Intercultural Dialogue Christiane Timmerman, Barbara Segaeert, 2007-09 In a world society ruled by economic globalisation by political interests and theories such as Huntington's clash of civilisations that widen the gap between the North and the South the question should be asked of the role of the religion To what extent religion and politics can work together Can faith still be thought as a means of saving the world Considering that Christianity Islam and Judaism have much in common this collection of miscellanies wonders if these religions can join their forces for public benefit Senior and junior scholars from all over the world gathered for an interdisciplinary seminar analyse the contemporary international relationships and geopolitics through the prism of religion discussing whether it can provide practical solutions to solve conflicts and increase the respect of human rights

Brooks, 2006-01-26 This handbook gathers into one volume the current scientific theory clinical guidelines and real world interventions that can help children overcome the everyday obstacles they face It includes a wide range of perspectives addressing the role of resilience in helping children overcome these obstacles

Schools and Public Health Michael Gard,Carolyn Pluim,2014-06-18 Schools and Public Health is a meditation on the past present and future of the relationship between public health and American public schools Gard and Pluim begin by developing a historical account of the way schools have been used in the public health policy arena in America They then look in detail at more contemporary examples of school based public health policies and initiatives in order to come to a judgment about whether and to what extent it makes sense to use schools in this way With this as the foundation the book then offers answers to the question of why schools have so readily been drawn into public health policy formulations First seeing schools as a kind of miracle factory is a long standing habit of mind that discourages careful consideration of alternative public health strategies Second schools have been implicated in public health policy in strategic ways by actors often with unstated political cultural ideological and financial motivations Finally the authors call for a more sophisticated approach to public health policy in schools and suggest some criteria for judging the potential efficacy of school based interventions In short the potential effectiveness of proposed interventions needs to be assessed not only against existing historical evidence but also against the competing roles society expects schools to play and the working life realities for those charged with implementing public health policies in schools Understanding and Preventing Teacher Burnout Roland Vandenberghe,A.
