Herr, 2007-04-13 This is an important historical period in which to develop communication models aimed at creating opportunities for citizens to find a voice for new experiences and social concerns Such basic social problems as inequality poverty and discrimination pose a constant challenge to policies that serve the health and income needs of children families people with disabilities and the elderly Important changes both in individual values and civic life are occurring in the United States and in many other nations Recent trends such as the globalization of commerce and consumer values the speed and personalization of communication technologies and an economic realignment of industrial and information based economies are often regarded as negative Yet there are many signs from the WTO experience in Seattle to the rise of global activism aimed at making biotechnology accountable that new forms of citizenship politics and

C. H. Keskitalo, 2024-06-12 Combining historical social and regulative analysis this book builds a compelling critique of frontier thinking as it continues to form our assumptions about social and environmental organisation in ways that impact not least the present environmental crisis This book systematically identifies the ways in which images of nature and society are formed by the historically developed frontier oriented narratives which have underpinned much Anglo American and Anglocentric thought The book confronts these conceptions at large showing that they never held empirically and contrasts them with the situation in northern Europe where diverging assumptions are integral to this day Through this juxtaposition this book illustrates not only the pervasiveness of structures of understanding in steering policy but also the varying traditions regarding how understandings of the environment can be formed This study highlights how historical thought patterns formed for very different reasons than exist today continue to shape our assumptions about nature the relation between urban and rural areas and our understanding of ourselves in relation to the environment This book will be of wide interest to a range of academics and students in the fields of geography anthropology environmental studies sociology political science and development studies amongst others The Open Access version of this book available at <http://www.taylorfrancis.com> has been made available under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives CC BY NC ND 4.0 license

The Nature of Politics Annette A. LaRocco, 2024-04-16 This case study of Botswana focuses on the state building qualities of biodiversity conservation in southern Africa Drawing on extensive fieldwork Annette A LaRocco argues that discourses and practices related to biodiversity conservation are essential to state building in the postcolonial era These discourses and practices invoke the ways the state exerts authority over people places and resources enacts and remakes territorial control crafts notions of ideal citizenship and identity and structures economic relationships at the local national and global levels The book's key innovation is its conceptualization of the conservation estate a term most often used as an apolitical descriptor denoting land set aside for the purpose of conservation LaRocco argues that this description is inadequate and proposes a novel and much needed alternative definition that is tied to its political elements The components of conservation control over land policing of human behavior and structuring of the authority that allows or disallows certain subjectivities render conservation a political phenomenon that can be analyzed separately from considerations of nature or wildlife In doing so it addresses a gap in the scholarship of rural African politics which focuses overwhelmingly on productive agrarian dynamics and often fails to recognize that land nonuse can be as politically significant and wide reaching as land use Botswana is an ideal empirical case study upon which to base these theoretical claims With 39 percent of its land set aside for conservation Botswana is home to large populations of wildlife particularly charismatic megafauna such as the largest herd of elephants on the continent Utilizing more than two hundred interviews participant observation and document analysis this book examines a series of conservation policies and their reception by people living on the conservation estate These phenomena include securitized antipoaching enforcement a national hunting ban 2014-19 restrictions on using wildlife products forced evictions from conservation areas limitations on mobility and freedom of movement the political economy of Botswana's wildlife tourism industry and the conservation of globally important charismatic megafauna species      Financial crises and the nature of capitalist money Jocelyn Pixley, 2013-09-12 This volume is a debate about a sociology and economics of money a form of positive trespassing It is unique in being written by scholars of both disciplines committed to this mutual venture and in starting from the original groundwork laid by Geoffrey Ingham The contributors look critically at money's institutions and the meanings and history of money creation and show the cross cutting purposes or incommensurable sides of money and its crises These arise from severe tensions and social conflicts about the production of money and its many purposes We demonstrate the centrality of money to capitalism and consider social disorders since the 2007 crisis which marks the timeliness and need for dialogue Both disciplines have far too much to offer to remain in the former damaging standoff While we are thankful to see a possible diminution of this split remnants are maintained by mainstream economic and sociological theorists who after all the crises of the past 30 years and many before still hold to an argument that money really does not matter We suggest to many different and interested audiences that since money is a promise understanding this social relation must be a joint though plural task between economics and sociology at the very least      Catalogue of the University of Dakota for the Year ..., with Announcements for the Year ... University of South Dakota, 1903
