Private efforts served as models for federal programs instituted by New Deal administrators. Historian Jennifer McLerran details how federal officials developed programs such as the Southwest Range and Sheep Breeding Laboratory at Fort Wingate in New Mexico and the Navajo Arts and Crafts Guild. Other federal efforts included the publication of Native natural dye recipes, the publication of portfolios of weaving designs to guide artisans, and the education of consumers through the exhibition of weavings, aiding them in their purchases and cultivating an upscale market. McLerran details how government officials sought to use these programs to bring the Din into the national economy; instead, these federal tactics were ineffective because they marginalized Navajo women and ignored the important role weaving plays in the resilience and endurance of wider Din culture.

Indigenous Women and Work Carol Williams, 2012-10-30. The essays in Indigenous Women and Work create a transnational and comparative dialogue on the history of the productive and reproductive lives and circumstances of Indigenous women from the late nineteenth century to the present in the United States, Australia, New Zealand, Aotearoa, and Canada. Surveying the spectrum of Indigenous women's lives and circumstances as workers, both waged and unwaged, the contributors offer varied perspectives on the ways women's work has contributed to the survival of communities in the face of ongoing tensions between assimilation and colonization. They also interpret how individual nations have conceived of Indigenous women as workers and in turn convert these assumptions and definitions into policy and practice. The essays address the intersection of Indigenous women's and labor history but will also be useful to contemporary policy makers, tribal activists, and Native American women's advocacy associations. Southwest Weaving Stefani Salkeld, San Diego Museum of Man, 1996. A catalog for a traveling exhibition of Native American folk art presents and describes hand-woven textiles from the Pueblo, Navajo, and New Mexico Hispanic village cultures.

Navajo Weavers of the American Southwest Peter Hiller, Ann Lane Hedlund, Ramona Sakiestewa, 2018-10-08. From the mid-17th century to the present day, herding, sheep carding, wool spinning, yarn dyeing with native plants, and weaving on iconic upright looms have all been steps in the intricate process of Navajo blanket and rug making in the American Southwest. Beginning in the late 1800s, amateur and professional photographers documented the Din Navajo weavers and their artwork, and the images they captured tell the stories of the artists, their homes, and the materials, techniques, and designs they used. Many postcards illustrate popular interest surrounding weaving as an indigenous art form, even as economic, social, and political realities influenced the craft. These historical pictures illuminate perceived traditional weaving practices. The authors' accompanying narratives deepen the perspective and relate imagery to modern life.

Diné Peter Iverson, 2002-08-28. This comprehensive narrative traces the history of the Navajos from their origins to the beginning of the twenty first century Based on extensive archival research traditional accounts interviews historic and contemporary photographs and firsthand observation it provides a detailed up to date portrait of the Din past and present that will be essential for scholars students and interested general readers both Navajo and non Navajo As Iverson points out Navajo identity is rooted in the land bordered by the four sacred mountains At the same time the Navajos have always incorporated new elements new peoples and new ways of doing things The author explains how the Din remember past promises recall past sacrifices and continue to build upon past achievements to construct and sustain North America s largest native community Provided is a concise and provocative analysis of Navajo origins and their relations with the Spanish with other Indian communities and with the first Anglo Americans in the Southwest Following an insightful account of the traumatic Long Walk era and of key developments following the return from exile at Fort Sumner the author considers the major themes and events of the twentieth century including political leadership livestock reduction the Code Talkers schools health care government economic development the arts and athletics Monty Roessel Navajo an outstanding photographer is Executive Director of the Rough Rock Community School He has written and provided photographs for award winning books for young people

Blanket Weaving in the Southwest Joe Ben Wheat, 2022-06-21 Exquisite blankets sarapes and ponchos handwoven by southwestern peoples are admired throughout the world Despite many popularized accounts serious gaps have existed in our understanding of these textiles gaps that one man devoted years of scholarly attention to address During much of his career anthropologist Joe Ben Wheat 1916 1997 earned a reputation as a preeminent authority on southwestern and plains prehistory Beginning in 1972 he turned his scientific methods and considerable talents to historical questions as well He visited dozens of museums to study thousands of nineteenth century textiles oversaw chemical tests of dyes from hundreds of yarns and sought out obscure archives to research the material and documentary basis for textile development His goal was to establish a key for southwestern textile identification based on the traits that distinguish the Pueblo Navajo

and Spanish American blanket weaving traditions and thereby provide a better way of identifying and dating pieces of unknown origin Wheat's years of research resulted in a masterful classification scheme for southwestern textiles and a book that establishes an essential baseline for understanding craft production Nearly completed before Wheat's death Blanket Weaving in the Southwest describes the evolution of southwestern textiles from the early historic period to the late nineteenth century establishes a revised chronology for its development and traces significant changes in materials techniques and designs Wheat first relates what Spanish observers learned about the state of native weaving in the region a historical review that reveals the impact of new technologies and economies on a traditional craft Subsequent chapters deal with fibers yarns dyes and fabric structures including an unprecedented examination of the nature variety and origins of bayeta yarns and with tools weaves and finishing techniques A final chapter constructed by editor Ann Hedlund from Wheat's notes provides clues to his evolving ideas about the development of textile design Hedlund herself a respected textile scholar and a protégé of Wheat's is uniquely qualified to interpret the many notes he left behind and brings her own understanding of weaving to every facet of the text She has ensured that Wheat's research is applicable to the needs of scholars collectors and general readers alike Throughout the text Wheat discusses and evaluates the distinct traits of the three textile traditions More than 200 photos demonstrate these features including 191 color plates depicting a vast array of chief blankets shoulder blankets ponchos sarapes diyugi mantas and dresses from museum collections nationwide In addition dozens of line drawings demonstrate the fine points of technique concerning weaves edge finishes and corner tassels Through his groundbreaking and painstaking research Wheat created a new view of southwestern textile history that goes beyond any other book on the subject Blanket Weaving in the Southwest addresses a host of unresolved issues in textile research and provides critical tools for resolving them It is an essential resource for anyone who appreciates the intricacy of these outstanding creations

Swept Under the Rug Kathy M'Closkey, 2002 Debunks the romanticist stereotyping of Navajo weavers and Reservation traders and situates weavers within the economic history of the southwest      North American Indian Anthropology Raymond J. DeMallie, Alfonso Ortiz, 1994 These essays explore the blending of structural and historical approaches to American Indian anthropology that characterizes the perspective developed by the late Fred Eggan and his students at the University of Chicago They include studies of kinship and social organization politics religion law ethnicity and art Many reflect Eggan's method of controlled comparison a tool for reconstructing social and cultural change over time Together these essays make substantial descriptive contributions to American Indian anthropology presenting contemporary interpretations of diverse groups from the Hudson Bay Inuit in the north to the Highland Maya of Chiapas in the south The collection will serve as an introduction to Native American social and cultural anthropology for readers interested in the dynamics of Indian social life      Traders, Agents, and Weavers Robert S. McPherson, 2020-03-12 For travelers passing through northern Navajo country the desert landscape appears desolate The few remaining Navajo trading posts once famous for their bustling commerce seem unimpressive Yet a closer look at the economic and creative activity in this region which straddles northeastern Arizona northwestern New Mexico and southeastern Utah belies a far more interesting picture In Traders Agents and Weavers Robert S McPherson unveils the fascinating and at times surprising history of the merging of cultures and artistic innovation across this land McPherson the author of numerous books on Navajo and southwestern history narrates here the story of Navajo economic and cultural development through the testimonies of traders government agents tribal leaders and accomplished weavers For the first half of the twentieth century trading posts dominated the Navajo economy in northwestern New Mexico McPherson highlights the Two Grey Hills post and its sister posts Toadlena and Newcomb which encouraged excellence among weavers and sold high quality rugs and blankets Parallel to the success of the trading industry was the establishment of the Northern Navajo or Shiprock Agency and Boarding School The author explains the pivotal influence on the area of the agency's stern and controversial founder William T Shelton known by Navajos as Tall Leader Through cooperation with government agents American settlers and traders Navajo weavers not only succeeded financially but also developed their own artistic crafts Shunning the use of brightly dyed yarn and opting for the natural colors of sheep's wool these weavers primarily women developed an intricate style that has few rivals Eventually economic shifts including oil drilling and livestock reduction eroded the traditional Navajo way of life and led to the collapse of the trading post system Nonetheless as McPherson emphasizes Navajo weavers have maintained their distinctive style and method of production to this day

Weaving Arts Of The North American Indian Frederick Dockstader, 1993 A comprehensive survey of American Indian weaving examines all aspects of the textile artistry and techniques of the native peoples of North America including information on looms and dyeing weaving technology and design aesthetics collecting and preserving Indian weavings and more

The Carpet and Upholstery Trade Review and the Furniture Trade Review and Interior Decorator, 1924

Ethnographic Feminisms Lynne Patricia Phillips, 1995 This significant new study contains the work of anthropologists engaged in doing research on gender The editors argue for the creation of an ethnography based feminism that at the same time pays heed to what women in specific circumstances identify as their concerns and also recognizes contradictions inherent in the goals of a feminist anthropology These essays grapple with a range of awkward issues including feminism in international contexts the invisibility of women's working lives and the problems of voice and ethnographic representation Referring to a variety of ethnographic contexts and working from diverse perspectives the contributors examine the multiple dilemmas and conflicts of gender and power A volume which will not only constitute a significant contribution to the social sciences literature both theoretically and substantively but will also place Canadian feminist anthropology on the cutting edge of global feminist anthropology I strongly recommend it Valda Blundell Carleton University

Ethnographic Feminisms Sally Cole, 1995-05-15 This book is written by anthropologists who are currently engaged in research on gender The editors argue for the development of an ethnography based feminism that both pays heed to what women in specific circumstances identify as their concerns and recognizes the contradictions inherent in the goals of feminist anthropology. The essays consider a range of awkward issues including feminism in international contexts, the invisibility of women's working lives and the problems of voice and ethnographic representation. Referring to a variety of ethnographic contexts and working from diverse perspectives, the contributors examine the multiple dilemmas and conflicts of gender and power.
