

Radiation Protection : Time 、 Distance 、 Shielding

To minimize the hazards arising from these radiation sources. The entire system of radiation safety in NSRRC was based on three principles of radiation protection: use of shielding to diminish the radiation intensity, increased distance from the radiation source, and limited duration of radiation exposure.

Radiation Protection Optimization:

Optimization of Radiation Protection in the Control of Occupational Exposure International Atomic Energy Agency, 2002
This Safety Report provides practical information on the application of the principle of the optimization of radiation protection in the workplace. It emphasizes the importance of integrating radiation protection into the work management system and of the involvement of management and workers alike in setting up and implementing a radiation protection system.

Operational Radiation Protection International Atomic Energy Agency, 1990. The purpose of this publication is to provide practical guidance on the application of the dose limitation system contained in the Basic Safety Standards for Radiation Protection Safety Series No 9 to operational situations both in large nuclear installations and in much smaller facilities with special reference to the principles of optimization. It supersedes Safety Series No 13.

Optimization of Radiation Protection International Atomic Energy Agency, 1986

Ionizing Radiation Protection and Dosimetry Guy Paic, 1988-01-31. This guidebook explores the basics of the interaction of radiation with matter both from the physical and chemical aspects and the relation to biological effects. Calculations of absorbed doses and dose equivalent and ways to minimize exposure and optimization of radiation protection in light of the latest international recommendations are discussed and examples are shown. Frequently used dosimeters, radiation detectors with an emphasis on TL and chemical dosimeters and the dosimetry of fast neutron beams with special attention to medical uses in neutron therapy are discussed. The latest data on exposure resulting from natural and man-made sources in the environment is also covered.

Radiation Protection Optimization. Present Experience and Methods, 1981

Radiation Protection Gyoujin Cho, 2013-10-02. Radiation Protection A Systematic Approach to Safety is a collection of papers that deals with the control management and prevention of toxic agents. One paper presents design measures evaluated in a balanced program as a practicable method to lessen occupational radiation exposure. Another paper cites the radiation protection aspects practiced in the decommissioning of the Fuel Reprocessing Plant at Trombay which was designed to chemically process irradiated nuclear fuel. One paper describes a methodology to evaluate a collective dose of exposure through different routes following the release of radioactive material into the atmosphere. These routes include 1. inhalation of the material from the initial cloud or that arising from the ground 2. external irradiation from radioactive decay of the material in the cloud or in the air 3. and as ingestion of radionuclides transferred through the food chain. One paper compares the chemical and radiation hazards to man using an analytical model based on radiation biological concepts at the molecular level to show the effects of other agents. The analytical model is also capable of predicting that a synergistic interaction between two different mutagenic agents can occur at the molecular level. The collection will prove useful for nuclear physicists and scientists, occupational health professionals and researchers in the field of nuclear medicine and engineering.
