Village Life in Ancient Egypt A. G. McDowell, 1999-10-15 Deir el Medina the village of the workmen who built the royal tombs in the Valley of the Kings is a uniquely rich source of information about life in Egypt between 1539 and 1075 BC The abundant archaeological remains are complemented by tens of thousands of texts documenting the thoughts and activities of the villagers Many of the texts are written on papyrus but most are on flakes of limestone which being free and readily available were used for even the most casual and temporary of records They include private letters administrative accounts magic spells records of purchases last wills and testaments laundry lists and love songs The value of these rare glimpses of daily life is greatly enhanced by the concentration of texts in one time and place This book combines translations of over 200 of these texts spanning the entire range of preserved genres with stunning illustrations The reader will therefore be able to experience the life of the villagers through their own words whilst viewing places known to each individual writer Each text is introduced by a commentary that provides the context and explains the contribution each text makes to our understanding of Egyptian society at this period

Women in Ancient Egypt Mariam F. Ayad, 2022-11-15 Cutting edge research by twenty four international scholars on female power agency health and literacy in ancient Egypt There has been considerable scholarship in the last fifty years on the role of ancient Egyptian women in society With their ability to work outside the home inherit and dispense of property initiate divorce testify in court and serve in local government Egyptian women exercised more legal rights and economic independence than their counterparts throughout antiquity Yet their agency and autonomy are often downplayed undermined or outright ignored In Women in Ancient Egypt twenty four international scholars offer a corrective to this view by presenting the latest cutting edge research on women and gender in ancient Egypt Covering the entirety of Egyptian history from earliest times to Late Antiquity this volume commences with a thorough study of the earliest written evidence of Egyptian women both royal and non royal before moving on to chapters that deal with various aspects of Egyptian queens followed by studies on the legal status and economic roles of non royal women and finally on women's health and body adornment Within this sweeping chronological range each study is intensely focused on the evidence recovered from a particular site or a specific time period Rather than following a strictly chronological arrangement the thematic organization of chapters enables readers to discern diachronic patterns of continuity and change within each group of women
