Deadly Force, Colonialism, and the Rule of Law Joan Mars, 2002-08-30 In post colonial countries such as Guyana the legacy of colonialism and its influence on policing and society is of crucial significance in developing an explanation for police violence and police caused homicide Mars applies a contextual approach grounded in the conflict theoretical perspective to explain and understand variations in police violence over time and she extends her study to include the social political and legal structure in which such actions are embedded Her findings support the notion that police violence is a function of decades of coercive state rule under British colonialism as well as the state's legitimization of violence in police work In this first study on police violence and homicide in Guyana Mars presents and analyzes data covering a 14 year period She also provides comparative and descriptive information on the use of excessive and deadly force by the police and in addition discusses laws relating to such incidents Mars finds little support for the community violence hypothesis in reference to Guyana and concludes instead that the level of violence in the community and the everyday dangers of police work does not significantly influence the rates of police caused homicide in that country

Hitler's Children Gerhard Rempel, 2015-07-15 Eighty two percent of German boys and girls between the ages of ten and eighteen belonged to Hitlerjugend Hitler Youth or one of its affiliates by the time membership became fully compulsory in 1939 These adolescents were recognized by the SS an exclusive cadre of Nazi zealots as a source of future recruits to its own elite ranks which were made up largely of men under the age of thirty In this book Gerhard Rempel examines the special relationship that developed between these two most youthful and dynamic branches of the National Socialist movement and concludes that the coalition gave nazism much of its passionate energy and contributed greatly to its initial political and military success Rempel centers his analysis of the HJ SS relationship on two branches of the Hitler Youth The first of these the Patrol Service was established as a juvenile police force to pursue ideological and social deviants political opponents and non conformists within the HJ and among German youth at large Under SS influence however membership in the organization became a preliminary apprenticeship for boys who would go on to be agents and soldiers in such SS controlled units as the Gestapo and Death's Head Formations. The second the Land Service was created by HJ to encourage a return to farm living. But this battle to reverse the flight from the land took on military significance as the SS sought to use the Land Service to create defense peasants who would provide a reliable food supply while defending the Fatherland. The transformation of the Patrol and Land services like that of the HJ generally served SS ends at the same time that it secured for the Nazi regime the practical and ideological support of Germany's youth. By fostering in the Hitler Youth as national community of the young the SS believed it could convert the popular movement of nazism into a protomilitary program to produce ideologically pure and committed soldiers and leaders who would keep the movement young and vital.

Post-Cold War Conflicts in Africa Augustine C. Ochanwe, 2009-07-31. During the Cold War ideological and politico-military rivalries mostly dictated the actions of the competing blocs including their involvement in foreign conflicts. In Africa for instance the East-West rivalry of the time not only fuelled conflicts but also appeared to undermine the use of diplomacy as a tool for peacemaking and conflict resolution. With the fall of the Berlin Wall in 1989 and the demise of the Soviet Union however there was a transformation of the conflict arena in the continent which presented new opportunities and threats. This therefore raises a fundamental question of how the end of the Cold War has affected the character of conflicts and their successful management in Africa. Using Liberia and Somalia as case studies Post Cold War Conflicts in Africa analyses how the post Cold War conflicts in these two countries and their management differed from what they would have been during the Cold War era. It shows for instance that while in Liberia the major powers appeared content to cede the management of the conflict to the sub-regional group ECOMOG in Somalia the conflict appeared to be turned into an arena for simple military experiment without any of the old Cold War ideological rivalries playing any role in its trajectory or management. The book argues that the end of the Cold War offers an opportunity for the successful use of a new approach to conflict management in the continent which would be anchored on traditional African diplomacy This new approach would involve a triumvirate of eminent men and women from the continent regional peacekeeping forces and the warring factions themselves working in concert to replace the rifle with talking till every one agrees
