Listening in the Language Classroom John Field,2009-01-22 This book challenges the orthodox approach to the teaching of second language listening which is based upon the asking and answering of comprehension questions The book s central argument is that a preoccupation with the notion of comprehension has led teachers to focus upon the product of listening in the form of answers to questions ignoring the listening process itself The author provides an informed account of the psychological processes which make up the skill of listening and analyses the characteristics of the speech signal from which listeners have to construct a message Drawing upon this information the book proposes a radical alternative to the comprehension approach and provides for intensive small scale practice in aspects of listening that are perceptually or cognitively demanding for the learner Listening in the Language Classroom was winner of the Ben Warren International Trust House Prize in 2008 Analysing Interactions in Childhood Hilary Gardner, Michael Forrester, 2009-12-01 Offers a fresh perspective on how conversation analysis can be used to highlight the sophisticated nature of what children actually do when interacting with their peers parents and other adults Brings together a contributor team of leading experts in the emerging field of child focused conversation analytic studies from both academic and professional research backgrounds Includes examples of typically developing children and those who face a variety of challenges to participation as they interact with parents and friends teachers counsellors and health professionals Encompasses linguistic psychological and sociological perspectives Offers new insights into children s communication as they move from home into wider society highlighting how this is expressed in different cultural contexts Popular Science ,1927-12 Popular Science gives our readers the information and tools to improve their technology and their world The core belief that Popular Science and our readers share The future is going to be better and science and technology are the driving forces that will help make it better John Angell James; a review of his history, character, eloquence, and literary labours John Campbell, 1860 John Angel James John Campbell, 1860
