

Australia's animals because Australia has been cut off from the rest of the world for over 100 million years, it has very unusual animals. Almost all its mammals are marsupials (mammals with pouches). There are over 150 kinds of Australian marsupials from tiny marsupial mice and moles to marsupial cats. Outside Australia marsupials are only found in South America with just one species in North America.

Honey possum

The honey possum, or toolbenger, of Western Australia, is about the size of a mouse. It has a special way of eating nectar and pollen. Its long tongue is covered in bristles with a tip like a tiny brush. Pollen sticks to the brush as it feeds.

Madagascar is a huge island off the east coast of Africa. It is bigger than France. About 30 million years ago it came separated from Africa. Nine-tenths of the island's animals and plants are found nowhere else in the world. Its most famous animals are lemurs which are related to monkeys and apes.

DID YOU KNOW?

The sportive lemur gets its name because, if attacked, it rains down like a boxer and punches its enemy. It feeds on some tree flowers. The tree is covered in sharp spikes but the lemur does not seem to hurt itself as it leaps from stem to stem.

Roaring chorus

The indri, the largest of the lemurs, lives mostly high up in the tree tops. It uses sound to scare away enemies and call its young. Every morning and evening, families of indris break into wailing songs. Each indri joins in at a different time so the strange chorus may last for many minutes.

Sun worship

Silakas, or white lemurs, start off each day by lying in the sun for an hour or so. They climb to a tree top and face the sun with their arms outstretched. They do this to warm themselves up after a cool night but local people believed that the lemurs were worshipping the sun.

Fat store

Dwarf lemurs are amongst the smallest of the lemurs. The fat-tailed dwarf lemur eats insects, leaves and sap. During the rainy season it builds up a fat store under its skin and in its tail. It lives off this supply in the dry season when food is scarce.

Tenrecs

Another group of mammals found only in Madagascar are tenrecs. There are about 20 species of these small insect-eaters. Some have bristly coats like hedgehogs, others have fur. The common tenrec is the largest insect-eater in Madagascar. It may be as much as 40 cm (16 in) long, about the same size as a cat.

Gregory Garvey, 2001-01-01 This gathering of eleven original essays with a substantive introduction brings the traditional image of Emerson the Transcendentalist face to face with an emerging image of Emerson the reformer The Emerson Dilemma highlights the conflict between Emerson s philosophical attraction to solitary contemplation and the demands of activism compelled by the logic of his own writings The essays cover Emerson s reform thought and activism from his early career as a Unitarian minister through his reaction to the Civil War In addition to Emerson s antislavery position the collection covers his complex relationship to the early women s rights movement and American Indian removal Individual essays also compare Emerson s reform ethics with those of his wife Lidian Jackson Emerson his aunt Mary Moody Henry David Thoreau John Brown and Margaret Fuller The Emerson who emerges from this volume is one whose Transcendentalism is explicitly politicized thus we see him consciously mediating between the opposing forces of the world he thought and the world in which he lived in 1980 Natural Law and Natural Rights is widely heralded as a seminal contribution to the philosophy of law and an authoritative restatement of natural law doctrine. It has offered generations of students and other readers a thorough grounding in the central issues of legal, moral and political philosophy from Finnis's distinctive perspective. This new edition includes a substantial postscript by the author in which he responds to thirty years of discussion, criticism and further work in the field to develop and refine the original theory. The book closely integrates the philosophy of law with ethics, social theory and political philosophy. The author develops a sustained and substantive argument; it is not a review of other people's arguments but makes frequent illustrative and critical reference to classical, modern and contemporary writers in ethics, social and political theory and jurisprudence. The preliminary First Part reviews a century of analytical jurisprudence to illustrate the dependence of every descriptive social science upon evaluations by the theorist. A fully critical basis for such evaluations is a theory of natural law. Standard contemporary objections to natural law theory are reviewed and shown to rest on serious misunderstandings. The Second Part develops in ten carefully structured chapters an account of basic human goods and basic requirements of practical reasonableness, community and the common good, justice, the logical structure of rights, the bases of human rights, their specification and their limits, authority and the formation of authoritative rules by non-authoritative persons and procedures, law, the Rule of Law and the derivation of laws from the principles of practical reasonableness, the complex relation between legal and moral obligation and the practical and theoretical problems created by unjust laws. A final Part develops a vigorous argument about the relation between natural law, natural theology and revelation between moral concern and other ultimate questions.

The Sources of Necessity Tobias Wilsch, 2025-03-23

It is a currently popular view that essences, laws and logic are among the grounds of necessity and possibility. Another such idea relates essences, laws and logic closely to causal explanations and to non-causal grounding explanations. The Sources of Necessity combines those tenets within the view that certain phenomena establish explanations because they exert necessity, a modal force on the facts. In form of a slogan, the explanatory phenomena are the sources of necessity. The book investigates this idea and it argues that essences, laws and logic are the sources of necessity. The investigation contains two different strands: one pertaining to explanation and one to necessity. In the first strand, The Sources of Necessity uses different ways of exerting necessity to analyse the explanatory behaviour of essences, laws and logic. It investigates the governance of natural laws, the interplay of essences and logic in the generation of absolute necessity and the existence and nature of metaphysical laws. The second strand concerns the nature of necessity. It is argued that necessity is primitive and that there are several equally fundamental species of necessity. Two particularly thorny questions about necessity that arise from these insights are: Why are the sources of necessity themselves necessary? and Why are different kinds of necessity ordered by strength? The book develops a rationalist view to answer those questions. It says that contingent reality is the result of a cosmogenic sequence that unfolds from essences and logic through the other sources all the way to the contingent facts.
