Shackleton, Ashok K. Pandey, Tamara Ticktin, 2015-03-24 There is growing knowledge about and appreciation of the importance of Non timber Forest Products NTFPs to rural livelihoods in developing countries and to a lesser extent developed countries However there is also an assumption on the part of policy makers that any harvesting of wild animal or plant products from the forests and other natural and modified ecosystems must be detrimental to the long term viability of target populations and species This book challenges this idea and shows that while examples of such negative impacts certainly exist there are also many examples of sustainable harvesting systems for NTFPs The chapters review and present coherent and scientifically sound information and case studies on the ecologically sustainable use of NTFPs They also outline a general interdisciplinary approach for assessing the sustainability of NTFP harvesting systems at different scales A wide range of case studies is included from Africa Asia and South America using plant and animal products for food crafts textiles medicines and cosmetics Forests and Ecological History of Assam, 1826–2000 Arupjyoti Saikia, 2011-02-07 This book presents a comprehensive account of the transformation of Assam's forests and ecology from early nineteenth century to the end of the twentieth century It locates present day ecological conflicts in the colonial era when contest over forest land and resource began to take new shape Arupjyoti Saikia delineates how forest resources in Assam were mapped and intergrated with mechant capitalism since the early nineteenth century He shows how imperial forestry practices led to changes in traditional resource utilization patterns. The book also examines the political economy of conservation practices It explores the question of law and conservation role of institutions and organizations and the changing role of the forests in imperial economy The book argues how the making of forest policy in the postcolonial period was defind by the complexities of the political matrix It discusses plantation silvicultural practices protection and regeneration of forests and livlihood practices The author also analyses public debates surrounding ecology and environmental changes in conservation practices after the 1980 Act China, India, and East and Southeast Asia: Assessing Sustainability Ray C. Anderson, Sam Geall, Jingjing Liu, Sony Pellissery, E. N. Anderson, Joel R. Campbell, Joanna I. Lewis, Muhammad Aurang Zeb Mughal, Mark Wilson, 2012-11-01 China India and East and Southeast Asia Assessing Sustainability provides unprecedented analyses by regional experts and scholars elsewhere in the world on China India and their neighbors Despite growing demands internally on their natural resources China and India alone are home to more than one third of the world's population the expanding global economic influence of this region makes these countries vital players in a sustainable future for all citizens of the Earth Regional coverage includes topics such as business and commerce environmental and corporate law and lifestyles and values Deforesting the Earth Michael Williams, 2003 Clearing in the deep past Reaching out europe and the wider world The global forest Environment and Empire William Beinart, Lotte Hughes, 2007-10-11 European imperialism was extraordinarily far reaching a key global historical process of the last 500 years It locked disparate human societies together over a wider area than any previous imperial expansion it underpinned the repopulation of the Americas and Australasia it was the precursor of globalization as we now understand it Imperialism was inseparable from the history of global environmental change Metropolitan countries sought raw materials of all kinds from timber and furs to rubber and oil They established sugar plantations that transformed island ecologies Settlers introduced new methods of farming and displaced indigenous peoples Colonial cities many of which became great conurbations fundamentally changed relationships between people and nature Consumer cultures the internal combustion engine and pollution are now ubiquitous Environmental history deals with the reciprocal interaction between people and other elements in the natural world and this book illustrates the diverse environmental themes in the history of empire Initially concentrating on the material factors that shaped empire and environmental change Environment and Empire discusses the way in which British consumers and manufacturers sucked in resources that were gathered hunted fished mined and farmed Yet it is also clear that British settler and colonial states sought to regulate the use of natural resources as well as commodify them Conservation aimed to preserve resources by exclusion as in wildlife parks and forests and to quarantee efficient use of soil and water Exploring these linked themes of exploitation and conservation this study concludes with a focus on political reassertions by colonised peoples over natural resources In a post imperial age they have found a

Environmental History in the Pacific World J.R. McNeill, 2022-03-01 This volume brings together a set of key articles from the last 30 years pertaining to the environmental history of the Pacific basin It aims to treat the islands and waters of the Pacific as well as the lands around the Rim from New Zealand to Japan to California to Chile and is the first work of environmental history to take this inclusive view of the Pacific basin The focus is mainly on recent centuries but as environmental history requires at times the work also takes the very long view of millennia Several of the articles seek to bring a broad Pacific perspective to bear on their subjects while others use Pacific basin examples to try to establish broader theoretical points of interest to all who are drawn to the study of the interactions between nature and culture The book includes a bibliography of Pacific basin environmental history and an introduction that aims to sketch the contours and possible future directions of the field Under Osman's Tree Alan Mikhail, 2017-03-13 The early modern Middle East was a crucial zone of connection between Europe and the Mediterranean world on the one hand and South Asia the Indian Ocean and sub Saharan Africa on the other Accordingly global trade climate and disease both affected and were affected by what was happening in the Middle East's many environments. The trans territorial and trans temporal character of environmental history helps shed new light on the history of the region and Alan Mikhail's latest tackles major topics in environmental history natural resource management climate human and animal labor water control disease and the politics of nature It also reveals how one of the world's most important religious traditions Islam has related to the natural world. This is a model book that sets the course for Middle East environmental history Environmentalism in Central and Southeastern Europe Hrvoje Petric, Ivana Žebec Šilj, 2017-03-17 Consisting of 12 chapters the book presents the rise and development of environmentalism environmental history as a discipline and the history of environmental movements in the Central and South Eastern European region from an international point of view The chapters written by scholars from Italy Austria Slovenia Croatia Slovakia Romania Serbia Greece and Turkey cover a wide range of topics including the creation of protected areas increasing environmental consciousness the evolution of humanity s relationship toward the environment and perceptions of environmentalism by different disciplines This international approach highlights the region s complex development from the end of the eighteenth century through the twentieth century with its unique blend of traditions Three historically different traditions the Habsburg Ottoman and Venetian converge in Central and South Eastern Europe and this book emphasizes the subtleties of these sometimes intertwined traditions The focus of the book varies according to both the different geographical environments characteristic of the region and the protagonists who actively participated in changing relationships toward the environment However what does not vary and is common to all the chapters is the historical approach since the process has continuity which the book accentuates In geographical terms the region that is the focus of the book Central and South Eastern Europe is the contact zone of the Alps Danube Adriatic and partially the North Eastern Mediterranean Sea Throughout history it was also the contact zone of the Habsburg Ottoman and Venetian traditions Those realities have resulted in a unique blending and intertwining of traditions and therefore relationships with and perceptions of the The Nature of Empire Andrea Duffy, 2025-09-15 The Nature of Empire exposes the central role of modern environment imperialism in the development of contemporary environmentalism and environmental science It builds this case through an investigation of five major modern empires Britain France Russia the Ottoman Empire and Japan This book offers readers a global environmental history of modern imperialism that actively engages Western based and non Western based empires As this study shows imperialism ultimately transformed human perceptions of nature and the environment in significant lasting and conflicting ways It both inspired modern conservationist practices and fueled opposition to environmental policies in colonial contexts It also spurred the development of climate science which helped reveal the environmental toll of imperial exploitation and drive efforts to fight it The environmental and political legacies of empire remain evident today through unmitigated anthropogenic climate change and the increasing incidence of extreme weather which tends to disproportionately impact marginalized peoples This book stands as a useful and accessible resource for students scholars and all those seeking to better understand environmental history imperial legacies and the roots of contemporary climate challenges
