geography geology and environmental studies this groundbreaking book addresses shifting concepts of time history and landscape in relation to the work of pioneering American artists during the first half of the 20th century Paintings watercolors and photographs by renowned artists such as Frederic Remington Georgia O Keeffe Ansel Adams Thomas Hart Benton Dorothea Lange and Jackson Pollock are considered alongside American Indian ledger drawings tempuras and Dineh sandpaintings Taken together these works document the quest to create a specifically American art in the decades prior to World War II The Modern West begins with a captivating meditation on the relationship between human culture and the physical landscape by Barry Lopez who traveled the West in the artists footsteps Emily Ballew Neff then describes the evolving importance of the West for American artists working out a radically new aesthetic response to space and place from artist explorers on the turn of the century frontier to visionaries of a Californian arcadia to desert luminaries who found in its stark topography a natural equivalent to abstraction Beautifully illustrated and handsomely designed this book is essential to anyone interested in the West and the history of modernism in American art

The Rural Cemetery Movement Jeffrey Smith, 2017-10-23 When Mount Auburn opened as the first rural cemetery in the United States in 1831 it represented a new way for Americans to think about burial sites It broke with conventional notions about graveyards as places to bury and commemorate the dead Rather the founders of Mount Auburn and the spate of similar cemeteries that followed over the next three decades before the Civil War created institutions that they envisioned being used by the living in new ways Cemeteries became places for leisure communing with nature and creating a version of collective memory In fact these cemeteries reflected changing values and attitudes of Americans spanning much of the nineteenth century In the process they became paradoxical they were rural yet urban natural yet designed artistic yet industrial commemorating the dead yet used by the living The Rural Cemetery Movement Places of Paradox in Nineteenth Century America breaks new ground in the history of cemeteries in the nineteenth century This book examines these rural cemeteries modeled after Mount Auburn that were founded between the 1830s and 1850s As such it provides a new way of thinking about these spaces and new paradigm for seeing and visiting them While they fulfilled the sacred function of burial they were first and foremost businesses The landscape and design regulation of gravestones appearance and rhetoric furthered their role as a business that provided necessary services in cities that went well beyond merely burying bodies They provided urban green spaces and respites from urban life established institutions where people could craft their roles in collective memory and served as prototypes for both urban planning and city parks These cemeteries grew and thrived in the second half of the nineteenth century for most the majority of their burials came before 1910 This expansion of cemeteries coincided with profound urban growth in the United States Unlike their predecessors founders of these burial grounds intended them to be used in many ways that reflected their views and values about nature life and death and relationships Emphasis on worldly accomplishments increased with industrialization and growth in the United States which was reflected in changing ways people commemorated their dead during the period under this study Thus these cemeteries are a prism through which to understand the values attitudes and culture of urban America from mid century through the Progressive Era

Photography, Vision, and the Production of Modern Bodies Suren Lalvani, 1996-01-01 Lalvani argues that modernity represents the powerful privileging of vision and the introduction of a paradigm of seeing that is historically distinctive. Taking the introduction of photography in the nineteenth century as a crucial development in the expansion of modern vision, he draws on the writings of Alan Sekula, John Tagg, Jonathan Crary, Norman Bryson, and Martin Jay to examine in a comprehensive manner how photography functioned to organize a set of relations between knowledge, power, and the body. However, in taking a broad cultural studies approach, Lalvani situates the practices of photography within the larger visual order of the nineteenth century. He demonstrates how the new lines of visibility formed not only by photography but by new urban spaces and new modes of transportation, resulting in a particular organizing of the social order of subjectivity and social relations. Railroad History, 2004

Photography and Other Media in the Nineteenth Century Nicoletta Leonardi, Simone Natale, 2018-02-05 In this volume, leading scholars of photography and media examine photography's vital role in the evolution of media and communication in the nineteenth century. In the first half of the nineteenth century, the introduction of telegraphy, the development of a cheaper and more reliable postal service, the rise of the mass circulation press, and the emergence of the railway dramatically changed the way people communicated and experienced time and space. Concurrently, photography developed as a medium that changed how images were produced and circulated. Yet for the most part, photography of the era is studied outside the field of media history. The contributors to this volume challenge those established disciplinary boundaries as they programmatically explore the intersections of photography and new media during a period of fast-paced change. Their essays look at the emergence and early history of photography in the context of broader changes in the history of communications: the role of the nascent photographic press in photography's infancy and the development of photographic techniques as part of a broader media culture that included the mass-consumed novel, sound recording, and cinema. Featuring essays by noteworthy historians in photography and media history, this discipline-shifting examination of the communication revolution of the nineteenth century is an essential addition to the field of media studies. In addition to the editors, contributors to this volume are Geoffrey Batchen, Geoffrey Belknap, Lynn Berger, Jan von Brevin, Anthony Enns, Andr  Gaudreault, Lisa Gitelman, David Henkin, Erkki Huhtamo, Philippe Marion, Peppino Ortoleva, Steffen Siegel, Richard Taws, and Kim Timby.

The Railroad Photography of Jack Delano Tony Reevy, 2015-12-14 Born in the Ukraine, photographer Jack Delano moved to the United States in 1923. After graduating from Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts in 1937, Delano worked for the Farm Security Administration (FSA) and the Office of War Information (OWI) as a photographer. Best known for his work for the Office of War Information during 1940-1943, Jack Delano captured the face of American railroading in a series of stunning photographs. His images, especially his portraits of railroad workers, are a vibrant and telling portrait of industrial life during one of the most important periods in American history. This remarkable collection features Delano's photographs of railroad operations and workers taken for the OWI in the winter of 1942-43 and during a cross country journey on the Atchison Topeka and Santa Fe Railway plus an extensive selection of his groundbreaking color images The introduction provides the most complete summary of Delano s life published to date Both railroad and photography enthusiasts will treasure this worthy tribute to one of the great photographers of the thirties and forties
